MORE SUNSHINE in the strike news yesterday. A truce, made at the request of the President, postponed the walkout in the automobile industry. The railroads, also thanks to the President's intervention, have abadoned their plan to cut deeper into the wages of employes following the end of the present agreement. Wages are already cut 10 per cent under the present agreement.

At least there will be temporary peace, an interval for newborn little prosperity to get on its tottering legs.

VARIOUS QUESTIONS confront business men and the "best minds," the latter, temporarily, in retirement.

How will the country pay off thirty-five thousand million dollars in bonded indebtedness which it will have accumulated by the end of the year? How will it pay off the additional thirty-five thousand millions in interest, a total of seventy thousand million dollars?

This question is asked not "by some wild-eyed newspaper man," but by one of the most able bankers in the United States. The Nation will pay somehow. It always does. It made good the three hundred millions of greenbacks that Salmon P. Chase put out, accompanied with howls and wailings, and followed by Black Friday, when Lincoln had to have money for the Civil War. That was inflation, temporarily, but it enabled Lincoln to fight out the Civil War. Uncle Sam will pay the seventy thousand millions, half for necessities, half for stupid, unnecessary interest, in some way. But it will not be easy.

ANOTHER QUESTION: How, and when, if ever, will banks begin lending money? Banks allowed to print currency by paying half of one per cent to the government, and lend it legally on a six to eight per cent basis in different states, are actually cancelling their currency issues, telling the government they don't want the money because they can't lend it, and want to save the half of one per cent. "Call money," which means money that you must pay back whenever the frightened lender wants it, can be borrowed in New York, as many hundred millions as you choose, on a one per cent interest basis. Money is a drug in the market, everybody is hard up, business stagnant.

UNLESS ONE of the numerous initial creations of the Government came to your aid, you could no more undertake a big constructive work in the United States today, than you could build a Tower of Babel to reach one of the "outside universes" 1,000,000,000,000 light years distant.

What is our real condition? Have we discovered a new philosopher's stone, or are we like the Frenchman who fell from the tenth story, and said cheerfully, as he passed the window of the fifth, "It is all right, if it only lasts."

A RESTAURANT advertises for "the most attractive waitress, with red hair. Ideal working conditions, NRA wages and hours. Only girls with striking personality considered, preferably 5 ft. 6 ins. in height, 118 pounds in weight." An intelligent advertisement, although the best type of young lady with red hair weighs more than 118 pounds.

Red hair is interesting and impressive, for reasons that go far back. It indicates strong heredity. Reclus tells you that your nordic ancestors of a million years ago, chased into icy water by the wounded, angry mammoth, were covered with red hair from head to foot. Those that retain red hair are strong types, just as those that retain power to move their scalps and ears are stronger types racially than those in whom the use of the necessary muscles have died out.

A waitress with red hair, weighing 125 pounds up to 18 years of age, and 135 pounds from 25 to 35 years of age, should improve the business of any restaurant, and make a good wife for any intelligent customer.

JOHN F. MULLANEY, of Colorado Springs, wishing to enter his antique 1898 automobile at a fair, asked a tire manufacturer for a set of tires. He gave up the fair when told that one set of tires would cost him sixteen thousand dollars, because new mechanical equipment would be necessary to make them.

This reminds you that, but for mass production, skillful work of engineers and builders, and the gigantic market that low prices have created, the automobile that you buy for less than a thousand dollars could not be built and sold for less than ten thousand dollars. Let us not be in a hurry to discard modern methods, and go back to the good old plan of one workman completing the whole job, as he used to make a wagon in a wheelwright shop.

SIXTEEN ARE arrested in the Paris spy ring. The spies, including two Americans who have confessed, and will, doubtless, enjoy a prolonged residence in a French prison, were spying on military secrets of France, England and the United States, paid by Russia and Germany, according to police.

England and France may have military secrets worth while, but hiring spies to tell about the United States is waste of money. Anybody can come here openly and discover that we have an inadequate navy, don't even know that the battleship is out of date, and are spending tens of millions repairing old ones; that we haven't an adequate

HUNT VOLPE IN JURY 'FIX' ATTEMPT

2 Men, Woman Held As Ban Box Trial Comes to Halt

Louis Volpe, brother of the three Volpes killed in a gang war, and a woman were sought today as county althorities moved speedily to nip in the bud an attempt to fix the jury in the Ban Box bombing case.

Two men and a woman were detained. District Attorney Andrew T. Park said informations would be made against the men.

County Detective Frank Ritz said Volpe was wanted for questioning. He was in the corridor near the courtroom this morning, but left when Ritz began rounding up suspects in connection with the "fix," Ritz said.

WITNESS GUARDED

The state's star witness in the trial of Joseph Rosa, 34, of Penn Township, was lodged in jail to protect him from reprisal. The witness testified Rosa left the Ban Box, an East Liberty cabaret, shortly before a bomb exploded in it last May 29.

Two women jurors, both of McKeesport, informed Judge W. Heber Dithrich and Visiting Judge S. L. Reed, the trial judge, they were told last night they would be "taken care of" if they held out for Rosa's acquittal.

After the "fix" attempet was reported, Judge Reed declared a mistrial and Rosa was jailed.

The men and woman being detained are Charles J. Chancel, 114 Second street, Trafford City; Adolph Lilli, 1208 Stanton avenue, New Kensington, and Josephine Wilson, Grandview Inn, East McKeesport.

Ritz said Volpe was talking to the woman in the Court House corridor this morning, but she denied any knowledge of the "fix" attempt.

Detective Ritz said Chancel was identified as the man who, accompanied by the woman being sought, approached the two jurors. Lilli was identified as the driver of an automobile that took Chancel and the woman to the jurors' homes, according to Ritz.

REPORTED BY JURORS

The jurors who reported the "fix" attempt are Mrs. Mary Brieck, of 450 Atlantic avenue, and Mrs. Sylvia Young, 225 Erie street, both in McKeesport.

Mrs. Brieck said Chancel told her she would be paid if she held out for Rosa's acquittal and Mrs. Young said Chancel's woman companion made a similar offer to her, according to Ritz.

Testimony in the trial was completed this morning and District Attorney Andrew T. Park then moved for the mistrial. Detective Ritz meanwhile had rounded up the suspects in the corridor.

The star witness against Rosa was Frank Haley, who testified he saw Rosa enter the Ban Box with a package under his arm, come out without the package and drive away with another man. Haley said the explosion occurred a few minutes later.

Volpe was among several persons held in the investigation of the bombing, but was discharged when witnesses failed to appear at a hearing in Ceneral Police Court.

'BOMB' IN SHOW ROUTS 350

Police today were investigating the discharge of a sulphur "bomb" which led to a stampede for the exits in one theater and the slight explosion of gunpowder in another theater resulting in a fire leading to the injury of four persons.

Three hundred and fifty patrons of the Arcadia Theater, 823 East Ohio street, North Side, rushed for the exits last night when a sulphur "bomb," placed near a radiator, let go. It sent out a large flame and filled the building with smoke.

Four persons were burned slightly in a fire at the Roosevelt Theater, 1862 Center avenue, last night. Members of the bomb and arson squad are seeking a boy in connection with the case.

Those reported burned were Bertha Tolson, Negro, 26, of 501 Erin street; Jack Ruben, 24, of 2122 Webster avenue; Earl Mervis, 17, of 47 Manilla street, patrons, and Forest Shontz, manager.

UNIONTOWN, Pa., March 22.—Authorities were seeking evidence to uphold a theory of bombing following a mysterious explosion which wrecked the interior of the West End Theater here early this morning.

Rescue Party Nears 83 Marooned on Ice

FAIRBANKS, Alaska, March 22—(AP.)—Near the end of their long journey from Moscow to rescue 83 Russians marooned on shifting ice off Northern Siberia, Prof. George Yushakoff's party of three planned to leave today for Nome.

Two planes were ready for Prof. Yushakoff and his two pilots. The expedition will work from the American side of the Bering Sea in co-operation with other forces in Siberia.

Rich Sultan on Way to U.S. With Wife

'Thriller' Tricks Revealed by Raid In Spy Roundup

PARIS, March 22.—(AP.)—A "spies nest," with secret panels and other tricks described in mystery thrillers, were found today in a search for further evidence against an espionage band, involving Mr. and Mrs. Robert Gordon Switz of the United States.

Hollowed furniture drawers that opened at the touch of hidden springs and closets with false bottoms, police said, were discovered when they searched the apartment of Madame Baila Englart, fugitive Bessaragian girl.

She is sought on a charge of developing and printing secret code films which Switz admitted mailing to Switzerland for an "acquaintance."

Police got an eerie shock when they opened the previously sealed apartment and found a valise moved and all hiding places empty.

HUNT AMERICAN WOMAN

PARIS, March 22.—(INS.)—A warrant for the arrest of Violet Levine, an American woman whom police suspect of being one of the leaders of the international spy ring was signed today by Magistrate Andre Benon.

She disappeared from Paris several weeks ago, the police stated, and is now believed to be in the United States.

Activities of the ring in the United States are expected to lead to close co-operation between the American, British and French police.

These activities included the gathering of considerable documentary information concerning airports and military fortifications along the Atlantic seaboard of the United States.

JONES TRAILS IN GOLF TEST

AUGUSTA, Ga., March 22.—In a return to competition after a retirement of nearly four years, Bobby Jones, former king of world golfers, carded a 76, four over par, in the first 18-hole round of the $5,000 masters' invitation golf tournament over the Augusta National course here today.

Bobby's playing partner, Paul Runyan, leading money winner of the winter campaign, turned in a 74, but both "big shots" were back in the field, Joe Paletti, a comparative unknown from Chicago, leading with a 73.

Jones' play around the greens was very erratic. He three-putted the seventeenth and eighteenth greens, and on several other occasions failed to hole out from six feet.

Slaying of Woman, 63, To Break 'Evil Spell' Re-Enacted in Woods

POTTSVILLE, March 22.—(AP.)—In the dark before dawn in a wood back of Ringtown, Albert Shinsky, 23, of Shenandoah, today re-enacted the slaying of Mrs. Susan Mummey, 63. He told County Detective Louis Buono he killed the woman because she "hexed" him eight years ago.

In Pennsylvania German folk lore, the person who is "hexed" is bewitched. Shinsky said that eight years ago Mrs. Mummey "brought a spirit down from the sky" and that he has been "ill, tired and depressed" ever since.

He was charged with murder.

TELLS OF SHOOTING

With officers standing about him in the darkness, Shinsky showed them how he crept up to the Mummey house about 7:30 p. m. last Saturday.

He said he saw two shadowy figures in the dwelling and could not determine which was Mrs. Mummey. He said the woman's daughter, Tuvelia, came in with a lamp. As Mrs. Mummey leaned over Jacob Brice, a boarder, to dress his injured foot, Shinsky said he fired.

Shinsky was arrested early Wednesday, but his connection with the slaying was not disclosed until today.

Buono said the youth charged that Mrs. Mummey "hexed" him in the hope of gaining possession of a farm.

'PLAGUED BY CAT'

Shinsky said that up until that time he had been a hard worker, but that after the "spirit came

Appeal Gets Woman Spy Longer Term

METZ, France, March 22.—(AP.)—A longer prison term than that to which she was sentenced originally today faces the beautiful Fraulein Sophie Drotz, of Germany—famous as "La Belle Sophie"—because she appealed from her sentence on spy charges.

Besides upholding the sentences against her and five men, the Court of Appeals increased her term to four years on an espionage charge and three for complicity in stealing a new French model machine gun. The original sentence aggregated three years.

Drag River for Body Of Man Who Leaped

River patrolmen today dragged the rivers at the Point for the body of an unidentified man believed to have jumped from the Manchester Bridge into the Allegheny River. James R. Mitchell, 26, of 3061 Grasmere avenue, Dormont, told police he was about 100 feet away when he saw the man jump from the span.

'LIFER' SEEKS SERUM TEST

DENVER, March 22.—(AP.)—A red-haired woman, a lifetermer, has asked to be one of the 12 convicts to test a tuberculosis preventive serum at the Colorado Penitentiary.

She is Mrs. Pearl O'Loughlin, 36, convicted four years ago of slaying her step-daughter, Leona O'Loughlin, the child of a Denver police detective. Her application, announced by Warden Roy Best, is among several hundred filed with hopes of landing among the "lucky" dozen, thus winning possible executive clemency.

The prisoners will be inoculated with the preventive serum and then will have active tuberculosis germs injected into their blood streams.

Gov. Ed C. Johnson will select the final 12 from a list of 24 chosen by Warden Best.

UNION ASKS NRA BAN ON WEIRTON

WASHINGTON, March 22.—(AP.)—A demand for the removal of the Blue Eagle from the Weirton Steel Company was laid before W. H. Davis, NRA compliance director, today by a group of outside union workers of the Weirton plant.

William J. Long, chairman of the union committee, told newspapermen the workers made the demand because of "the company's violation of the recovery act."

The call on Davis followed a previous visit to Harry L. Hopkins, emergency relief administrator, at which the union men asked for more relief grants to the 600 men "suffering from discrimination."

In a letter they left with Hopkins, the workers said "the company-controlled relief officials are using their power over federal relief funds to starve our people into submission to the company, which is defying the government on all sides."

Roosevelt Set for Parley in Effort To Avert Strike

BULLETIN.

WASHINGTON, March 22.—(AP.)—The administration let automobile labor union representatives know today that part of its plan for peace in the industry is appointment at once of a committee to pass upon several hundred charges of anti-union discrimination by manufacturers.

WASHINGTON, March 22.—(AP.)—President Roosevelt renewed his efforts for industrial peace in the automobile industry today with both sides still adamant.

It was learned at the White House that neither employers nor employes in the controversy have yielded.

The President will confer this afternoon with the labor representatives.

William Green, president of the American Federation of Labor, has given notice that unless a solution is reached, his organization will advocate that the automobile industry be licensed.

Despite the unbroken lines, there was an increasing feeling of hope in the capital that the controversy would be settled.

Talk of a truce was discounted at the White House, where it was said Mr. Roosevelt has not gotten down to a specific proposition pending a report this afternoon from the labor representatives.

UNION LEADERS MEET

Meanwhile, the auto union delegates conferred with Hugh S. Johnson, NRA administrator, and selected six spokesmen besides William Green and William Collins, A. F. of L. organizer, to lay the men's case before President Roosevelt later.

Earlier the auto union leaders conferred with Green.

At the same time Joseph B. Eastman, federal co-ordinator of transportation, listened to railroad managers present their side of the controversy with the unions over wages for two hours.

RAIL PARLEY CONTINUES

"I am spending the day listening. I shall meet this afternoon with the labor union heads and listen to their side.

"After I have heard both sides I may have something to propose myself."

In informed circles it was regarded as likely that Eastman may

WASHINGTON, March 22.—(AP.)—President Roosevelt still hoped today to get a fishing vacation next week off the Florida coast.

However, strike threats, air mail and other Congressional disputes were taken into account and the cruise was placed on a tentative basis.

Student Strike to Aid Cupid Ends

3 School Walkouts In Johnstown Area As Protests

JOHNSTOWN, Pa., March 22.—Cupid was the cause of one of three school strikes in the Johnstown district today.

And the cause of the second strike was the attempt of school directors to forestall any walkouts.

The third was just an ordinary strike—until it turned into a lockout.

Students at Conemaugh walked out because the directors had interfered with the wedding plans of two teachers. The strike was brief, however, and the pupils returned to their classes as the result of a truce.

The truce will be in effect pending a citizens' mass meeting tonight, at which settlement of the controversy will be attempted.

Derickson and another teacher at the school planned to be married in a few months. The story is that his fiancee did not apply for a renewal of her contract after she was assured that Derickson would be re-engaged.

The school board met in special session last night—a session which lasted until 2 a. m. today—but failed to come to agreement on rehiring Derickson.

Meanwhile, following a second walkout of 800 students at the Franklin school, the school board retaliated by ordering the institution closed until April 3.

Students Ask Board Renew Contracts Of Teachers

The pupils, protesting against removal of three teachers, marched out of the building when a conference with the board failed to produce a settlement.

Supervising Principal H. C. Tilley immediately announced there will be no classes for two weeks. This amounts to a 10-day extension of the Easter vacation.

Yesterday the students had picketed the school, toting banners which read:

Jack-Knife Operations On Aged Patients Bared

NEW YORK, March 22.—(AP.)—To the stark tale of abuses, graft and fraud which have fallen to the lot of helpless aged inmates of the Welfare Island City Home was added today the story of elementary surgery in an abandoned morgue under the agepalsied hands of a former cook on a sailing ship.

The startling story of his "doctorin'"—with a drunkard for an assistant and a jack-knife for an instrument—was told before a city commissioner's hearing by the sailor-doctor, Charles Johnson, 69-year-old windjammer cook.

His testimony was the concluding phase of the inquiry begun four days ago by Commissioner of Accounts Paul Blanshard into conditions of the island home for the aged, from which Superintendent Louis J. McNally is missing upon revelations that he banked $48,686.51 during his eight years in office.

Simpering and giggling, the old cook related that he treated as many as 33 patients a day with his jack-knife for ulcerated legs and found himself hampered because "Pete," his predecessor and assistant, drank the sterilizing alcohol.

For his work, he said, he was paid four plugs of "chawin' tobacco" each week.

ROOSEVELT RENEWS EFFORTS TO AVERT AUTO STRIKE

HOPE FOR PEACE AS CRISIS NEARS

Labor Goes Straight To White House; Rail Parley Opens propose an adjustment of salaries in the lower brackets with a possible continuance of the 10 per cent deduction now in effect in the higher brackets such as engineers and conductors.

SIMPLIFY DEMANDS

He said the workers could not make formal statements on the situation in deference to the President.

The spokesman told reporters the men were perfectly willing to simplify their present demands down to the issue of collective bargaining, leaving the rest for later handling.

A clear cut and practical application of Section 7A of the Industrial Law—the provision for free organization and collective bargaining—was what the men hoped to get from the President, Collins said.

EYES ON LABOR FRONT

Arbitration of the rail wage dispute, still deadlocked, was by agreement of labor and employers pushed ahead by Joseph B. Eastman, transportation colordinator. He called rail managers and union leaders to separate parleys.

Secretary Perkins was off to Detroit to deliver a speech. The capital speculated that she might be carrying an administration pronouncement affecting the strike situation of that area.

Warnings yesterday before congressional committees that more big strikes would follow if the automobile troubles were not put down made an impression on the committeemen.

SIMPLIFY DEMANDS

Green sought simplification of the auto workers demands after being told by administration men that this action, casting overboard for the present a long list of secondary demands, would facilitate the President's task.

Administration sources maintained silence in regard to use of the licensing power — never yet employed, but available under the industrial law as a weapon against any group deemed by the President to be bucking the recovery program.

The President, after seeing the motor executives, conferred for for more than an hour yesterday with Attorney General Cummings, who accentuated the secrecy of the discussion by looking up at the sky as he departed and observing to newsmen:

"That's a nice clear sky."

What Mr. Roosevelt told the heads of General Motors, Chrysler, Hudson, Packard and Nash motors was not officially disclosed. But it was indicated definitely that he did not put before them any formula for ending the dispute.

EXECUTIVES STAND PAT

Despite the official attitude of hope, and despite motor chiefs' assurances to the President that they were ready to do their best to prevent the strike, there was no immediate sign of wavering in their stand against new elections and against "recognition of the unions as such."

Their basic opposition, founded on the long-time open shop policy of the industry has been voiced in their charge that the A. F. of L. is trying to get control of the industry.

U. S. Aid Sought In Waterfront 'War'

SAN FRANCISCO, March 22.—(AP.)—President Roosevelt has been requested to intervene in the impending strike of Longshoremen and prevent an "industrial war" on the Pacific Coast.

The request was sent to the President yesterday by George Creel, former chairman of the Regional Labor Board, after negotiations between waterfront employers and the International Longshoremen's Union to prevent the strike had ended in a deadlock.

CLARKSBURG, W. Va., March 22.—State and local police were scouring central West Virginia for four convicts who fled from the Barbour County jail at Philippi last night by crawling through a tunnel under prison walls.

The escaped men are Edward Streets, 49, Laurel Creek, sentenced for a store robbery, and Albert Rosier, 25, William Rosier, 45, and Ralph Stewart, 38, all of Bear Mountain, sentenced for the theft and slaying of cattle.

HOTEL STRIKE PARADE SET

Striking Hotel William Penn employes will parade through downtown Pittsburgh tomorrow afternoon, strike leaders announced today. A permit for the demonstration has been promised by Supt. of Police Ben R. Marshall, they said.

Request for an explanation of the hotel management's petition for a rehearing before the Regional Labor Board was denied at a meeting of strike and union representatives and members of the board yesterday, the strikers said. The board recently ordered all strikers back to work by Saturday.

In the meantime, it was announced, an agreement between the union and a restaurant at 111 Diamond street, carrying clauses for increase of wages and union recognition, has been signed. The agreement, it was said, is the initial step in an extensive drive to "organize restaurants of this community."

BUDD WORKERS VOTE ON STRIKE

PHILADELPHIA, March 22.—(AP.)—Members of the United Automobile Workers' Union are to meet tonight to decide whether a new strike shall be called at the plant of the E. G. Budd Manufacturing Company.

The union, an affiliate of the American Federation of Labor, is protesting the vote on the question of employe representation held at the Budd plant Tuesday at the direction of Gen. Hugh S. Johnson, NRA administrator.

Only about 30 employes voted, although 5,762 cast ballots in a previous election which was invalidated.

Since the strike of last winter, about 1,000 members of the union have been reinstated and tonight's assemblage is to decide whether these shall be called on to lay down their tools.

Settlement Averts D.-H. Rail Strike

ALBANY, N. Y., March 22.—(AP.)—The Delaware and Hudson Railroad and its train and enginemen today settled a wage dispute, ending the danger of a strike of the 2,300 members of the Big Four brotherhoods. The strike called for March 9 was delayed when President Roosevelt intervened. It then was postponed to June 6.

PAINTERS SCAN CODE TERMS

The Master Painters and Decorators Association of Pittsburgh will meet tonight in the Chamber of Commerce auditorium to discuss the code for the painting industry that becomes effective today.

The association has asked employers of painters, decorators, paper hangers—including department stores and manufacturing plants—to attend.

The code of fair competition was signed by the President March 12. Hours of labor, wages and employment conditions will be determined by collective bargaining under code provisions.

Louis C. Titzel, president of the local organization, will preside at the meeting. John B. Dewar, president of the International Society, and chairman of the National Code Committee, will speak.

BANK TO OPEN IN HAZELWOOD

The Hazelwood Bank, formerly the Hazelwood Savings and Trust Company, will open for unrestricted business sometime next month, according to plans announced today by the new incorporators.

The new banking organization was granted a charter several days ago by the Secretary of the Commonwealth. The incorporators are Thomas J. Fitzgerald, George E. Hastie and Thomas F. Donahoe.

PICKETS BATTLE IN CLEVELAND

CLEVELAND, March 22.—(AP.)—A clash between strike sympathizers and police occurred just outside the Sherwin-Williams Paint Company today, in which the police were reported to have used clubs on five men in the crowd of 50 or so at the gates. The men were arrested, and the police squad on duty at the plant sent for aid.

One of the company officers was quoted as saying that the pickets were trying to prevent office workers from going to work in the plant, which has been idle for several days since 400 men went on strike.

STATE CHAMBER OPPOSES BILL

HARRISBURG, March 22.—(AP.)—The State Chamber of Commerce announces that a canvass of its executive committee shows a majority opposed to the Wagner bill, which would change the methods of adjusting labor disputes.

The bill is being given a hearing in Washington this week, and officials of the State Chamber explain that the views of the industrialists and business leaders on the committee will be sent to Pennsylvania's representatives in the national capital.

The State Chamber of Commerce said objections center around provisions of the bill which "outlaw" company unions and prohibit the lock-out, or closing of plants against strikers, but do not prohibit strikes.

Parley Here Set By Steel Workers

One hundred and ten locals, represented by five men each, will attend a meeting of the Iron, Steel and Tin Workers of America at 500 South Main street Sunday afternoon, when plans will be discussed for the success of the NRA, and the right for collective bargaining will be considered. Representatives will attend from Pennsylvania, Eastern Ohio and West Virginia.

STEEL CODE'S PRICE-FIXING DEFENDED

Institute Replies to Critics, Charging 'Lack of Facts'

NEW YORK, March 22.—(AP.)—The American Iron and Steel Institute, in a statement last night, defended the price-fixing provisions in the steel code "as the system under which the industry has been built up in this country."

In an answer to a report made to the United States Senate by the Federal Trade Commission charging that the code had given full power over the industry to the larger companies, the Institute said:

"Whether or not the system of quoting prices adopted in the code conforms to certain theories of economics, it is the system under which the industry has been built up in this country.

"It is the only system by which conditions of fair competition among members of the industry and among the users of steel products can be established and maintained. The use by the industry of any other system of quoting prices would result in grave dislocations of producing activities and of relations between producers and purchasers of steel products. It would increase rather than decrease unemployment and would defeat rather than accomplish the purpose of the National Industrial Recovery Act."

The institute in its statement declared it believed all the matters criticized by the trade commission could be satisfactorily explained and that "the explanations will show that the provisions of the code are entirely legal and that they are designed to promote the purposes sought to be accomplished by the National Industrial Recovery Act."

AIR MAIL FIGHT SEEN IN SMITH RESIGNATION

Quitting as Editor Laid to Fight on Postal System

NEW YORK, March 22.—(AP.)—Former Gov. Alfred E. Smith today formally announced his resignation as editor-in-chief of the "New Outlook," a fact that became known last night.

Although the resignation was reported to have been prompted by a disagreement with Frank A. Tichenor, publisher of the magazine, over the air mail controversy, the former Governor gave pressure of other business obligations as the sole reason for his retirement from the editorial post.

His announcement said the last articles by him appeared in the March issue of the magazine, and the April issue is being produced without his assistance. The former Governor also made public the correspondence between himself and Tichenor, which disclosed that he had been considering the matter of resigning since the first of the year.

Although Tichenor, who is interested in aviation, has been a vigorous critic of the government's cancellation of the air mail contracts, New Outlook, with Smith at the helm, has been silent on the subject.

The New York Times said the underlying reason for the resignation is believed to lie in a difference of opinion between Smith and Tichenor over the air mail. Aero Digest, which Tichenor also publishes, carried in its last issue an attack on the Roosevelt administration and Postmaster General Farley for the cancellation of the contracts.

PARLEY SPEEDS MAIL BIDDING

WASHINGTON, March 22.—(AP.)—President Roosevelt speeded work for return of air mail lines to private concerns at a conference today with officials of the Postoffice and Commerce departments and Attorney General Cummings.

The group was called in as efforts were made on Capitol Hill to hasten the new legislation for contract bidding.

Secretary Roper and the following representatives of the Postoffice Department were present:

W. W. Howes and Harllee Branch, assistant postmasters general, and Karl Crowley, solicitor.

Apparently the President is preparing for action as soon as he gets the necessary legislation.

Two Pupils Killed In Bus Collision

TROY, N. C., March 22.—(AP.)—Two school children were instantly killed and two others were seriously injured in a collison between a school bus and a lumber truck about 10 miles west of here this morning.

Spans Andes

LAURA INGALLS

LAURA INGALLS FLIES ANDES

BUENOS AIRES, March 22.—(AP.)—Miss Laura Ingalls, New York aviatrix, today had achieved her ambition to become the first American woman flier to span the lofty Andes alone.

She arrived here yesterday from Santiago, Chile, after a flight across the mountain ranges which previously had been made by two women solo, the French aviatrix Voland and the German flier Bienhold.

Miss Ingalls left New York February 28 on the flight by stages to Buenos Aires. Uneasiness for her was felt only once and that was while she was still in the United States.

She dropped from sight March 2 between Charleston, S. C., and Miami, but turned up safely in Miami the next day.

PALMER BACKS BANK PLAN

WASHINGTON, March 22.—(AP.)—A. Mitchell Palmer, attorney general in the Wilson administration, told a House Banking Sub-Committee today the government was obligated to pay depositors in closed banks because it had been in "absolute control" of bank policies for the last several years.

Palmer said the government also was obligated because of governmental appeals made a year and two years ago to the public to stop hoarding and to leave deposits in banking institutions.

He said that the appeal that went out "is sufficient reason" for passage of the McLeod bill providing for governmental agencies to purchase remaining assets of closed national banks, pay depositors in full and liquidate the assets over a 10-year period.

Palmer said that if the government had chosen to pay depositors in closed banks at the time the National Recovery Act was passed instead of appropriating $3,300,000,000 for public works "much of the road to recovery would now be behind us."

Weirton Payrolls Double Last Year's

WEIRTON, W. Va., March 22.—(AP.)—J. C. Williams, president of the Weirton Steel Company, in a statement today said that payrolls in the plants at Weirton and Steubenville, O., for the first three months of the year are more than double the amount for the same period in 1933.

WHITNEY HITS NEW MARKET REFORM BILL

Measure 'Destructive' To Exchange and Business, He Says

WASHINGTON, March 22.—(AP.)—The revised stock exchange regulation bill was described as "unworkable" and "destructive" upon stock exchanges and securities today by Richard Whitney, president of the New York Stock Exchange.

Whitney testified before the House Interstate Commerce Committee after Chairman Rayburn (Dem.), of Texas, said the hearing would be turned over to the opposition. Whitney said:

"The New York Stock Exchange is opposed to this bill for the same reasons it was opposed to the Fletcher-Rayburn bill. Our basic objections to the old bill apply with equal force to the new one."

Whitney presented several proposed amendments dealing with margin requirements, restrictions on members' borrowings and segregation of the functions of broker and dealer, revised in the new bill. He declared:

"I want to make my position absolutely clear. I think this bill is unworkable and will have destructive effects not only upon stock exchanges but also upon the value of securities and the business of the country."

Meanwhile, Secretary Morgenthau reiterated that "the Treasury would like to see Congress pass a stock exchange bill with teeth in it."

BOY HUNTING WOOD KILLED

CHICAGO, March 22.—(AP.)—His family's poverty was blamed today for the death of 14-year-old Joseph Karaskiewicz.

In company with other youths in the neighborhood, Karaskiewicz followed the practice of obtaining firewood from an abandoned house. They would lift off flooring, window sills and laths.

The youth was in the house last night, when suddenly there was a terrific noise. The house started to collapse. Several of the youths escaped, but Joseph was found beneath the debris some time later.

Boy Saves Family From Fire in Home

Awakened by the smell of smoke, 12-year-old William McMunn, of 129 West Eleventh avenue, Homestead, found his home on fire this morning. Arousing other members of the family, the youth climbed out on a porch roof, slid down a post and turned in a fire alarm.

Firemen responded in time to save the home, but when they entered the living room they found "Tootsie," a pet bull pup, dead, overcome by the smoke.

WITHIN SIX months, a "mail order divorce ring," operating in Mexico, has swindled eighty-three American couples, sending them ornamental but worthless divorce papers by mail. Some of the supposed divorced ones, but still married, have remarried. The American consulate informs the State Department that one-third of divorces granted in the Mexican state of Morelos are fraudulent.

It seems hard on those who discovered that marriage is a failure to discover now that divorce is fraudulent, and a second marriage bigamous.

Taxi Strike Violence Follows Peace Plea

NEW YORK, March 22.—(AP.)—A new outbreak of violence attended New York's taxicab strike today a few hours after Mayor LaGuardia appealed to the drivers not to jeopardize their licenses by disorders.

A group of about 150 strikers marched from their headquarters at Sixteenth street and Third avenue to Fourth avenue and Tenth street, halted two taxicabs, beat both drivers and wrecked the machines.

Fifteen persons were injured and 14 arrested as the result of earlier disorders in various parts of the city.

The demonstration in the theater district, centering in Times Square, was broken up by police reserves who were called when regular patrolmen were swamped. Strikers and sympathizers estimated at 5,000 surged down Broadway just as the theaters were emptying.

A number of marchers were routed from Park avenue when tenants in apartment buildings along that thoroughfare doused them with buckets of water.

Kaiser, Hindenburg Fled War-Time Air Attack

TORONTO, Ontario, March 22.—(AP.)—How a Canadian flier sent the German Kaiser, Field Marshal Von Hindenburg and the official German headquarters staff scurrying to shelter during the war was revealed for the first time today by Air Commodore P. F. M. Fellowes.

The occasion, according to the commodore, was the only one during the war when the Kaiser was actually under fire. The flier was Flight Commander George C. Mackay, now living in a Toronto suburb.

Commander Mackay and two others were ordered to bomb the mole at Zeebrugge, and were given orders to use only bombs and not machine guns, Fellowes said.

When Mackay returned from the flight he bashfully reported he had used his machine gun. A group of men had been on the mole and he had missed them with his bombs. He returned and sprayed the mole with his machine guns and saw the men scurrying to shelter.

Later word was received from Berlin, via Holland, that among those on the mole were the Kaiser and Von Hindenburg.

The story was news even to the man who had routed the Kaiser, as it had not been told outside the official war office circles, Fellowes said.

LIBBY'S BABY MAY GET $10,000,000 BY NEW RULING

COURT VOIDS SETTLEMENTS BY HEIR

2 Children May Split $20,000,000 Fortune Of Reynolds

Universal Service.

WINSTON-SALEM, N. C., March 22.—Libby Holman's two-million-dollar baby may become a 10-million-dollar baby as the result of a Supreme Court decision in Raleigh, attorneys for the former Broadway torch singer said here today.

The decision invalidated various family financial arrangements made by the late Zachary Smith Reynolds, heir to a cigaret fortune, before he was fatally shot at a party in July, 1932.

Under one such agreement young Reynolds settled two million dollars on his posthumous son by Libby Holman, who was his second wife. Under another he set aside $1,500,000 for the daughter of his first wife, the former Anne Cannon, who divorced him in Reno in 1931.

The agreements were approved by Superior Court Judge Wilson Warlick last year. The Supreme Court yesterday reversed this approval and ruled that the entire tangle over the settlement of the estate must be aired in court.

The decision also reversed the lower court's sanction of a ruling to allow a substantial portion of the estate to be spent for a memorial foundation to the slain playboy.

This means that the entire estate, estimated at between 20 and 30 million dollars may be divided equally between the two children of the tobacco scion.

MISS TASHMAN TO BE BURIED TOMORROW

Rites to Take Place In Brooklyn; Lowe Grief-Stricken

By DAVID P. SENTNER
International News Service.

NEW YORK, March 22.—Lilyan Tashman, who loved life desperately, today lay in state at a funeral chapel here. She will be buried beside her mother and father, a brother and two sisters, in a Brooklyn cemetery tomorrow.

Edmund Lowe, her grief-stricken actor husband, said that Lilyan had once told him that when she died she wanted to be buried with her family and with the ritual of her Jewish faith.

For a year and a half the fear of death hung over Lilyan as she kept going the vivacity for which she was famous.

FEARED DEATH

The screen actress had never been sick a day of her life until the complication developed in October, 1932, from which she died in the Medical Center during an emergency operation.

In 1932, when they took her to the operating room for the first time, she was terribly frightened. She had been frightened ever since. She told me so several times in recent interviews. I do not think she ever revealed her terrible secret fear to Ed Lowe.

Her husband was with her when she died.

Mrs. Tiffany Saportas, a friend, who was also at her bedside, said:

"The last thing she said was that when she got better she was going to take a good long rest before doing any more picture work. I don't think she knew she was dying and we didn't tell her."

DEVOTED TO LOWE

Lilyan was truly devoted to her husband. She underwent a number of blood transfusions in another operation in Hollywood last summer. When she came out of the ether she kept calling for "Ed."

Lowe, on a personal appearance tour, canceled his booking and rushed back to the coast.

Next to her love for her husband and her hunger for the gaiety of life, Lilyan was fond of clothes. She was termed the best-dressed woman in Hollywood.

Lilyan once told me how she developed her keen sense of style. She said:

"I was the youngest of seven sisters. My family wasn't very rich and the girls used to hand down their dresses as they outgrew them. So when I got a dress, I had to figure out how to make it look well. I think I learned to dress well from that."

FOND OF JEWELS

Lilyan kept her remarkable figure without dieting, despite reports to the contrary.

She was also fond of jewels. She hated imitations, either in people, clothes or jewels.

Recently, she lost a most valuable ruby from a diamond bracelet. When she returned to her apartment, the elevator operator said:

"Lady, did you lose this red bead?"

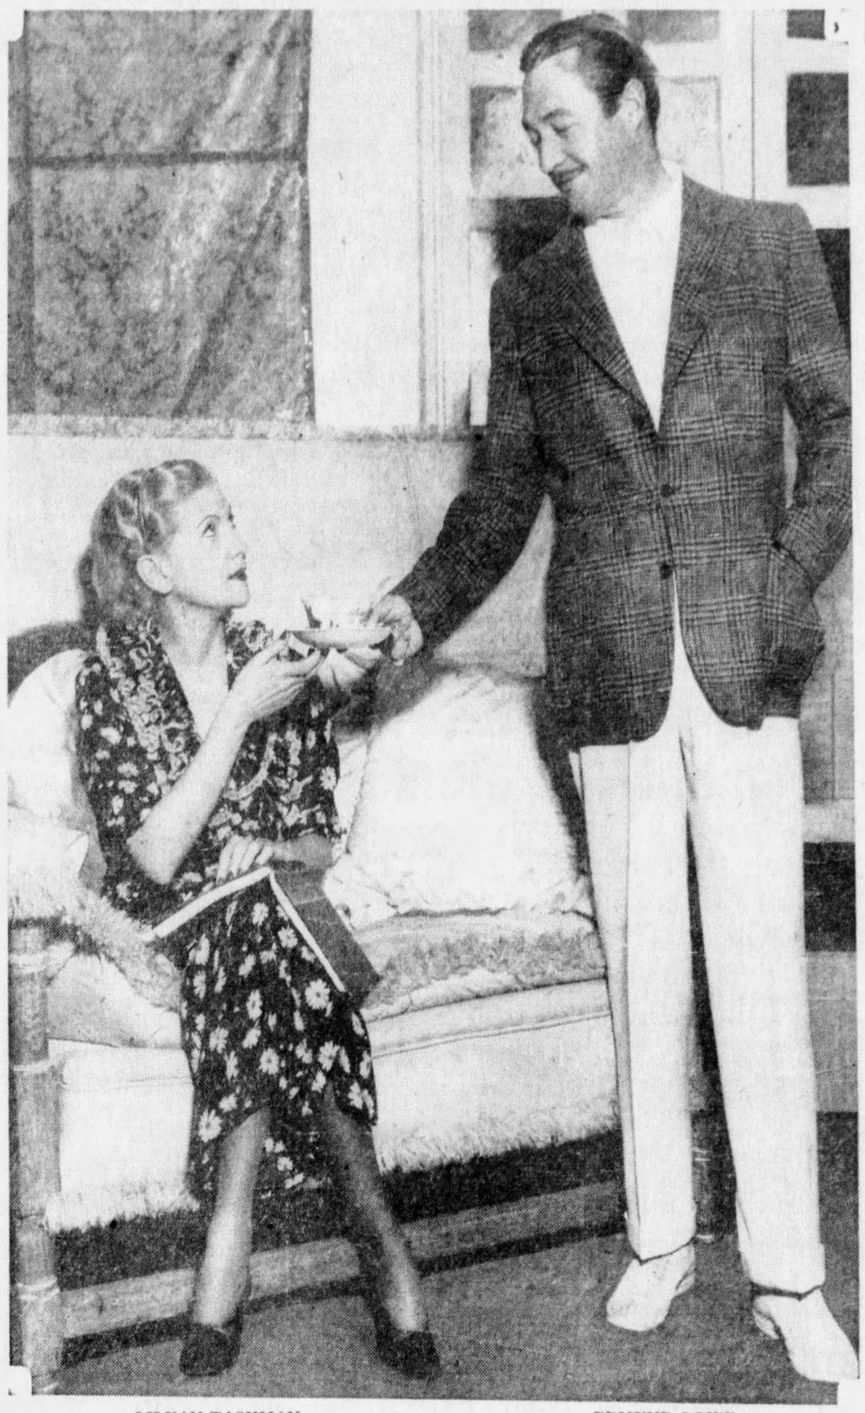
Death Ended Their Romance



LILYAN TASHMAN

The last picture made of Miss Tashman—sometimes called "Hollywood's best-dressed woman"—who died in New York after an illness that lasted a year. Here she is in her Hollywood home with her husband, a motion picture actor also, during the first week of February.

MEDICOS TO AID CITY PROBE OF PARROT FEVER

Society Names Three Physicians to Act With Marks

The Allegheny County Medical Society pursuing its policy for "immediate" action in the city's efforts to curb spread of psittacosis (parrot fever) today announced a committee of three physicians to work with the Department of Health.

The committee includes:

Dr. I. Hope Alexander, chairman; Dr. Walter F. Donaldson, secretary of the State Medical Society and editor of the Medical Bulletin, and Dr. W. W. G. Maclachlan, one of the city's outstanding pathologists and expert on psittacosis.

ASKED BY MARKS

The committee was named in response to a request from Dr. Philip E. Marks, superintendent of the Bureau of Infectious Diseases, who wrote to Dr. George W. Grier, president of the Allegheny County Medical Society, as follows:

"In order to comply satisfactorily with the purpose of the resolution passed by the Allegheny County Medical Society on March 20, on the present epidemic of psittacosis, may I request that you appoint a committee of physicians to confer with me. We will appreciate this assistance in working out a satisfactory solution of our problems as to isolation facilities, proper segregation of cases, etc."

This prompt action of the Medical Society came in the face of apparent delay in the presentation of the parrot control ordinance to City Council.

Although the ordinance was drafted yesterday, it will not be presented to Council before Monday when Council meets in regular session. It had been considered likely that a special session would be called today.

BANS ALL PARROTS

The ordinance provides for extermination of all parrots in the city and makes it an offense punishable by fine or imprisonment for harboring birds of the psittacine family in the city. A protest against wholesale killing of parrots, macaws and parrakeets was telephoned to President of Council Robert Garland yesterday by Mrs. Charles Gordon Zug, of 925 Ridge avenue.

Garland announced a public hearing on the parrot ordinance for Wednesday.

By introducing the bill in Council Monday, it would follow the usual course of all legislation and would not pass finally before the following week. Meanwhile parrots which have been in contact with the infected birds of three shops where evidence of psittacosis has been found continue to be a menace and source of the dread fever infection, medical authorities say.

CHECK ON MALADY SEEN

Health Director Ray P. Moyer explained to Council yesterday what his department has done to prevent spread of psittacosis and said:

"I think the steps we have taken have stopped the disease."

Dr. Marks, absent from his office today because of an indisposition, arranged for the segregation of psittacosis cases at the Municipal hospital. At his office it was announced that physicians may send suspected cases to the city hospital at once. An entire ward has been set aside, it was stated, but no cases have been received yet.

The director was to go to Washington tomorrow to confer with United States Surgeon General Hugh S. Cumming. It was expected he would take up with the Surgeon General the matter of illegal shipments of parrots to Pittsburgh last January.

CATHOLICS DENY COUGHLIN BAN

Universal Service.

WASHINGTON, March 22.—The National Catholic Welfare Council today denied the Rev. Charles E. Coughlin, Detroit "radio" priest, had been refused facilities of the National Broadcasting Company upon recommendation of a committee of members of his own church.

The Rev. Michael J. Ready, assistant general secretary of the Council, commenting on published reports of testimony given before the House Merchant Marine, Radio and Fisheries Committee by M. H. Aylesworth, president of the National Broadcasting Company, declared that "an entirely erroneous inference" had been placed on Aylesworth's testimony, thereby reflecting on the Catholic committee in charge of NBC Catholic hour broadcasts.

In a prepared statement read to the committee, Aylesworth said:

"It has been the policy of the National Broadcasting Company regarding religious broadcasting that our facilities should be given without cost to the Protestant, Catholic and Jewish faiths. We have always provided these facilities in complete harmony with the three religious faiths above mentioned and entirely under the jurisdiction of committees organized by these faiths from their own memberships who have complete control of the religious programs."

MRS. INSULL ILL FROM WORRY

ATHENS, March 22.—(AP.)—Mrs. Samuel Insull, whose husband is "somewhere at sea," presumably aboard the Greek freighter Maiotis, took to her bed today.

She was reported to be ill from the strain attendant upon her husband's departure from his 18 months' haven in Greece.

Almost as many rumors circulated about her today as were attendant previously upon the activities of her husband.

Attorney Pop, who represents her, said she was greatly depressed over the failure of the French Consul to grant her a passport visa and that, momentarily, she had visualized suicide as the only way out, but that rumors she had actually attempted to kill herself were untrue.

The French Consulate now, it was learned, is awaiting instructions from the French government regarding a visa for Mrs. Insull and, if such a visa should be granted, the Jugo-Slavian Consulate is ready to grant the transit through Jugo-Slavia which hitherto has been denied.

Suspect Returned In Woman's Death

Brought here from Monroe, Ga., Lonnie Pierce, 29, Negro, of Monroe, was turned over to the Coroner today after a hearing before Magistrate J. W. McGowan in Central Police Court in connection with the fatal stabbing of Julia Dunn, Negro, of Fullerton street. The woman was stabbed December 8. Pierce was arrested in Monroe a week ago and brought here by homicide detectives last night.

WOMAN JAILED FOR BALM

CHICAGO, March 22.—(AP.)—Mrs. Myrtle Tanner Blacklidge was a star boarder at the county jail today, with her bill paid a week in advance.

She was the "guest" of Mrs. Suzanne Nottingham, a policeman's wife, who had her clapped into jail last night for failing to pay a $7,500 judgment. Mrs. Nottingham won the judgment in a suit in which she charged Mrs. Blacklidge with stealing the love of the policeman.

Mrs. Blacklidge, former collector of internal revenue, was arrested by four deputies while limping away from a South Side apartment.

The jury which awarded the wife the judgment found that Mrs. Blacklidge "maliciously" stole Nottingham's affections, so now it is possible for Mrs. Nottingham to keep her rival in jail six months by paying her weekly board bill of $3.50—unless an appeal is filed. Mrs. Nottingham has paid $3.50 in advance.

An hour after she was locked up, Nottingham went back to work, driving a police patrol.

YOUNG BRIDE FOUND SHOT

BRIDGEPORT, O., March 22.—(AP.)—Neighbors last night found Mrs. Mary Teleggy, 20, bride of a few weeks, critically wounded in her apartment and a small caliber revolver lying beside her.

They told police they had heard Mrs. Teleggy and her husband quarreling Tuesday night and again yesterday. He was not home at the time she was shot and police said they believed the wounds were self-inflicted.

Mrs. Teleggy's condition is critical, hospital attendants said.

KIDNAPED GIRL BACK, 4 HELD

LEECHBURG, Pa., March 22.—Four men, their identities concealed, were under arrest here today charged with kidnaping Lilly Forney, 15, who was held captive in a roadhouse for five nights, according to police.

The girl was released last night after being held a prisoner in the roadhouse since Saturday night when she went to Apollo with Edward Porter, 25, police said.

Porter's brother, William, beat him and drove away with the girl, later meeting three other men, Edward and Lilly told police.

FATAL N. Y. FIRE LAID TO PLOT

NEW YORK, March 22.—(AP.)—Behind Wednesday's tenement fire with its seven victims, fire officials saw today the legend:

"Dead men tell no tales."

They wove a web of sinister circumstances from the following facts:

Joseph Maldanzo was stabbed to death last September in front of the tenement (at 1909 Second avenue) where seven persons, including four children, were burned to death early yesterday.

A resident of the tenement (police withheld his name) is an important witness of the state in the trial next week of Cologero Minetta for Haldanzo's murder.

Certain circumstances in connection with the fire led to the belief that the death of this witness was sought so that his testimony would not be available.

Mrs. Concetta Maldanzo, widow of the murdered man, said several threats had been made against her life.

Tires for Old Auto Would Cost $16,000

COLORADO SPRINGS, Col., March 22.—(AP.)—John F. Mullancy isn't going to get any new tires for his car built in 1898. Mullaney wanted to exhibit the old machine at a fair and wrote a manufacturer about the cost of a set of tires. The answer was $16,000. The makers explained they would have in install new equipment before they could turn out a set.

Rockefeller Son Must Aid Town Pay Himself

NEW YORK, March 22.—(AP.)—The village of North Tarrytown is going to tax Peter in order to pay Peter. Peter is John D. Rockefeller, Jr.

Rockefeller recently won a $25,000 verdict against the village for taxing him on property outside of the town limits. Now the village, in order to pay Rockefeller this money has been forced to raise the tax rate $1 a thousand. Thus Rockefeller, on a four-million-dollar assessment, will have to pay $4,000 of the $25,000 that's due him before he can collect a cent.

PROBE FREIGHT TRAIN WRECK

Pennsylvania Railroad officials today were probing into the cause of a freight train crash in which a steel caboose and three box cars were wrecked and a fourth derailed on the Pittsburgh division in Edgewood last night.

Three members of the crew, Conductor A. H. Adamson, Brakeman Walter Craig and Flagman C. F. Cromling, escaped injury when a large locomotive crashed into the rear of the train it had been pushing. They were in the caboose when it was thrown onto the pilot of the pusher engine. Three box cars were scattered over the main lines and a fourth was derailed.

WOLVES ESCAPE ZOO, SLAIN

International News Service.

WASHINGTON, March 22.—Two female timber-wolves, both bred in captivity, were shot and killed today after a sudden reversion to atavistic instincts impelled them to escape from the local zoo and seek the call of the wild.

The wolves ripped holes in the wire of their cages and trotted off into underbrush bordering Connecticut avenue, a busy traffic artery.

Frank Lowe, assistant headkeeper, pursued the animals into the woods and, realizing the impossibility of effecting a capture, shot both of them.

Lowe said grimly as he scanned the traffic-jammed street:

"If they had been hungry there would have been trouble."

Dogs Quarantined In Fear of Rabies

WASHINGTON, Pa., March 22.—(AP.)—A quarantine on all dogs in West Finley Township was ordered today to check a threatened epidemic of rabies in that community.

J. V. Mounts, agent of the Bureau of Animal Industry, and Dr. William Brod, Pittsburgh veterinarian, also quarantined livestock on two farms in the township. Brod said two cows had contracted the malady before they were killed.

QUICK-ACTING DRUG FOUND

BALTIMORE, March 22.—(AP.)—A drug which acts so quickly it produces sleep in 20 or less seconds and produces no ill aftereffects has been demonstrated at Mt. Sinai Hospital here.

As yet unnamed, it is a white powder dissolved in water which is injected into the patient's arm.

In four cases used here by Dr. Albert E. Goldstein, the patients awoke just as refreshed as though they had taken a nap. There was no illness or foggy feeling and one patient climbed, unaided, from the operating table to a carriage and pronounced himself ready for "a good hearty breakfast."

Dr. Goldstein said the powder had been tried some in Germany and in England, but was very rare in the United States. Its cost, he added, is not prohibitive.

Barbara Stanwyck Accuser Faces Jail

LOS ANGELES, March 22.—(AP.)—A bench warrant was issued today for Mrs. Elizabeth Curtis, when she failed to answer a court order to bring in certain documents concerning her suit for $3,500 against Barbara Stanwyck, motion picture actress.

Mrs. Curtis is suing Miss Stanwyck and her husband, Frank Fay, for alleged unpaid wages as housekeeper and nurse for Fay's father, William Fay.

MARTIN SCORED IN TAX REFORM CONVENTION

HARRISBURG, March 22.—Gen. Edward Martin, Republican state chairman, was attacked in an address delivered here last night by Simon J. Vinck, of Westmoreland County, at the closing session of the convention of the Pennsylvania Tax Justice League.

Vinck, who termed himself a "former Republican voter," accused Martin of evading questions put to him yesterday afternoon when he appeared to discuss current tax problems. Vinck said that if other members of the league felt the same as he did the old Republican organization would never see Harrisburg again.

More than 50 counties were represented at the convention which adopted a 12 point program calling for consolidation of governmental and educational units, abolition of fee offices and elimination of school taxes on real estate. The convention also demanded revision of the state constitution and abatement of all penalties on delinquent taxes.

SHANNON'S PLEA

Lieut. Gov. Edward C. Shannon, candidate for the Republican gubernatorial nomination, addressed the convention. He said:

"Radical changes must be made in the method of government before taxes can be lowered."

He urged action and not "just talk."

Judge Charles D. Copeland, of Westmoreland County, independent candidate for the Democratic nomination for Governor, declared that he had entered the race in the hope that the tax question could be solved.

Constitutional revision in Pennsylvania was promised representatives of the various taxpayers' organizations by Thomas Kennedy, Democratic candidate for Lieutenant Governor. He assailed the state tax system and said that the Democratic party proposed a "real constitutional revision."

Mayor Eddie McCloskey, of Johnstown, candidate on both tickets for Secretary of Internal Affairs, and Richard J. Beamish, Secretary of the Commonwealth, also addressed the convention.

REED NOT PRESENT

United States Senator David A. Reed, candidate for re-election, sent his regrets, as did Mrs. Cornelia Bryce Pinchot, wife of the Governor.

The drive of the tax league will be statewide, with its affiliated member organizations waging battles for tax reduction in every community, according to Attorney Lewis Walkinshaw, in charge of the program.

Before adjournment last night the league appointed a committee to confer with state officials for relief to the landlord whose tenant is jobless. C. V. Shoup of Pittsburgh, C. J. Rhen of Lancaster and Fred Broad of New Kensington were appointed to the committee. A resolution was passed asking state welfare authorities for funds to provide shelter for the unemployed and to aid such persons by paying current taxes, water bills, fire insurance and to finance repairs to keep the conditions of dwellings within the law.

INVITATION REFUSED

The league turned down an invitation to join the newly created Taxpayers' Forum, after the program of the forum had been discussed by Alexander Biddle, Philadelphia banker, and H. A. Thompson of Upper Darby. When the invitation was extended many league members jumped to their feet and shouted "no."

Thompson was questioned regarding the new organization and his own activities, during which he admitted he was an officer in the county supervisors' association.

Dr. H. K. Ober, former president of Elizabethtown College, upheld the state's school system, but urged drastic reduction in salaries and administration. He proposed that salaries and expenses, beginning with the educational department, be cut in half, and that the schools be maintained on a restricted budget.

One of the points in the league's legislative program calls for elimination of small school districts and the establishment of one district in each county.

Other speakers were H. L. Shank, of Lancaster, president of the state association; I. Leonard Aronson, of Pittsburgh, who presented the legislative program, and B. H. J. Douglass, of Harrisburg.

Floor, Stairway Stolen From House

YORK, Pa., March 22.—(INS.)—Victor K. Frey complained to the police department that a thief stole his kitchen floor and a stairway. It developed that the house, unoccupied for some time, was invaded by someone who apparently was in need of kindling fuel.

Educators Begin Study Of School Consolidation

Smaller Districts Of State Face Merger

HARRISBURG, March 22.—Initial steps toward the possible merger of small school districts in the state were taken today at a conference of 22 educators from various sections of the commonwealth. The conference was opened by Dr. James N. Rule, Superintendent of Public Instruction, who explained the purpose was to begin a co-operative study of a legislative program for school district consolidation.

It is hoped to have a concrete program ready for the next session of the Legislature, Dr. Carmon Ross, president of the State Education Association, was present, as were 14 representatives of the association and a half dozen representatives of the state School Directors' Association.

The three groups are expected to work together in the survey which will last several months and out of which it is hoped definite recommendations can be made. The educators making the study will be known as the "Committee on Co-operative Study of the Unit of Administration and Its Financing."

MERGERS URGED

Merger of school districts in the interest of economy was urged at a recent meeting here of the State Education Association, and at that time a plan calling for a thorough study was approved.

Allegheny County is represented by M. A. Steiner, principal of the Ingram Schools, and George F. Hess, of the Port Vue borough schools.

For more than two years the officials of the State Department of Public Instruction have looked with favor on elimination of the small school district. It has been proposed by the department that the 2,587 districts in the state be cut to 500. This would eliminate any district with less than 5,000 population.

PLAN PROPOSED

Under the proposal which was first brought up at the last regular session of the Legislature, existing districts with 10,000 would remain as separate school areas. Smaller districts would be regrouped in community units, each having a population as far as practicable, of between 5,000 and 10,000.

Consolidation of districts would mean, officials point out, an immediate savings of from 10 to 20 per cent in non-instructional costs, through elimination of more than three-fourths of the school board treasurers, secretaries, solicitors, auditors and tax collectors. Other savings would be brought about through centralization of purchases of books, equipment and supplies.

Such consolidation would also provide for the establishment of a more efficient budgetry control of school costs and would make possible the removal of artificial barriers set up by small district boundary lines, with assignment of pupils to schools nearest their homes, thus reducing transportation costs to parents, taxpayers and the state.

Missing from his home since last Friday night, Woodrow Crawford, 16, of 712 Monterey street, Duquesne, was the object of a police search today after his parents had requested their aid.

TAXES ON SALES FAVORED BY CANDIDATES

Announcing as a candidate for Congress in the Thirty-fourth District, Dr. Frank C. Ferrante, of Coraopolis, presents a platform including these planks:

Old age pensions and elimination of child labor, banking laws fair to depositors, bankers and investors; adequate national defense, readjustment of income tax laws to plug loopholes for the rich, promotion of public ownership of national natural resources and rigid supervision of public utilities, reasonable tariffs to keep the door open for international trade, harmonizing of federal and state laws for dealing with crime, a reasonable subsidy to aid crippled and helpless war veterans and their families and immediate payment of the bonus, legislation in the interest of industry, labor and agriculture, "having in mind that labor is not a commodity but a human element."

FAVORS SALES TAX

Alfred L. Herman, seeking a Democratic legislative nomination in the Eighth District, favors a referendum on the city manager plan, unemployment insurance, reduction in school taxes on real estate and a state income tax. Herman lives at 2506 Howard street.

Daniel V. Flask, of West View, candidate in the Thirteenth District, favors state and federal sales taxes, a survey of state and local government with a view to modernization of administration, the metropolitan plan, Sunday movies, unemployment insurance, old age pensions, tax on utility real estate.

Liquor as Dividend Proves Costly to Stock Owners

NEW YORK, March 22.—(AP.)—Stockholders of National Distillers' Corporation, who elected to take the company's "whisky dividend" in liquid form found the operation rather expensive.

This was revealed by Seton Porter, president of the company, in the 1933 pamphlet report issued today. Each stockholder claiming the dividend of one case of old whisky for each five shares of stock held had to pay taxes, bottling, storage and other charges amounting to $20.61 per case, Porter said.

As shown in the company's preliminary report net income for 1933 amounted to $6,127,488 or $3.25 a share of common stock against $522,179, or 52 cents a share in 1932.

CHANGES IN TAX BILL INDICATE LONG TIEUP

WASHINGTON, March 22.—(AP.)—Prolonged congressional consideration of the quarter-billion income tax and general revenue measure was certain today because of wide alterations voted by the Senate Finance Committee.

Eventual approval of some if not all of the committee revisions appeared probable. But in any event the bill probably will have to be returned to the House.

The general committee trend as engineered by Chairman Harrison (Dem.), of Mississippi, would levy more taxes upon big corporations and estates and less upon smaller incomes. He estimated the revised bill would bring in around 300 million dollars, as compared to the 258 million dollar House measure.

The Senate committee approved continuation of the one-tenth of 1 per cent tax on the capital stock of corporation, estimated to bring in 95 million dollars and the 5 per cent excess profits tax. Both would have expired July 1, due to prohibition repeal.

It extended a 10 per cent credit on earned incomes up to $20,000 as compared to the House income tax provision of $8,000.

Estate taxes were increased to a maximum of 50 per cent as compared with the present 45, the raises ranging from 46 per cent on estates valued between a million and $1,500,000 up to 50 per cent on those valued at above 10 million dollars.

The principal income tax provision was left to read 4 per cent up to $4,000 with surtaxes starting at net incomes of $4,000 and ranging upward in 28 brackets to 59 per cent on those exceeding a million dollars.

BEAVER ISSUE UP AT CANAL HEARING

WASHINGTON, March 22.—(AP.)—Whether Beaver County, Pa., can pay its share of the proposed channelization of the Beaver and Mahoning rivers had become a point at issue today before the House Rivers' and Harbors' Committee.

Howard A. Hunter, of Beaver Falls, County Commissioner, flatly told the committee the county "absolutely couldn't bear the expense under the present setup."

CITES AID PLEAS

His statement was made in answer to a direct query by Representative McDuffie (Dem.), of Alabama, member of the committee. McDuffie later commented that in view of requests by Pennsylvania and Ohio for federal aid for schools and other conditions, "It seems to be we're running into an impossible situation."

Under the recommendations of Maj. Gen. E. M. Markham, chief of Army engineers, local interests would have to furnish up to 10 million dollars for bridge changes, damage claims and other matters. The government's expenditure for the improvement of the two streams to provide a waterway from the Youngstown steel district to the Ohio River was put at more than 37 million dollars.

TESTIMONY CLASHES

Commissioner Hunter said five bridges would have to be raised or rebuilt in Beaver County, and to do so would cost a million dollars. New bond issue would have to be submitted to the voters, he said, and he predicted it would not carry.

His testimony contradicted that of Col. James P. Leaf, engineer and former Beaver County Commissioner, who asserted the county could and would bear its share.

Testimony has been submitted that the other two counties affected — Mahoning in Ohio and Lawrence in Pennsylvania — are ready to do their part.

U.S. Consulate Opens With Rush in Soviet

MOSCOW, March 22.—(AP.)—The "open for business" sign was hung up today by the United States consulate in Moscow, thus inaugurating the normal functions of American consular representation in Russia for the first time since the Bolshevik revolution.

Temporary offices occupying the whole first floor of the Savoy Hotel hummed with activity as eight consular officials and five clerks took up their duties under Angus I. Ward, acting chief consul pending the arrival tonight of Consul General George Hanson from Harbin.

650 DIE AS FIRE SWEEPS CITY IN JAPAN

TOKIO, March 22.—(AP.)—Fire which took at least 650 lives, wounded nearly 500 and left 150,000 persons homeless turned the port city of Hakodate into what witnesses described as a "living hell" today.

After roaring through a night of horror, the flames still crackled the ruined city this afternoon and spread death and destruction into the suburbs.

A preliminary check, reported to the minister of communications, indicated that 25,000 buildings—three-fourths of the city—were burned. Hakodate's population was 213,000.

GALE CAUSES HOLOCAUST

A storm which raged in the empire from Formosa to the island of Hokkaido, was blamed for the holocaust at Hakodate, largest community in the nation north of Tokio and ranked as Japan's tenth city.

The gale knocked over chimneys. Roofs caught fire. Before the winds, the conflagrations quickly spread beyond hope of control.

It was Japan's direst tragedy since the Tokio-Yokohama earthquake and holocaust of 1923.

Efforts were pressed to speed relief work as suffering was intensified by sleet-laden winds. Physicians and medical supplies were rushed by special trains.

SHIPS HOUSE REFUGEES

Communications were disrupted before the news could be flashed from the city itself. First word of the fire was sent by wireless messages from ships.

Electric plants were consumed shortly after the fire began, leaping flames formed the only illumination.

Some refugees were taken aboard ships in the harbor. Others fled into suburban communities, many only to be driven from those points as the flames advanced.

Records of the American consulate-general showed the only Americans living in Hokodate to be Miss Mary T. Collins, of Philadelphia, and Miss Alice Cheney, of Minneapolis. They were teachers in a Methodist mission school for girls, outside the area reported burned.

MUNITION SHIP RESCUE BALKED

HONGKONG, March 22.—(AP.)—The captain's refusal to unload any of his cargo—believed to consist mainly of munitions—was reported today as contributing to failure to refloat the Russian freighter Kuznetzlessou, which went aground March 11 on Pratas Island.

Word of the failure was brought here by a tug sent from Hongkong to aid the Soviet vessel. The master of the Chinese boat said the grounded ship's cargo was believed to include a river gunboat, several launches and machinery.

The Russian ship Kamari was reported standing by and another vessel, apparently a salvage ship from Vladivostok, returning to that Russian port for special salvage equipment.

The tug brought two passengers off the Kuznetzlessou to Hongkong. They were questioned by police.

COMPOSER DIES IN GERMANY

He had been ill for several months following a paralytic stroke.

Few contemporary composers have been the targets of greater criticisms on the one hand and enthusiastic demonstrations on the other than Schreker.

His last opera, "The Smithy of Ghent," produced in Berlin in 1932, was rejected by the public and the press. This greatly embittered Schreker and he resigned soon thereafter from the Prussian Academy of Arts where his class in composition included such illustrious pupils as Ernst Krenek, Joseph Rosenstock, Karol Rathaus and Jascha Horenstein.

Driver Arrested As Car Hits Girl

Helen Lempicki, 7, of 8 Brenham street, was recovering in Mercy Hospital today from a head injury received when she was struck by an automobile while crossing the Boulevard of the Allies, near McDevitt place, last night.

Charles Durrenberger, 35, of 557 Pasadena avenue, Wilkinsburg, alleged driver of the car, was charged with reckless driving, police reported.

Actor's Son Held As Drunken Driver

LOS ANGELES, March 22.—(AP.)—William J. Tannen, 23, son of Julius N. Tannen, actor, was convicted yesterday on charges of drunken driving filed after the automobile he was driving crashed into a pole in Hollywood. He is to appear for sentence Friday.

Arabian Jewel Case Stolen in Museum

BURGOS, Spain, March 22.—(AP.)—An Arabian marble jewel case with Mussulman inscriptions, valued at more than 500,000 pesetas ($70,000) has been stolen from the Provincial Museum.

Police held for questioning two youths who visited the museum several times recently.

Their Peek-a-Boo Fatal

BETTY STREET, 8 RAY, 5

Betty and her little brother, sorry today that they played peek-a-boo at home while their parents were a short distance away. Carl, 2, toppled from his high chair, fatally spilled scalding water.

BOY, 2, SUFFERS FATAL BURNS

Nine-year-old Betty Street today mourned the death of her little brother, Carl, 2, who was scalded to death yesterday while they were at play in their home, 411 Freeland street, Knoxville.

Carl, Betty explained, was drenched with steaming water from a kettle he had upset in the excitement of a game of "peek-a-boo" with her.

Mrs. Lloyd Street, their young mother, with her husband, was cleaning in a neighbor's home when the tragedy occurred. While she hesitated to leave the children alone, she explained her need for employment necessitated it.

Betty sorrowfully explained the accident:

"He was in his high chair near the stove and we were playing peek-a-boo. When he tried to jump down he upset the kettle. I rushed upstairs and got Mrs. Mahoney. She called a doctor."

Mrs. Joseph Mahoney occupies the front of the house where the tragedy happened yesterday.

Sobbing, Mrs. Street reiterated:

"If we just hadn't left them alone."

Millvale Man's Body Is Taken From River

The body of Elmer Burke, 40, occupant of a houseboat in the Allegheny River at Millvale, drowned yesterday when a rowboat overturned while he was reaching for an oar, was recovered several hours later by River Patrolman Charles M. Snyder.

The boat upset when Burke reached for an oar that fell into the water 30 feet from shore. His companion, Joseph Mihelick, 30, who lived with him, also thrown into the water, helped Burke to remain afloat as long as he could, but both were hampered by their heavy clothing.

HITLER ENLISTS CUPID TO AID JOBLESS

MUNICH, Germany, March 22.—(AP.)—The aid of loan-granting Cupid has been enlisted by Chancellor Adolf Hitler in carrying out a billion-mark anti-unemployment campaign.

Twenty-one words in his address announcing a labor program, including the construction of highways, land reclamation, and the building of ships and houses, made the hearts of marriageable fraulein beat faster as they envisioned wedding bells ringing for them.

Said the bachelor leader of Nazi Germany:

"In order to enable 200,000 more to enter upon matrimony some 150,000,000 marks (about $60,000,000) will be set aside as matrimonial loans."

The provision was made, however, that the bride-to-be has been engaged in a gainful occupation at least six months prior to the contemplated marriage and that she promises not to resume gainful employment as long as her future husband's earnings exceed 125 marks (about $50) a month.

The chancellor inaugurated the $400,000,000 public works program with a call for a "long pull, a strong pull, and a pull-together."

While the whole nation—workers, government officials, school children, housewives—listened in, Hitler spoke from a dumping truck at Unterhaching, near here.

The beginning of the movement was—with an eye to effect—set to coincide not only with the beginning of spring, but to mark the first anniversary of the opening of the Nazi Reichstag in Potsdam, which gave Hitler dictatorial powers. The latter event was observed also by parades and other addresses.

U. S. CASH READY TO SAVE FARMS

Federal funds for farm loans are now available in this district, L. D. Haag, secretary-treasurer of the Butler Production Credit Association, Butler, Pa., who has charge of such loans in seven counties, announced today.

Haag emphasized that all loans will be made on a strictly business basis. Security is required consisting of first liens on crops, livestock or other personal property. A small fee is charged to inspect property but usually no charge is made if the loan is not granted.

Loans may be made at 5½ per cent interest to purchase seed, equipment or fertilizers or to cover costs of growing or cultivating crops. Most of the loans, Haag said, will run from three to 12 months.

WAR ON LEAGUE LAUDED BY READERS

Interest in the preparation of a monster petition for presentation to Congress opposing a move to force American participation in the League of Nations and the World Court continued unabated today. Hundreds of signatures, many signed to petitions clipped from the Pittsburgh Sun-Telegraph while others collected by patriotic citizens and members of the organizations co-operating in the movement, poured into this office in every mail.

Accompanying a group of names of protestants from Carrick, Brentwood and Broughton, Charles D. Gray, of Carrick, wrote:

"The writer wishes to thank your paper for giving the people a chance to express themselves upon this subject. Once more we thank this paper that stands for America—first, last and all the time."

Another correspondent, Henry Egle, of the South Side, wrote:

"Had we, the United States, minded our own business as advocated by the Father of Our Country—we would be $25,000,000,000 ahead and owe nothing. For not doing it, we are being taxed to starvation."

Evidence of the great interest in the campaign of the Sun-Telegraph and Associated Hearst Newspapers to keep America free from foreign entanglements, enthusiastic supporters in Leechburg sent in a list of 129 names; 68 came from Adena, O., and 61 from Steubenville, O. These, of course, were in addition to hundreds of petitions, containing from 10 to 20 names each.

A copy of the petition is published in this edition. Blank petions are available at the office of the Pittsburgh Sun-Telegraph, Telegraph Square; the downtown branch office at Fifth avenue and Market street, or they may be obtained by writing or telephoning the League Court Editor, Pittsburgh Sun-Telegraph.

Get blank petitions at once. Sign them. Ask your neighbors, friends and associates to sign them and see that they are forwarded at once to the League Court Editor.

PETITION AGAINST PARTICIPATION In the LEAGUE of NATIONS and World Court

If you want to save America from European entanglements and keep your country out of foreign wars, and foreign wars out of your country, sign this petition:

TO THE MEMBERS OF THE UNITED STATES SENATE AND HOUSE OF REPRESENTATIVES:

We protest AGAINST the United States participating in the League of Nations or in the World Court of the League of Nations, with or without "reservations."

We petition our Federal Government to keep our United States "free from foreign entanglements," as the Father of Our Country wisely enjoined.

We urge our Congress at Washington to keep our government from meddling in foreign affairs, and to keep foreign nations from meddling in our American affairs.

As loyal American citizens, we ask our loyal representatives to keep our country out of foreign conflicts and complications and to keep foreign conflicts and complications out of our country.

LEAGUE BICKERINGS SCORED

The League of Nations and the World Court are centers of international disputes and bickerings from which Uncle Sam would do well to stand clear, Dr. Louis Joffe, Russian-born American citizen, world traveler, author, soldier and lecturer, said over WCAE last night. He continued:

"The League of Nations is an instrument in the hands of the big powers, to give a sort of legal and ethical sanction to their ambitions and actions. The World Court is incapable of rendering an honest and unbiased verdict since the judges themselves are always interested parties in the dispute under consideration. At best the World Court is impotent because it has no means to enforce its edicts."

The United States should remember the wise counsel of George Washington, to shun entanglements in European affairs, Dr. Joffe advised. He continued:

"If we meddle in European affairs, we will surely be drawn into the vortex of their sinking civilization. We cannot help them by joining the League of Nations. We can help the world at large by example only."

Americans have demonstrated that humans can live peacefully together, regardless of racial descent or religious inclinations, Dr. Joffe continued. He said:

"Let us devote our energies to building our own prosperity and maintaining our own peace by defending it with the most efficient army, navy and air forces that the world has ever seen. We can afford it because we are still the El Dorado of the world."

LEAGUE ACTION BANNED BY ROOSEVELT

By KENNETH CLARK
Universal Service.

WASHINGTON, March 22.—President Roosevelt today had made it plain he does not believe the League Court should be brought up at this session of the Senate to jeopardize important domestic legislation.

His views were expressed at the semi-weekly White House press conference when he declared he had not even thought about the question of reviving the court issue.

Prominent Senators promptly backed up the President. Senator Robinson, of Arkansas, Democratic leader, advised of the President's remarks, declared:

"I stated at the beginning of this session I did not think the court would be brought up at this time."

Senator Borah, of Idaho, ex-chairman of the Senate Foreign Relations Committee, said:

"The President is quite right. The Senate hasn't the time to think about the court."

From the President's statement it was obvious he considers the administration and Congress are too busy with recovery efforts to be diverted into consideration of American entry into the League of Nationals tribunal.

The President also revealed he was not consulted by Chairman Pittman, of the Foreign Relations Committee, about reviving the court question. Numerous senators saw Pittman's action as embarrassing to the administration. Against advice of colleagues, Pittman called hearings before the committee on the court protocols. Representatives of several organizations which have been trying to get the United States into both the court and the League of Nations are to be heard Friday. Opponents will be heard later.

Newton D. Baker, Cleveland, Woodrow Wilson's secretary of war, is listed as the principal spokesman for the pro-courters.

Members of the committee declared that in view of the President's position, it is unlikely the committee will even vote on reporting the protocols to the Senate, and will shelve the question after hearings.

Senator Wheeler, of Montana, said:

"The court is the very last issue that should be tossed into the Senate now. The American people demand action to bring about economic recovery."

M'CLURE INCOME TAX PROBED

PHILADELPHIA, March 22.—(AP.)—The income tax returns of State Senator John J. McClure, convicted leader in the Delaware County liquor conspiracy case, are being investigated by the government.

Federal Judge George A. Welsh yesterday issued an order directing Samuel de Paul, Chester, one of those convicted with McClure last fall, to appear with papers, records and checks "relating to a taxpayer in the eastern district of Pennsylvania, now under investigation, the said taxpayer being John J. McClure."

POPE, DUCE HELD RESPONSIBLE FOR PEACE

Staff Correspondent.

LOS ANGELES, March 22. — With Europe armed to the teeth, peace among the nations abroad is dependent upon the continued good health of two men—His Holiness, the Pope, and Benito Mussolini—Mayor James M. Curley, of Boston, declared here yesterday.

Excoriating those who would throttle a preparedness program in the United States, the Mayor said:

"It is true that virtually one out of every three able bodied men in Europe is in a uniform. This is no time for Americans to forget that we must be ready to protect ourselves."

The Pope and Mussolini, he added, are the two factors responsible for preventing the militant spirit on the continent from flaming into disastrous war. He continued:

"I feel that the greatest clarion for the continued existence of the United States is William Randolph Hearst, with his magnificent advocacy of preparedness.

Mr. Hearst's position regarding the sinister results which would ensue should we join the League of Nations is not only right; it is an essential stand for the salvation of the United States of America."

Mayor Curley, who several months ago completed a European tour, is here with his pretty 22-year-old daughter, Mary, and his son, Francis, 10, for a few days' stay.

Turning from international problems to the battle to keep this country on the highway to prosperity, the Mayor stated:

"I was greatly impressed with Mr. Hearst's recent powerfully logical radio address, in which he discussed the National Recovery Administration. I agree with him implicitly in the belief that in many instances the NRA has exceeded its authority, to the detriment of business.

"However, I should like to point out that one of the strongest features of President Roosevelt's recovery program is his readiness to admit that it is fundamentally an experiment.

"The President is no iconoclast. He is sane and sensible, and we can trust him to remedy the flaws in the recovery machinery which have been exposed by great patriots like Mr. Hearst."

It is pleasing to note, Mayor Curley went on, that Henry Ford, Edward Filene, and other leaders of industry and business, have enunciated the doctrine that the economic survival of the United States lies in increased wages and shorter hours of labor.

He continued:

"It is my firm conviction that had the $5,000,000,000 public works program been adopted when it was first urged by the Hearst newspapers we would have long since been out of our unemployment difficulties."

Returning for a moment to discussion of recovery activities, Mayor Curley said he believed the CWA and PWA represent fruition of the seeds sown by Mr. Hearst in his $5,000,000,000 public works project suggestion.

Discharge Papers Awaiting Veterans

Lost discharge certificates of a Civil War and three World War veterans have been returned to the office of the Pittsburgh Chapter, American Red Cross, organization officials announced.

They were made out to Henry Ebickhouser, Walter L. Kline, Wasul Walgin and Thomas M. McCabe, and may be secured by their owners, on proof of identity, at the Chamber of Commerce building.

Divorced

'DREAM GIRL' WINS DIVORCE

CHICAGO, March 22.—(AP.)—Alice Joy, radio singer known as "The Dream Girl," was granted a divorce uncontested today from Eldon A. Burn, who she said was a captain in the British Royal Flying Corps and a book reviewer for the New York Times. She is Mrs. Frances Harriet Burn in private life. The charge was desertion.

She wept as she asked the court to grant her custody of her two children, Bruce Robert, 6, and Lois Brae, 5. The request was granted. Mrs. Burn is 33.

KILLED WOMAN TO END 'HEX,' BOY SAYS

Shinsky said that twice every month he was unable to sleep and that on these occasions a huge black cat, with green eyes, appeared out of the darkness and tore at his sides.

He declared he was helpless to drive away the cat until he chanted three phrases recommended to him by a "hex pow-wow doctor" in Hazleton.

He said the cat would go away as he uttered these words:

"God, the Father; God, the Son; God, the Holy Ghost."

SPIRIT URGED KILLING

Shinsky told how he had visited shrines, and made every effort to cast aside the spell.

He said that he had consulted seven "hex pow-wow doctors" but the Hazleton man, he told, was the only one who gave him relief.

Shinsky told Buono the same "evil spirit" that Mrs. Mummey summoned from the sky had urged him to slay the woman.

Several times, he said, he went to the Mummey home in the wood but the woman had some strange power over him that made him weak and unable to carry out his purpose.

The youth told officers he was constantly harassed by the spell. He said that when he attended public functions, such as dances, his strength flowed away and he crept away to his home.

'HEX' RULES REGION

Constable Buono said today that hex beliefs rule a great part of the region, among the earlier settlements in Pennsylvania.

It is known as the "hill country" of North Union Township, in the heart of the "Line Mountains."

It was there that Conrad Weiser, fur trader and "ambassador" of the settlers, sat down with Shikellmy, powerful Indian chief, and drew the line that was to divide the white man from the Indian.

"It became "Line Mountain" to the pioneers, but it was Achantango, to the Indians, the sixth range of the Blue Mountains.

Germans moved in from the east, bringing with them the customs and beliefs of the old world.

The "hex" appeared early and Buono said he still finds barns and dwellings, many of them more than a century old, bearing the mark of the "hex."

Buono said that he had been told "many mules and cows and cattle are hexed and some carry signs by which their owners seek to counteract the "hex."

$100,000 in Stocks Stolen in Detroit

DETROIT, March 22.—(INS.)—Stock certificates worth between $100,000 and $200,000, have been stolen from the National Bank of Commerce here, the Detroit Stock Exchange announced today.

Fire Alarm Fan 'Tells' Police Of Escape

BALTIMORE, March 22.—(AP.)—Police had proof Vincent O'Halloran had escaped from St. Mary's Industrial School shortly after being notified by institutional authorities.

Four hours after his escape a false alarm was turned in and police immediately sent out a call to patrolmen to pick up 15-year-old O'Halloran.

The youth was sent to the school for turning in false alarms and police were notified of a previous escape by a false alarm which he turned in.

SENATE GETS NAVAL BILL

WASHINGTON, March 22.—(AP.)—The conference report on the Vinson treaty naval bill was adopted today by the House.

It now goes to the Senate where early favorable action was expected by the leaders.

It provides for a naval construction program of 102 warships and 1,140 airplanes, estimated to cost about $580,000,000.

Restaurant Opens Gingham Club Here

Under direction of Phil Gordon, Child's Fifth avenue restaurant today opens the Gingham Club, a novel feature installed in Child's restaurants in Washington, Cleveland and Philadelphia.

Waitresses and expert girl bartenders in gayly colored gingham costumes will provide service, and Marty Schramm's orchestra will furnish music during the cocktail hour, and for both dinner and supper dancing. A new dance floor with novel lighting effects also has been added.

HOUSE BALKS PAY CUT BILL

WASHINGTON, March 22.—(AP.)—The House today refused to join the Senate in voting full restoration of cut pay to government employes.

This action, by a standing vote of 146 to 98, assured delay in sending the independent offices appropriation bill to the White House.

In that measure is tied up the controversial veterans' allowances question. President Roosevelt has assured a veto if the $118,000,000 voted by the Senate for veterans is retained in the bill.

A vote on that question was to follow.

The House voted to restore five per cent of the cut federal pay as of February 1 and five per cent more on July 1. The Senate voted for five per cent as of February 1 and the full 15 per cent on July 1.

Speaker Rainey predicted to newspaper men the House would agree to the liberal veterans allowances voted by the Senate, thereby assuring the presidential veto.

Civil Service Board To Act on Ousters

Notices of proposed changes to exempt the city paymaster and his clerk from Civil Service regulations were posted today by the Civil Service Commission and a public hearing set for Monday morning on the proposed changes.

Mayor McNair sometime ago attempted to oust Paymaster Louis Glesenkamp and Clerk Harry Sikov, but was unsuccessful because of their Civil Service ratings.

Schoolboy Tries Suicide in Leap

OAKLAND, Cal., March 22.—(AP.)—William Sterling, 18, leaped from a third-story window of the Oakland High School yesterday and suffered injuries which may cause his death.

Friends said Sterling had been despondent because of low grades in his studies.

LIBERAL NEVADA GOVERNOR DIES

CARSON CITY, Nev., March 22. (AP.) — Death has ended the career of Gov. Frederick Bennett Balzar, 54, who once proclaimed Nevada "the last free state in the Union" because of its liberalism.

Gov. Balzar, who signed acts legalizing gambling and the six-weeks' divorce law, died at the executive mansion here yesterday after a long illness. Funeral services were tentatively set for Saturday at Reno. The date was declared a holiday by Lieut. Gov. Morley Griswold, who succeeded to the executive duties.

Long a Republican leader in the state politics, Gov. Balzar started his first term in 1927, after a colorful career as miner, railroad man, State Legislator and Sheriff. His second term would have expired at the end of 1934.

'CARVES' FACE TO MAKE GIRL BEAUTIFUL

By JOHN KOBLER
Universal Service.

NEW YORK, March 22.—While 1,000 women, many of them on the verge of fainting, gaped, and a pianist pounded out dance-tunes, Dr. J. Howard Crum, plastic surgeon, "carved up" the face of a young and pretty girl in an effort to give her a new personality.

Although Crum announced that "this is a serious operation, not a vaudeville act," the proceedings at the Hotel Roosevelt where the annual beauty convention is being held, resembled the climax of a gruesome melodrama.

JOBLESS SALESGIRL

The heroine was 23-year-old Elsie Norman, an unemployed salesgirl, who, according to Crum, has so little personality that she has been unable to obtain work. Just before the operation Dr. Crum told Universal Service:

"I got the idea of this experiment two years ago, but it took me one year to get up the nerve to try it. I've done a lot of plastic surgery for private patients, but that was pure beauty-work, done to gratify feminine vanity. This experiment is designed to alter the personality of a face. If it works, there will be nothing more to do in plastic surgery.

"Scores of girls offered themselves for this experiment, but I selected Elsie on the grounds that her face was so unfortunate that I could see how people would be prejudiced. She will be under my care for one week."

SCULPTOR AIDS

Crum explained how he worked in collaboration with a sculptor and the patient herself. A life-mask was made. Then Crum, with suggestions from Miss Norman, made an ideal profile.

The audience included beauticians, reporters, and photographers. Squeamish persons were warned to withdraw. Later twelve of them were assisted outside. A huge pitcher of water stood nearby for the benefit of those who found themselves slightly faint. It was empty at the end of the session.

In order to accommodate the hundreds who thronged the convention to witness the operation, the hall was emptied after the first half of the face had been modeled, and a new audience allowed to rush in.

PATIENT SMILES

The patient was seated squarely in the middle of the stage. Novocaine was injected to deaden the pain, and the places where the incisions were to be made were painted from the ideal model held by a nurse. Crum explained to his gasping audience:

"I am an artist rather than a surgeon."

He then went to work for one hour, changing the structure of the face, while cameras clicked. Through it all the patient merely smiled and gazed at the audience. The doctor chatted merrily with the audience, perspiring in the bright klieg lights. The pianist played such appropriate selections as "As You Desire Me," "I'll See You Again," and ended with "Beautiful Lady."

Old Coins Stolen In Squirrel Hill

Thieves forced a front door at the apartment of M. E. Marks, 5557 Hobart street, last night, ransacked various rooms and took $50 in old coins, jewelry valued at $140 and two revolvers, he reported to police.

Radio 'Talk-Backer'

DR. NEVIL M. HOPKINS . . . THAT'S HIS "TELEVOTE"

Dr. Hopkins, engineering lecturer at New York University, with his little magic box that might soon jar radio broadcasting. It could be made for about a dollar each and with it by pressing one of three buttons the listener could tell the broadcasting station that he's "present" and then vote "yes" or "no" on the goldarned program. This is an International News Photograph Service picture.

POLICE PHONE BILL BOOSTED

The county police barracks in South Park was authorized to secure a single line, phone by the County Commissioners yesterday.

Ray Sprigle, Director of Supplies, informed them that the police line had nine others on the line.

C. C. McGovern asked:

"Can't they take those farmers off the police line and let the county cottages be tied in?"

Sprigle answered in the negative, and added:

"But that's nothing, when I moved to my farm in Stoops Ferry, there were 23 on my line."

The old 10-party line cost $4.50 a month; the new is to cost $7.50.

VALERA TO SEEK NEW SENATE

International News Service.

DUBLIN, March 22.—The probability of abolition of the Irish Free State Senate developed today in a grave crisis following the De Valera government's defeat in the Senate last night, when the bill banning the wearing of blue shirts and other political uniforms was defeated, 30 to 18.

President Eamonn De Valera was expected to introduce into the Dail Eireann today a bill abolishing the Senate, after the passage of which the government would go before the people in an election for support on the bill outlawing the political shirts.

The government was defeated in the Senate by the action of independent Senators joining those of the United Ireland Party in voting down the bill.

BUTLER TRAVEL FACES DETOUR

Traffic over Route 8, between the Allegheny County line and Butler, will be routed over a 26-mile detour until November pending completion of the new Pittsburgh-Butler highway, according to announcement by the State Highway Department. The detour is improved.

Another detour, on Route 80, between Clarksburg and Saltsburg, Indiana County, was announced. The detour is 14 miles long of which 5.6 miles is earth in good condition. The detour will continue until August.

ACTORS OPPOSE NUDIST SHOW

Representatives of the Pittsburgh Actors' and Entertainers' Association were to appear before Mayor McNair today to protest the action of Magistrate J. W. McGowan in discharging 61 men and two dancers arrested in a raid on a stag show at 7325 Penn avenue Monday night.

In a telegram to the Mayor yesterday, the actors' association demanded an immediate investigation. The association characterized the stag show as "an insult to the decent citizens and legitimate entertainers of Pittsburgh."

MAGNITUDE OF RUSHMORE TEXT PLAN MISSED BY MANY

All Nine Episodes Must Be Covered In 600 Words

From the character of the early entries in the effort which most of America is making to express itself in a 600-word text for inscription on Mount Rushmore two things are apparent.

1—The competitors failed to read carefully the rules governing the competition, which have been frequently printed in the Sun-Telegraph.

2—The magnitude of the undertaking, and the stupendous permanence of the inscription has been overlooked.

This shows in two ways.

1—The texts do not cover ALL NINE OF THE EPISODES which the Mount Rushmore National Memorial Commission has decided must be embodied in the words Gutzon Borglum is to carve on the west slope of the mountain.

2—Some of the words used are colloquialisms, which is what college professors call "slang." Now there is nothing the matter with slang—except that it is mostly forgotten in a few years—and cannot be understood by future generations.

Therefore those who have not properly observed the rules should read over again and again every one of the points to be covered—and begin all over again. There is plenty of time!

The nine episodes in the growth and the development of the United States MUST be covered in texts submitted for the inscription to be carved on Mt. Rushmore.

To those of you who have not already written your essay it would be wise to clip the following and put it away somewhere. These are the nine episodes:

1—The Declaration of Independence.

2—The drafting of the Constitution.

3—Purchase of the Louisiana territory.

4—Ceding of the Floridas to the United States.

5—Rise of the republic of Texas and its entry to the union as a state.

6—The Mexican War and the acquisition of California.

8—The Alaska purchase.

9—Building of the Panama Canal.

Remember, no text, no matter how well written, has a chance for consideration unless these nine episodes are thoroughly covered. The rules of the competition sponsored by the Sun-Telegraph and associated Hearst newspapers to aid the Mount Rushmore National Memorial Commission select a text to be carved on the mountain will be published in the Sun-Telegraph from time to time. It is important that you study these carefully.

One man sent in an entry of exactly three words. It is apparent that he did not read over the rules.

Read the Sun-Telegraph every day and make a thorough study of these episodes. The series of a special article will begin on Monday. Do not hurry. You still have plenty of time. When you think you have all your information at hand put it into writing.

An write from the heart. No "fancy words." No long, drawn out phrases. Get as near as you can to 600 words in your manuscript, but do not go over that many.

Gov. Lehman Praises Rushmore Program

By GOV. HERBERT H. LEHMAN, OF NEW YORK.

Permit me to offer congratulations on the movement to have the inscription epitomizing the principal events of the history of America, that is to be carved on the face of Mount Rushmore, selected by means of a competition to be continued through the Hearst newspapers.

It seems to me particularly fitting that such an inscription should come from the people themselves. If an epic of America is to be created, I have always thought it would arise spontaneously from just such a source. The idea is inherently fine, and, with such a wide field from which to draw, I am convinced, cannot but further the ideals of good government and patriotism, which are and should always remain the heart of our great country.

BILL PROTECTS NEWSPAPERMEN

CHARLESTON, W. Va., March 21.—(AP.)—A bill was introduced in the House of Delegates today to protect newspapermen from prosecution for refusing to violate confidences.

The bill provides that no court or official body may require a newspaperman to divulge the source of information he receives.

The bill defined its purpose to be "to safeguard and protect the professional confidence of newspapers and newspapermen and the further freedom of the press."

Delegate Beacom, who introduced the measure, referred to the recent dispute between Vance Armentrout, associate editor of the Louisville Courier Journal and the Kentucky Legislature. Armentrout was committed to jail for an hour and later fined $25 for refusing to disclose the author of an article published in the newspaper criticising the Kentucky Legislature. He retaliated by filing a damage suit against the Legislative committee.

Walter Winchell
+ ON BROADWAY +

Give Mike Romanoff his due . . . The renowned impostor, who knows what prisoners are up against, joined the large army of entertainers (the other Sunday) who went to Sing Sing to amuse the lads there . . . Some time during the proceedings a large cup made the rounds into which contributions were dropped by the visitors . . . The biggies and smallies from Broadway placed money into it . . . Romanoff had only one dollar between himself and the breadline . . . But he did what few people have done in their lives! . . . He tossed the dollar in.

For the big dramatic gag in a picture he penned, it was "Hell's Highway"—Rowland Brown had Richard Dix, as a chain gang prisoner—about to be lashed across the back by a keeper—who drops his whip when he sees the American flag tattooed on the prisoner's (Dix's) back! . . . Ta da!

A group of screen writers, all good kidders, decided to frame Brown. They sent him a telegram and signed George M. Cohan's name to it . . . The wire accused Brown of stealing his (George M's) stuff, but commending him for his patriotic spirit! . . . Brown fell for it and has always treasured the counterfeit wire—which he may now tear up.

Add definitions of Love—a short cut to misery . . . Things nobody'll ever know—Why it is that the only theatergoers who come early are those who have the aisle pews? . . . And why the people in dead center are always the last to arrive and the first to want to leave? . . . And why such a contagious tune as my new pet "You Ought to Be in Pictures" (You're marvelous to see. You ought to be in pictures—oh, what a hit—you would be!) . . . Is only very catchy on the first and last eight bars and so ordinary in the middle? . . . With so many people flying in planes it is getting so that those of us who are sissies—lower our heads in shame when the question comes up . . . It remained for La Etting's honey-boy, Moe, however, to supply the appropriate retort when big he-men talk about plane flying . . . "Aw, come on!" yelled an annoying person, "be a man—when are you ever going to go up in a plane?" . . . "Not me!" screamed Mr. Etting, "I wanna stay downstairs and take the tickets!"

The column contributed by the owner of Antoine's, a restaurateur of New Orleans, fascinated many of the New Yorkers, who have it neatly framed in their kitchens and their foyers. So that patrons and the staff may read and perhaps be influenced by much of its good humor, philosophy and uncommon sense . . . But among other items some of us would certainly like to know are these . . . Why when you ask for three-minute boiled eggs—they are usually two or four minute boiled? . . . Why waiters always bring your change in quarters? . . . Why the waiter always takes away the menu before you've decided if there is anything extra you want? . . . Why, when you ask for chili sauce you get ketchup? . . .

Patrolman Philip Clarius liked kids . . . He was one of those big apple-cheeked cops, who could get closer to the true spirit of children in two minutes than the average parent can in a lifetime . . . So—over at the Bergen Street Station in Brooklyn they assigned Clarius to school traffic duty near Public School 13 . . . He knew most of the youngsters by their full names . . . In the afternoons, you could see him holding up motorists and even bike riders—while a lot of little feet marched safely across to the other side—and a lot of little girls smiled—like only little girls smile.

All of which makes what happened easier to understand . . . On March 5, while all the children were around him — two stick-ups tried to escape in a nearby car . . . Clarius drew his gat . . . They drew theirs, too. Clarius took aim—but he held his fire . . . They didn't.

In the hospital his superiors asked Clarius why he didn't shoot to kill . . . "Oh, I couldn't do that!" replied Clarius, wasting his energy, "not with all those kids near me. I couldn't take any chances!" . . . Patrolman Clarius—was given an Inspector's funeral. But what good is that? . . . Whatever solace he may get, wherever he is, will come from the fact that all the children of Public School 13 contributed two pennies each for the purchase of pretty posies "for the nice police man."

The two holdup men, who escaped, probably will understand the reason for their good luck—if they see this here, which I certainly hope they do . . . They shot at a heart so big—they couldn't miss!!!

This concerns John Walker, destitute father of eight children . . . Walker hasn't worked in four years . . . He was arrested because his dog didn't have a license . . . Walker had been warned about that, by heck . . . And so they arrested Mr. Walker, while his kids cried loud and long . . . The fine was $9.50. . . . And because Mr. Walker not only didn't have $9.50 — but doesn't believe yet that there possibly could be that much money anywhere!—he was given 30 days in the hoosegow . . . Funny word, hoosegow . . . It means jail . . . Jail is only funny to fellers like Dillinger—they're so easy to walk out of . . . At any rate, Mr. Walker (and I just learned, another native) went to jail for the same reason—no dog license.

Community Playhouse In Knoxville

The Hilltop Community Playhouse is being organized in the Knoxville Y. M. C. A., where interviews are being held nightly in the playhouse studio, the activities being under the supervision of D. M. Hall, director of the Epworthian Players. Besides talent for acting the group also seeks persons interested in a community orchestra, art, stage and other departments of theater work. A school of the theater is planned for dramatic training.

THEATERS -:- Gossip of Show World -:- HOT FROM HOLLYWOOD

Theater Also Reborn at Easter

By GEORGE SEIBEL

Easter, which is the festival of the Resurrection, will bring the resurrection of the theater in Pittsburgh, as the Nixon reopens Easter Monday with one of the most glorious singers of our day in an operetta by one of the most brilliant composers of our day. The operetta is called "Annina," and the singer is Maria Jeritza, and the composer is Rudolf Friml.

Mr. Seibel

People who have heard Jeritza as Elsa, Sieglinde and Tosca may think it is profanation to have her appear in Viennese light opera, but nobody raised a howl when Lawrence Tibbett went to Hollywood.

What is sauce for the gander, ought to be sauce for the goose. This is merely a proverbial phrase, no allusion to the Swan in "Lohengrin."

The new Friml operetta is said to be a sort of romantic dream play—a lass of aristocratic blood is to be married off to the wrong man by cruel parents, but she has a dream in which she sees how a remote ancestress met a similar emergency, and so—and so Jeritza gets into light opera.

"RICHARD OF BORDEAUX"

The Friml-Jeritza-Annina week is to be followed by that historical drama that has been stirring London for over a year, "Richard of Bordeaux," by Gordon Daviot. The author is a Scottish schoolmarm, and the hero is the son of the Black Prince, known to history as King Richard II.

How the author, who hides behind a nom de plume, dared to write a drama upon a subject already used by Shakespeare, need not concern us. The Scotch have pluck, and some day one of them will write a new "Macbeth," doing justice to the Thane.

People who have read Shakespeare's "Richard II" will find a different sort of character in this play. The new Richard is shown first as a young and sensitive idealist—the pacifist of his day. Then, after his wife's death and his betrayal by his uncles, as the Mussolini of his time.

John Gielgud played the star part in London—and Gielgud is an actor like our E. H. Sothern and James K. Hackett when they were matinee idols. The London success was due in part to him.

KING PLAYS KING

Why should not these players shift from one form of opera to another? Richard Mansfield started out in "The Mikado."

In our present state of apathy and penury, as far as the theater is concerned, artists feel that they owe the public nothing, as long as the public acts as if it owed the players nothing. That explains why so many of them go to Hollywood.

If Shakespeare were with us today, he would probably be out in Hollywood, too. And if the public wanted bunk and hokum, he would be writing bunk and hokum, since four low-brow quarters are as good as a high-brow dollar.

The public always gets what it wants, fan dancers or cheap vaudeville clowns. Shakespeare's public were readers of Montaigne and Bacon, so they got "Hamlet"—but there's also cheap vaudeville in Shakespeare.

In addition to a program by Rose Bampton and Nelson Eddy in Carnegie Music Hall Friday night, the local winners of the two prizes offered annually by the Art Society will be announced by the president, Dr. Thomas S. Arbuthnot. An unusual number of compositions were submitted during the season for the Martin B. Leisser prize of $100 offered for an organ composition, and for the Mu Phi Epsilon prize offered for a song for male or female voice, with piano accompaniment. Envelopes holding the winning names will be opened on the stage. A prize of $100 also is to be given by the Art Society for the best picture in the twenty-fourth exhibition by the Associated Artists of Pittsburgh. The Art Society, with 60 years of service, holds the distinction of being the oldest organization of its kind in America.

Old Time Stars Not Wholly Forgotten in Studios

By JIMMY STARR.

HOLLYWOOD, March 22.—Hello. Call it odd, pathetic, tragic, or what you will, there's a fascination in digging around and about the film colony for "those we've forgotten for awhile"—but have we discarded them? No, that isn't fair. They do come back—and nine times out of ten, they're far more welcome than most of the ninny-like newcomers, those inexperienced things that receive reactions like the public's first taste of ripe olives.

A pause in the busy routine of scaring up latest news, and I find Betty Compton, Robert Warwick, Dorothy Sebastian and Don Alvarado appearing in a two-reel fun film for education, "No Sleep in the Deep." Another glance around the set and there's Mary MacLaren, Alice Lake and Jack Duffy.

A few years ago each of the aforementioned were STARS in their own right. Time passes and erases many names from those cherished marquee lights.

At another studio Charley O'Malley is acting as Jimmy Durante's "stand-in." And at Warner's Pat O'Malley, Bess Flowers and Mrs. James Kirkwood are kicking at the big, bad wolf by working in Buzz Berkeley's dance routine for "Dames."

Henry B. Walthall's out of the so-called moth-balls and back to $1,000 per week for character roles. Betty Blythe's trying another comeback, this time on the stage. Vera Stedman's doing extra work. Ditto for Clara Horton, and the widow of Charles Emmett Mack.

* * *

The local social BUZZARDS tilted their noses up another notch when learning that Arthur G. Collings, Warner dialogue director, had his name in "Who's Who" . . . Ben Bernie's horse (of the same monicker) WON the other day—and he didn't know about it . . . Bill Demarest and Ruth Mix are getting to such a DOMESTIC state that they read newspapers while at dinner . . . Louise Henry, said to be on some New York social list, will start EMOTING for MGM on a featured picture's ticket.

* * *

Andy Clyde, the Scotch comic, wanted to donate some money to charity, and wishing to remain anonymous, didn't sign his name to the check!

* * *

Universal has written out a check for "Transient Lady," by Octavus Roy Cohen, de man from de South, and has assigned Eddie Buzzell to megaphone the ditty.

* * *

Marjorie White's hubby, Eddie Tierney, is opening a beer joint on Hollywood Blvd. to be captioned 'Wonder Bar." Losta FOAM and sawdust will be featured, with a piano for droppin-in song writers to fiddle with.

* * *

Lowell Sherman's SPRAYING his tonsils into shape for some plain and fancy acting and direction. He'll double-duty it for "The Human Side," a yarn of a "great I am" theatrical producer. Without becoming something or other, I would say Lowell could do the thing in a most befitting manner.

* * *

The Warner studio dug deep into the cash box for dough to buy "The Story of a Country Boy," by Dawn Powell, which will be a Paul Muni production—if Paul likes the yarn and Mrs. Paul Muni nods her head prettily.

* * *

Too bad Charles Laughton isn't the Four Marx Brothers, or Six Brown Brothers—there are THAT many roles awaiting his time and choice.

Odds and Ends

MY GOOD friend, Mr. Barney Gallant, has just returned from a vacation spent in the West Indies. A veteran traveler, Mr. Gallant proceeds as fancy dictates, never gets sunburned and always comes back without gifts for anyone but himself. I wish I had that much courage.

At any rate, on a certain island that need not be mentioned here, Barney was astonished to find one of the most beautiful dog tracks he had ever gazed upon. The cost of the plant must have run well over a million dollars, and it looked it.

Strangely enough, though, the track was not in use. It was the height of the season and dog races would most certainly have been a most profitable source of revenue. But there is was, as idle as a painted slip upon a painted lotion.

In addition to the worst people on any island, Mr. Gallant always manages to meet one or two of the best. And so it was he found himself in conversation one afternoon with a leading figure of the government.

"I'm curious about something," said Barney, "and maybe you'd care to supply the answer. There's a beautiful dog track only a mile or so from the hotel, but it isn't being operated. What's the matter; didn't it make any money?"

"Oh, yes," nodded the official. "We had him open last year and he make great deal of money. Many, many thousands of dollars. But we had to close him down because dog track interfere with family life. That is no good."

"I don't understand," he frowned. "How could a dog track interfere with your family life?"

The government man sighed:

"It is very simple," he explained. "I take my sweetheart to the track because she like to bet on dog. We arrive, and there stands my wife because she also like to bet on dog. Such thing is very bad for man's family life. So we close up track!" . . .

"This week as a whole is favorable to all those with birthdates from Jannuary 1 to 10.

"This is an unfavorable week as a whole for those born April 1 to 15."

Anybody who would kick about that is just plain unreasonable. . .

A NUMBER of your correspondents have claimed to know the world's dumbest dame," writes S. M. Sussman. "But I met one yesterday who tops 'em all.

TO ME, far and away the greatest human interest story of the day is the case of Samuel Insull, only a few years ago one of the wealthiest men in the world. As I write these lines, Insull, in complete disgrace, without a trial and fleeing American justice, is supposedly on his way to Djibouti, in French Somaliland.

I wonder what Insull thinks about as his hired tramp steamer plows through the sea? He is an old man, with 74 years behind him. When I spoke to him in Athens more than a year ago, he was afraid of his own shadow. Surely life was no pleasure to him then.

But, little man, what now? In Athens, at least, there was companionship and a certain amount of gaiety. But in Djibouti—if the authorities permit him to land—Insull will find a horrible nothingness. It is one of the poorest of all towns; dirty, dreary and shocking in its atmosphere of despair. I left there as fast as I could, and it wasn't fast enough.

I think sometimes that Insull is fleeing from Death, instead of the American authorities. He can't win, of course, but I do believe he figures that he will live a few months extra if he is not returned to Chicago.

It's strange, isn't it, how we humans cling to Life when we have no reason to believe that Death will not be far more pleasant? . . . .

Impressive pictures record the appearance of Col. Lindbergh before the Senate Committee in Washington, in the current issue of Hearst Metrotone News. Lindbergh attacks the giving over of the air mail to the Army and calls it unjust. He is applauded at the conclusion of his testimony.

One of them is killed when gentlemen riders crash in the amateur Grand National at Cheltenham, England. The Globe Trotter describes the race.

Mrs. Franklin D. Roosevelt is pictured as she arrives in Miami from her airplane trip to Porto Rico and the Virgin Islands. Later she is shown arriving in Washington.

With ideal weather, New York sees its biggest St. Patrick's Day parade before a crowd of 500,000. Cardinal Hayes reviews the parade, while Gov. Lehman and Mayor LaGuardia are on the reviewing stand.

The first pictures of an immense mural painted by Gilbert White, American artist, for the new Agricultural Building in Washington, are shown as the painting arrives from Paris.

Baseball players in a game for the benefit of the police pension fund at Palm Beach included George Vanderbilt, Woolworth Donahue, Gene Tunney and Georgie Jessel.

NOTE—Owing to the necessity upon theater managers to arrange their programs in time schedule, it is possible some of the subjects of the above issue of Hearst Metrotone News may not be shown in your theater.

Human Side of the News

The Ohio University at Athens, Pioneer College of the Middle West, Is 130 Years Old

By Edwin C. Hill

TWO episodes of the long ago—the two pictures of romance and adventure, when our country was very young—and both a part of the absolute present, are linked to the news of this very day by the indestructible chains of Destiny.

Down the Ohio River, into the Indian country, drives a fleet of birchbark canoes. Paddlers in fringed buckskin, bend and dip, bend and dip, as the canoes leap to the pull of the great river. Crowded in the canoes are bronzed young men, engineers with their tripods and compasses, and tall riflemen scanning the wooded banks of the Ohio with sharp, keen glances. For the forest is alive with hostile Shawnees and Delawares, red men on the war path, fighting to the last ditch to save the north bank of the Ohio against the inexorable advance of white men.

On, down the Ohio, and into the little Hock-Hocking, and so to the site of what is now the city of Athens, O. And there, under the leadership of Gen. Rufus Putnam, the engineers took the first step toward bringing education to the Northwest Territory. While the buck-skinned riflemen stood guard, the men with the tripods and the compasses surveyed the boundaries of what is now Ohio University, the pioneer college of the Central West. And presently the Ohio Legislature was establishing the first western university by law.

A few years later, in a few rough cabins, in the primeval forest, a devoted scholar named Dr. Mannasseh Cutler, a Yale man, was presiding over a collection of rough log buildings and teaching a little Latin and less Greek, along with mathematics and modern languages, to eager young people who came thronging from the pioneer homes. The beginning of Ohio University, one hundred and thirty years ago, today.

Harrison Is Son Of Runaway Slaves

AND now, that other picture of the old days, so strangely linked to the present. A young slave girl, owned by the Wilkes family of Kentucky, flees from bondage and makes her way by the Underground route into free Canada. And from St. Louis a young Negro man, slave of the famous Chouteau family, makes his escape and reaches the Canadian border and safety. And presently these two, the runaway slaves, meet in a Canadian city and marry. Children come to them, and among the children a boy child, who was to become a celebrated member of his race in this country, Richard B. Harrison, "De Lawd" of that grand play, "The Green Pastures."

A great actor, this dark-skinned gentleman, as any one must agree who has ever seen him in the play. As anyone must agree who has watched the spirit of goodness and benevolence glowing in his fine face as he walks on his good, green earth, smiling to the greeting of the little daisies by the roadside, trilling in chorus to his benign inquiry: "We's fine, Lawd." Or who has seen him lay his gentle and comforting hand upon the bowed shoulder of the weary and defeated Moses, as the Hebrew children go chanting on in the footsteps of their young captain, Joshua, into the Promised Land.

Recently, "The Green Pastures" celebrated its fourth continuous year on the stage, and gave its fourteen - hundred - and - sixtieth performance at Athens, O., the seat of Ohio University, while Dr. E. B. Bryan, one-time Commissioner of Education in the Philippines, and president of Colgate University, now head of Ohio University, was host to Richard B. Harrison and the Fat Angel and the Skinny Angel, the Custard Maker, Old King Pharaoh and the King of Babylon, and all the little winged cherubim and seraphim of the fish fry in Heaven.

And nobody but De Lawd himself could pass a miracle like that, bringing together in the news of the day, the echoes of distant romances and of adventures which flowed along the great Ohio and through the forests and into Canada in the days when the nation was young.

* * *

A YOUNG mother in a village near Delhi, capital of India, who most certainly had never heard the English nursery rhyme, made a cradle for her baby in a tree and let him swing away to his heart's content, while she went to market, or talked over the back fence with her next door neighbor. A commotion by some children led her and several men arunning to the vicinity of the tree. There they paused terrified. The baby was playing with a full sized cobra. They dared not approach, fearful lest any movement would cause the serpent to strike.

And the infant, swinging from the branch, close to the ground, just goo-gooed and waved its tiny fingers at the hooded head of death. Presently, the snake glided off—the mother grabbed her offspring and the villagers gathered into knots to talk over the strange phenomena and to decide that the babe was a child of destiny—marked for great things.

I called the attention of one of my naturalist friends to this happening, which is just reported from India, and his answer was this:

"That youngster was just a natural born snake charmer, or, lucky for him, was unconsciously one at that moment. The snake is a cowardly sort of fellow, at least a very cautious one, and also is a fellow known for his singleness of interest. When you think a snake is dancing to the music or the weaving of a snake charmer, he is doing no such thing. He is just following the movements of the charmer or of his flute. And most likely that is what happened in this case. Our friend King Cobra was all taken up in the youngster's gestures, or the kicking of his toes, and went away finally to seek other game."

Torn Pants Win Job for Penner

By AIRCASTER

It was an inadvertant ripping of a ruffian's trousers-seat that started Joe Penner, the duck salesman, on the road to success.

If the gamin's pants hadn't torn, Penner might even now be singing in a cathedral choir instead of making a fortune via the radio.

Joe himself, told me of the incident that changed the course of his career.

Nearly a dozen years ago he was singing in a Detroit choir, but because he needed money, he used to visit a burlesque house weekly, and try for the amateur night prize of $25 with his boyish warbling. But the prize eluded him, and he received only four-bits for his trouble.

* * *

HINKY DINK

That was because of Hinky Dink, a clownish lummox, who used invariably to win the $25, by his antics and stock of smutty stories.

Finally, one night, Hinky Dink fell on the stage, and in arising, turned his back to the audience, and at that moment, the rear of his trousers parted. The audience howled, and Hinky Dink again won—and was given a stock job as stock comedian.

It was at that exact time that Penner realized singing was no career for him. He decided to become a comedian.

He bought joke books and a pair of pants that would tear just when and where he wanted them to. He revisited the theater—and won the coveted $25.

Several weeks later, when a traveling comic was stricken ill, Penner went on the road—the same highway that led him to the microphone and fame.

THE REAL THING

Clarence Paquet, 13, son of a Sun - Telegraph make-up man, listened to the drama (written by Bob Saudek) with keen attention, visualizing the insertion of an electrically lighted instrument into a child's bronchial tube, and the safe removal of a safety pin lodged there.

Clarence, who had just been through a similar operation, turned to his dad at the end of the broadcast, his eyes bright with excitement, and said:

"Yes sir, dad! That's exactly what Dr. Woodhouse did to me at the West Penn! I could just see everything that doctor did on the radio. It was the real thing!"

Deep Sea Diver

Lieut. Francis G. Smith, veteran navy diver who speaks over WCAE-WJAS tonight at 6:30, holds the Navy Cross and posseses the ship's bell from Submarine S-51, as awards for heroism in helping raise that vessel from the ocean floor.

Submarine Salvaging Story Told

Lieut. Francis G. Smith, U. S. N. retired, one of the most famous deep-sea divers in the world, tells a graphic story of some of his deep-water experiences over WCAE and WJAS tonight at 6:30, on the Aircaster program.

Lieut. Smith, a Pittsburgher, answered the Navy's call for divers, when the Submarine S-51 was rammed and sunk with all hands, off Block Island, and was awarded the Navy Cross and the submarine's bronze bell, for heroism in that extremely hazardous undertaking.

Paul Whiteman's bleating mammy singer melodramatizes a radio play, "The Unknown Soldier," over WCAE at 10 p. m.

Angy Cardman, whom Whiteman auditioned in a Pennsylvania coal mining camp and put on the air last week, sings on the program again tonight.

VALLEE VARIETIES

Grace Hayes and Bob Hope, musical comedy stars, and Slim Timblin, character comedian, are featured in the Vallee Varieties, heard over WCAE at 8 o'clock.

* * *

Cuba's relations with the United States are discussed by Assistant Secretary of State Sumner Welles, in a broadcast over WCAE tonight at 11:30.

* * *

* * *

Helen Morgan, singing over WJAS at 8:30 with Nicholas Kemper's orchestra, presents for the first time the hit song from her new movie, "Frankie and Johnnie,"—"Give Me A Heart to Sing To."

ANCHORS AWEIGH

KQV pulls an oar for the Navy, broadcasting the CBS network program featuring Admiral W. T. Cluverius, Capt. John Downes and the Navy and Marine bands, tonight at 11:30.

The program acquaints the public with the needs and work of the U. S. Naval Reserve.

Bobby Jones' return to competitive golf, in the Augusta, Georgia, tournament, is aired over WJAS this afternoon at 4:30. A microphone will be posted at the 18th green.

Globe Trotter

Hello, Ladies and Gentlemen:

Not so long ago we were able to find a photograph for a mother whose child had passed away. The photograph had been sent away for enlargement and had been mislaid for a little while.

Somewhere, some place, there is an envelope containing 10 snap shots. The envelope was lost between Wood street and the Liberty tubes. On the envelope appears the name of Mrs. Bessie C. Dorgan, whose address is 1411 Republic street, Mt. Washington.

The pictures are the only likenesses of her little niece who died last summer. She wants them returned not only for her own sake but for the sake of the mother, whose pictures they are.

* * *

The donor wants her name kept secret.

These poor souls employed there, who will derive untold happiness from it, will bless her and her name won't be a secret from heaven.

* * *

One young lady says that the calendar doesn't have to announce spring. Her feet started to hurt.

* * *

Ready now for signs of summer: The first one sent in by Oswald P. McGillicuddy (sounds like a 'phoney"). He saw a fly buzzing around in one of the downtown restaurants.

JAILED BEAUTY DREAMING OF FILM CAREER

By KATHERINE DONOVAN
Universal Service.

DEDHAM, Mass., March 22.—As alienists started delving into the family histories of Murton and Irving Millen and Abe Faber in an effort to prove them insane at their forthcoming trial for the alleged slaying of two policemen during a bank holdup, Norma Millen, pretty 19-year-old wife of Murton, today was pictured as dreaming in her cell about a film career.

The minister's daughter, held in $25,000 bail as an accessory to brutal slayings charged to her husband his companions, isn't thinking about the possibility of prison for herself and the electric chair for Murton. Instead she tells other inmates in the women's section of the Dedham jail:

"The minute I get out of this place I'm heading for Hollywood."

According to Mrs. Elizabeth Barker, who occupied the cell next to Norma until her release today, Norma has declined to join in "household" chores about the jail, because she wants to keep her hands white and soft. Mrs. Barker said:

"Norma is such a dainty little lady. She smiles and sleeps and read and manicures her nails.

"She massages her face with expensive cold cream and rubs vaseline on her eyelids at night. She waves her hair. She wears $3 silk stockings every day—and and I've never seen such pajamas—blue silk with yellow satin tops—and lots of fine embroidery and lace on them.

"Every day she asked me 'Do you think I'm losing my looks? I don't want this place to change me.'

"She told me that she believed in making a man crazy about you, but for you not to care about him. She said she had promised herself never to get crazy about a man—to keep them running after her.

"Norma certainly has no fear. She is confident she will be acquitted. I never saw her shed a tear all the time I was there."

Trial of Norman with Murton and Irving Millen and Abraham M. Fader, specially guarded in dungeons 20 feet below Norma's cell, will begin April 16.

A Gracious Model for the Matron

Pattern 1799

Pittsburgh Sun-Telegraph 15c Practical Pattern

Put a touch of youth into your frocks with gaily printed fabrics—but be certain that you choose them with great care. For the model sketched today—styled with lines that tend toward slenderness, we suggest a printed cotton of a far-apart motif on a light ground—or vice versa, if you desire. The skirt yoke slims the hips so perfectly and the collar revers and sleeves that flare so gracefully are especially flattering to the larger figure. The latter may be fashioned of contrast, too. Nice in swiss, voile, dimity, etc.

Pattern 1799 is available in sizes 34, 36, 38, 40, 42, 44 and 46. Size 36 requires 4¼ yards 36 inch fabric. Illustrated step-by-step sewing instructions included.

Send 15 CENTS in coins or stamps (coins preferred) for this pattern. Write plainly name, address and style number. BE SURE TO STATE SIZE.

THE NEW SPRING, 1934 EDITION OF THE PATTERN BOOK features all the best spring styles for adults and children. Send for your copy of this interesting, helpful book and be chic this spring. PRICE OF BOOK 15 CENTS. BOOK AND PATTERN TOGETHER 25 CENTS.

First Lady Plans To Learn at Meet

WASHINGTON, March 22.—(AP.)—Mrs. Franklin D. Roosevelt disclosed today why her name is listed on the program of the Crisis in Education Conference to be held in Columbus, O., April 5 and 6. She said:

"The only way I could get there was to make a speech, but what I am going for is to learn."

Sobriety Encouraged By Rum Law Repeal

ALBANY, N. K., March 22.—(Universal.)—That repeal has encouraged sobriety is indicated in figures made public today by the State Health Department. They show that deaths from alcoholism in New York state dropped to 3.1 per 100,000 population during January, the lowest point in the past 12 years.

JUNIOR PATROL

And we'll bet everybody is glad! There's something about sunshine and warmth in the air that seems to make everybody feel better. Fresh breezes are blowing away the coal smoke and the trees and flowers are getting ready to bloom.

We have a letter from a new captain heard from today. Frank Mastre, of 1323 Main street, Sharpsburg, Pa. He sent in four pledges for members before and with this new letter he sends six more so that now he has a full-sized Junior Patrol Club. We are sending him an armband right away.

And this letter is from Marian Deiling, of 1301 Sycamore street, Turtle Creek, Pa. She writes:

"Do you have to get the Sun-Telegraph paper to belong to your club? We get it and every evening after school I read the funnies and I'm very interested in them. Most of the children in my room belong to the Junior Patrol Club. Do you get many of your friends together and hold a club? Do all your friends have to send in a receipt to be a member of the club? Let me know if they do."

No, Marian, you don't have to get the Sun-Telegraph to be a member, but every member does have to sign a pledge and send it in, or else a copy of the pledge printed in the paper.

All Junior Patrol clubs are groups of friends. If most of the children in your room belong, why not form a club with them? Let us hear from you again, Marian.

Jack Lemley, of Bobtown, Pa., sends in 10 pledges but doesn't say who has been elected captain of the patrol.

"We expect to have our club room right in our own backyard and my father is going to build it for us. We hold our meetings twice a month. Our members have suggested White Eagle as the name of our club."

JUNIOR PATROL PLEDGE

I promise to help children less fortunate than I am.
I promise to do my best to make my parents proud of me.
I promise to watch carefully when crossing streets and to aid other children in keeping out of danger.
I promise to study hard and do errands willingly.

Date of Birth..... Address.....
School .....

Address this pledge to the JUNIOR PATROL, Sun-Telegraph, Pittsburgh, Pa. Upon its recipt you will be registered as a member of the JUNIOR PATROL and will be forwarded a membership card and an official emblem.

NUDIST CAMPS HIT IN BILL

International News Service.

DOVER, Del., March 22.—The House of Representatives today was considering a bill which seeks to regulate nudist colonies.

The measure provides that such colonies cannot be located nearer than five miles to any incorporated city; that they will have to be surrounded by a wall at least 10 feet high in which there can be but one gate or opening; that the inhabitants must be registered with the Attorney General's office; that males and females be segregated and that children under the age of 10 be prevented from entering the colony unless accompanied by their parents.

Oh, yes, the balloons or airplanes would be prohiibted from flying over the colony at a height of less than one mile.

ALMOND OMELET CLAIMS $5 PRIZE

Even though kiddies may think so, candy eggs aren't the only edible sign of Easter, nor are chocolate, fruit, nut, cocoanut, or whichever-kind-you-prefer eggs the day's sole symbol.

Prudence Penny's contributions today towards the season's spirit are an Easter cream pudding and an Easter health salad which will liven up your Easter dinner and make a success of your entertaining. Just such festive touches are important, you know.

What else will you have? If you don't find the desired recipe in one of the prize columns send in your request. And with your request, enclose your favorite recipes for Prudence Penny at the Pittsburgh Sun-Telegraph. She makes daily awards of one $5 prize and 10 $1 prizes to the best recipes submitted. No recipes, you must remember, are returned.

Five Dollar Prize Winner

MRS. DUNCAN SCOTT,
138 Crawford avenue, Homestead Park.

ALMOND OMELET

Beat four eggs with a little milk for a minute or more. Have some blanched sweet almonds ready—pound them. Place in a pan a piece of butter the size of a large egg and let it get hot but not browned. Pour in the other mixture and stir gently until it begins to set. Arrange nicely. Pour the pounded almonds on top; double the omelet over so that they are completely covered. Keep the pan shaken, add a little more butter if it seems inclined to stick. When it is a good golden brown, place on a hot dish, cover with a little sifted sugar.

Ten $1 Prize Winners

MISS SARAH ALLISON
307 Oakland Ave., Charleroi.

EASTER CREAM PUDDING

One package of gelatin.
One-fourth cup cold water.
One cup scalded milk (not boiled).

Two egg yolks.
One-half cup cream or evaporated milk (whipped).
One-fourth teaspoon salt.
One and one-half tablespoons lemon juice.
Grated rind of one-half orange.

Beat egg yolks with sugar and add to scalded milk in double boiler. Cook over boiling water until mixture coats spoon. Remove from fire. Pour cold water in bowl and sprinkle gelatin on top of water. Add to hot custard and stir until dissolved. Cool slightly and add lemon juice, orange juice and rind and salt. Cool and as mixture starts to congeal add whipped cream or evaporated milk and fold in stiffly beaten egg whites. If a deeper tint is desired use a few drops of yellow coloring. Pile in glasses and garnish with fruit, or turn into ring molds and fill center with canned apricots, drained, or cut up oranges. Serve with whipped cream. Serves six.

IMPERIAL FAN

Block in Scraps Makes Lovely Quilt

Fan designs of every variety form handsome blocks and lend themselves to the use of scraps—and what quiltmaker is not pleased at that? Imperial Fun has indeed earned its name, for it has not only all the outstanding features of other Fan blocks, but forms an astonishingly beautiful pattern when the blocks are arranged as shown. In this illustration, only the center formation of the quilt is given. The simple block, shown in greater detail in the enlarged size, if joined to form a flower-like design which grows from the center. This arrangement is very simple to follow. In two quarters of the quilt the blocks all face the same way; in the other two quarters they are reversed. When these are joined the radiating pattern is formed.

Pattern 661 comes to you with complete, simple instructions for cutting, sewing and finishing, together with yardage chart, diagram of quilt to help arrange the blocks for single and double bed size, and a diagram of block which serves as a guide for placing the patches and suggests contrasting materials.

Send 10 cents for this pattern to the Pittsburgh Sun-Telegraph Needlecraft Department, 82 Eighth avenue, New York City.

M'NAIR SEEKS TO ABOLISH TRACTION BOARD

POLITICS

Senator Reed Out For Re-Election

By MARK SHIELDS

Mr. Shields

At the same time the Senator reiterated previous statements that he would conduct a campaign independent of that of any candidate for the Republican gubernatorial nomination.

Petitions for Senator Reed, which have been circulated in every county in the state, will be filed in Harrisburg tomorrow. They will be authenticated by the Senator tonight before he returns to Washington. In his statement today Senator Reed said:

"I am formally declaring my candidacy for renomination and re-election as United States Senator. Petitions have been circulated by my friends in all of the counties of the state and these will be filed in Harrisburg tomorrow. In the course of the campaign I shall make plain my attitude upon all live questions, but I am not prepared to issue any formal statement this morning.

"Judge Claude T. Reno of Allentown has consented to act as chairman of the state-wide campaign, and Mr. Charales F. Zimmerman, president of the First National Bank of Huntingdon has consented to act as treasurer."

In naming these two campaign aides Senator Reed is re-emphasizing the disassociation of his canvass from professional politics, though he will seek the assistance of all political factions. The nature of the campaign he will undertake, the Senator said, would be determined by the course of Gov. Pinchot, his opponent for the Republican nomination.

If the Governor, upon his return from Florida, undertakes one of his old-time tours, then the Senator probably will be compelled to stump the state. Otherwise he will continue his work in Washington, coming into the state only for a series of set speeches.

Reed Critic of Some Roosevelt Policies

The Governor has announced adherence to the Roosevelt recovery policies, while Senator Reed has been a critic in the Senate of some of the administration program.

The Senator's wisdom in attempting to disassociate himself from the gubernatorial scramble is emphasized by developments from day to day in that political dog fight.

Judge Marion D. Patterson, of Blair County, after conferring with Pittsburghers yesterday, said today that his petition to become a candidate for Governor would be filed in Harrisburg Friday. Judge Patterson while here conferred with Supreme Court Justice George W. Maxey, Register of Wills Joseph N. Mackrell and men of all shades of Republicanism.

He was reported to expect assistance from Senator James J. Davis, but that is an expectation doomed to disappointment. However, friends of Judge Patterson remain hopeful that he will gain substantial support from regular Republican sources.

The report persists that eventually the organization will bring out Judge Robert Lamberton, of Philadelphia, as its candidate.

While petitions are being circulated on behalf of State Chairman Edward Martin as a gubernatorial candidate, there is little chance he will actually run. Friends of Gen. Martin are pushing the papers, and he could halt them if he wished, of course, but behind the whole thing is seen an outcropping of political bitterness rather than any determination to make the chairman a candidate.

Feeling between the Martin and Shannon wings of the party is tense. Some of Martin's friends feel that Lieut. Gov. Edward C. Shannon, by announcing as a candidate, took advantage of an implied agreement that he should wait a few days until the Martin candidacy was given an airing.

* * *

Mayor Gets Into Somewhat of Mess

The Shannonites rejoin that Martin was attempting to keep the Lieutenant Governor on the sidelines until sentiment for him completely evaporated, whereupon the state chairman would step in and attempt to secure the soldier backing now sought by Shannon.

Back of the Martin petitions is the bitterness of Auditor General Frank Baldwin against Shannon. Baldwin feels that the Lieutenant Governor is not sufficiently bitter in his feeling toward Gov. Pinchot. The petitions in Allegheny County are being circulated through the inheritance tax office by men appointed by Baldwin upon the recommendation of Senator James J. Coyne.

Mayor William N. McNair has gotten himself into something of a mess. His secretary, Theodore Moritz, is a candidate for the Democratic Congressional nomination in the Thirty-second District, announcing yesterday. But before this occurred the Mayor had agreed to make a speech for Mrs. Anne E. Felix, also a candidate. Neither Moritz nor Mrs. Felix, who was a candidate two years ago against Congressman Michael J. Muldowney, will be backed by the Democratic organization.

Dr. Marion McKay, of the University of Pittsburgh, seems favored by the regulars, but is not approved by the Mayor because of his championship of a state income tax.

The Mayor is going through with his speech for Mrs. Felix, but after that probably will be for Moritz if the latter actually is a candidate. Mrs. Felix will be backed by the Democrats who in the last municipal primary opposed Mayor McNair, and have always opposed County Chairman David L. Lawrence.

4 BOYS HELD IN ROBBERIES

Four boys believed by police to have comprised a gang that has preyed on women motorists on the North Side were held for further investigation at a hearing before Magistrate J. W. McGowan in Morals Court today. Police said they had confessed to 10 robberies.

The youths said they were Howard Sharon, 17, of 1214 California avenue; John Marshall, 17, of 1328 Island avenue; Herman Tegge, 17, of 1319 Sigel street, and Francis Causeik, 19, of 1233 Sunday street.

They were rounded up shortly after Mrs. J. Hersch, of 5624 Hempstead road, reported that when she was stopped by a red light at Allegheny avenue and Decatur street, a man jumped upon the running board of her car, reached through the window and stole her purse, containing several dollars and her glasses.

Police picked up Tegge in a store on California avenue a short time later, and Mrs. Hersch identified him as the one who had taken her purse. Her missing glasses were found in his pocket, police said.

By ARTHUR (BUGS) BAER

Got to hand credit to Sam Insull. He jumped from a sailor to an admiral very quick.

Sam owns a one-boat navy. He is entitled to wear a hat sideways on his head, and a golden omelet of braid on each shoulder.

The old sea eagle is somewhere east of Suez where the best is like the worst. He ain't going to Africa because he refuses to accept a twenty-one gun salute with bows and arrows.

Now, if Same really wanted to sail he could have stayed home and skippered around the lakes. They want him in Chicago to explain why there are only four great lakes left.

We are waiting to hear some famous maritime quotation that will rank with those of Perry, Nelson and Paul Jones.

SUPREME COURT HEARS MEANS VOTE CASE

Aldermanic Candidate Seeks to Shift Contest Costs

Argument on the action of the Superior Court, which reversed the lower court and placed the costs of an election contest, on former Alderman William A. Means, of the Twelfth Ward, was heard yesterday by the Pennsylvania Supreme Court.

The lower court placed one-fifth of the costs on Michael DeRosa, who defeated Means by 52 votes, and four-fifths on the city. The City of Pittsburgh and DeRosa filed exception to the ruling.

The lower court dismissed the exceptions and an appeal was taken to the Superior Court, which reversed the lower court and placed the entire cost on Means, who, with his friends, had brought the contest. Means appealed to the Supreme Court.

Thomas M. Benner, assistant city solicitor, who argued the case for the city, asserted the lower court should have placed the entire costs on Means, since he was the unsuccessful contestant.

Attorney Harry A. Estep for DeRosa took the same stand and cited other decisions to bear him out.

Attorney Hymen Schlesinger, who appeared for Means, contended the lower court exercises an equitable discretion in placing the costs as stated and the decision of the Superior Court in reversing the order of the Quarter Sessions Court should be reinstated.

Other cases heard by the Supreme Court follow: Contest of election of Daniel Burns for office of mayor, New Kensington, on appeal of Louis Frederick and others; Frances Davis against Reese D. Alsop and Elizabeth Alsop Shepherd on appeal from judgment of Common Pleas Court, Allegheny County; Richard E. Reitz against Sinking Fund Commission of Jefferson County on appeal of Richard E. Reitz; Harvey G. Bowers against Richard E. Reitz, appeal from decree of Common Pleas Court of Jefferson County, Reitz contesting Bowers' action to serve as county treasurer; New Bethlehem Trust Company against L. C. Spindler and J. P. Spindler, appeal from judgment of Common Pleas Court, Clarion County; Lena Balena against City of Pittsburgh, appeal from judgement of Common Pleas Court, Allegheny County, and case of Mary Ann Turley against John Hancock Mutual Life Insurance Company and others from judgment of Superior Court.

$54,800 LEFT IN 3 WILLS

In his will, filed for probate today, Gottfried Reiser, of 3607 Dawson street, leaves an estate valued at $42,500 to four children and a daughter-in-law, Mrs. Anna Reiser.

J. T. Walden, of Wilkinsburg, leaves $500 to his housekeeper, Littie Lias, and the residue of his $6,300 estate to a daughter, Edith Walden, and a nephew, George L. Kee.

Samuel Simpson, of Glassport, leaves $300 to a son, John; Chinese dogs to a daughter, Jane Simpson Smith, and the remainder of his $6,000 estate to a son, Joseph, and a daughter, Mary Rout.

COUNTY SHARE OF CITY HALL 'FOR SALE'

Officials Will Confer On Plans to End Dual Control

The County Commissioners will confer within a few days with Leslie M. Johnston, city director of public works, and will present a plan to the city to relinquish the county rights in the City-County Building in exchange for cash.

The cash, according to Col. C. C. McGovern, chairman of the County Commissioners, will be used to construct 10 additional stories on the new county building to house county and state courts and other county offices now in the City-County Building, in the event an agreement is reached.

McGovern announced the plan at a meeting of the commissioners yesterday, during which a letter from Johnston was read, in which the city public works head suggested the present plan of "dual authority" was obsolete and a useless expense.

CHANGE IS SOUGHT

Johnston, speaking of the maintenance problem in the City-County Building, wrote:

"The present dual support of this important property is resulting in so much useless expense that I would appreciate an opportunity of discussing the possibility of making some arrangement that would rectify the peculiar and obsolete condition of affairs."

McGovern and C. M. Barr agreed that a conference would be speedily arranged, the former commenting:

"That mausoleum over there costs us around $100,000 a year."

Explaining that the building, valued at $7,000,000 has cost the county over $500,000 in interest alone, McGovern declared that a mortgage of over $400,000 was still held on it.

BURDEN ON CITY

The building, based on a contract between the city and county made in 1915, was built in 1917 and 1918.

Since then, one year the city has cleaned the corridors, using county help, and the succeeding years, the city has borne the expense with its own help.

The New County building, now of six stories, was so constructed that additional stories could be built as space was required.

WIFE OF HEIR SUES ESTATE

An injunction proceeding is on file today in Common Pleas Court to prevent the executor of the estate of Peter Malter from paying anything to a son, Joseph Malter, whose one-third share in the property is valued at $6,000.

The action was brought by Elizabeth Malter, wife of Joseph Malter, who avers that she and Malter were married June 28, 1917, and that he abandoned her and her son in 1919.

She charges that she did not hear from her husband until she met him December 12, 1933, after his father's death.

Mrs. Malter stipulates that Malter has not contributed to her support or that of her son, Joseph Malter, Jr., now 16. She wants the court to prevent the executor of the estate from paying Malter anything until the court fixes the amount of money to which the plaintiff is entitled.

Mrs. Roosevelt Won't Be There—Mayor to Stage Dedication

The guest list for the dedication of "McCready Memorial" tomorrow afternoon won't include the name of Mrs. Franklin D. Roosevelt, but Mayor McNair and Harrison McCready will be there in full glory.

Mrs. Roosevelt wired regrets that she couldn't be present at the opening of Pittsburgh's new housing experiment tomorrow or Monday.

A parade, planned for the event, also has been called off by Theodore L. Moritz, secretary to the Mayor, for reasons which he wouldn't tell.

Harrison R. McCready, famed copious imbiber, ex-playboy and ex-director of Home Making, who, according to reports, was to be a "float" in the parade, yesterday inspected and approved the cottage back of the jail.

The house was built by a contractor as a sample just in case Council should want to replace Shantytown with something more attractive, architecturally.

McCready, whose fame has added new color to the dry problems of housing, was at the cottage yesterday in a buoyant mood. After looking it over, he said:

"As a citizen of Pittsburgh, I recommend that Mayor McNair construct such cottages in the city's shantytowns. When I feel better, I think I'll write a letter to Mrs. Roosevelt. I think the idea will impress her."

One item in the house disappointed McCready. It was the bathtub. He opined:

COUNCIL MAY GET MAYOR'S REQUEST

Chairman Finley Due For Appearance to Discuss Issue

A proposal to eliminate the Traction Conference Board may be sent to Council by Mayor McNair.

The Mayor said last night he may send the plan to Council in the form of an ordinance.

Meanwhile the Mayor still clings to the idea of appointing a Democrat to fill the $12,000 job of Charles A. Finley, chairman of the board.

'WHAT'S HE DONE?'

Informed by reporters that prospects of Council removing Finley were slight, Mayor McNair again demanded to be told what Finley has accomplished during his 13 years as chairman of the board.

Chairman Finley, himself, was scheduled to appear before Council today to discuss the traction situation.

The Traction Board expense is paid by the Pittsburgh Railways Company and may amount to as much as $50,000 a year, according to the agreement.

McNair, apparently, has lost interest in making Safety Director Ralph E. Smith a police magistrate if he cannot make him a traction board chairman. He said last night such a move would be too much of a salary cut for Smith.

PONDERS APPOINTMENT

However, the chairman of the traction board, he believes, should be a Democrat.

While he gave no indication he would send their names to Council, he mentioned the names of E. P. Dandridge and Peter J. Demuth, city assessor, as talented Democratic engineers.

Council will consider today with Finley the proposal to extend the Traction Conference Board agreement provided the railways company will pay $250,000 of its debt to the city, institute special fares for school children and agree to cancellation of the traction agreement on 90 days' notice.

McNair to Address Meeting at DuBois

Mayor McNair will speak before the Eagles' Ball at Dubois at 8 o'clock tonight as a candidate for Governor. Accompanying him will be his secretary, Theodore L. Moritz, who is a candidate for representative in Congress. He also will address the Eagles.

WILL ROGERS SAYS

To the Editor, Sun-Telegraph:

HOLLYWOOD, Cal., March 22. Well, the country woke up mighty relieved this morning when they found the President had been able to stall off those strikers. Don't it look like in case of a wage dispute it would be compulsory that you keep on working, but you send, say, two men, the owners two men, and the government two.

Will Rogers.

Now if they were months settling this, and labor won, their increase in pay would go back to the time when the first protest was made, or a shortening of hours, and labor won, they would also be paid for back hours. Looks like nobody would be hurt much, and the labor leaders and the owners could cuss each other in a room, the same as they do now in the newspapers. Yet nobody would have to be idle listening to 'em. Yours, WILL.

CWA to Conduct Census Here of Homeless

Approval of a CWA survey of homeless preparatory to establishment of transient camps in South Park has been announced by County Administrator James L. Stuart.

The project calls for appointment of 30 interviewers and clerks under the supervision of Miss Noll of Washington, who is in charge of similar projects in key cities throughout the nation.

Pittsburgh was selected as a typical municipality faced with the problem of influx of the homeless, Stuart said. Facts of the survey will be used to determine what groups will be selected at the South Park camps.

Individuals will be interviewed to obtain a cross section of the causes back of the wanderlust, a fast-growing problem in large cities. Co-operation of the Travelers Aid Association and [illegible] for the improvement of the Poor and other agencies will be sought.

DEATH CHEATS ARMY MAN OF DREAM

Col. Robert R. Ralston, native of Freeport, never will realize his dream of settling down to a quiet life on a farm.

With a final promotion for his brilliant work with the U. S. Army Engineers, he was retired two weeks ago at Honolulu and started home with his family to "live" his dream.

On Tuesday, as the Army transport Republic neared Panama, Col. Ralston was stricken with a fatal heart attack, according to word today to his brother, John M. Ralston, Pittsburgh attorney.

Col. Ralston had just completed three years' service at Honolulu where he was in charge of fortifications. His work had taken him to all parts of the United States and its possessions, from Manila in 1902 to New York, to Europe during the World War and then to Hawaii. During recent years, his brother said, he frequently wrote of his desire to live on a farm and had planned to visit the old homestead at Freeport as soon as possible.

John Ralston will leave Pittsburgh this evening and meet the transport when it reaches New York on Friday.

Final arrangements for a military funeral at Arlington National Cemetery, Washington, will be completed at that time.

Besides his brother and his wife, Louise Chase Ralston, Col. Ralston leaves two daughters, Misses Constance M. and Elizabeth M. Ralston.

SLOVAK GROUP TO ELECT

Election of officers today was to terminate the heated disputes that have marked the second week of the National Slovak Society convention in Moose Temple.

Yesterday's proceedings were disastrous to present officers. Acting upon the recommendation of the investigation committee, the delegates refused to accept reports of the president, George Tomascek, of Wilkes-Barre.

They refused on the grounds the reports contained an account of certain properties purchased contrary to a by-law.

Another development in the day's proceedings was the resignation by letter of President Tomascek. He accused the convention administration of partiality. Since he was not present, however, the convention refused his resignation.

Although the convention is in its closing stages, telegrams continue to come in from various state and national figures. Among those received wishing the society success were messages from the President, Gov. Herbert Lehman, of New York, and Senator Royal S. Copeland.

VANDALS RUIN ART; TRIO HELD

Three youths were held for further investigation in Morals Court today after they admitted breaking into the home of Mrs. Harriet Kidney, 415 North Craig street, where vandals destroyed valuable furnishings.

The boys said they were Edward Stawski, 17, of 1327 Penn avenue; Anthony Warywoda, 18, of 3377 Ridgway street, and Frank Brosky, 16, of 3440 Monroe street. They said they broke into the dwelling on March 10 and 11 and removed rugs and silverware.

Relatives of Mrs. Kidney said valuable china and paintings were destroyed, and syrup and feathers scattered over furniture. They estimated the damage at $1,500.

WORKMEN FORTY STORIES ABOVE GROUND BUILDING A PLATFORM FOR CATHEDRAL CAP

WORKERS FINISH PITT TOWER

Forty stories above the ground, steel workers today were hammering the last rivets in a massive steel platform which will support a new topknot for the Cathedral of Learning.

Several years ago, their work done, steelmen hoisted a flag announcing the top of steel. But a change in the plans brought them back on the job about a month ago.

Stone and concrete has been chipped away at the four corners of the top of the building to make room for the new design. Now the stone is to be built higher, shooting the tower's top 40 feet nearer the clouds.

New and heavier steel, cross braced four stories down, is needed to support the added weight. New plans by Architect Charles Z. Klauder call for a glass-inclosed observation deck and lounge room.

The Cathedral's top has never been finished. University officials explain that the old design was temporary. The new one will be permanent.

"THAT'S NO EXCUSE, GRACE! YOU KNOW HOW TO FIX 'REGULAR' PAIN"

Regular pain is out. So is even the discomfort at this time. That's a fact, and it's just too bad for the girl who hasn't learned how she can keep her dates, and keep comfortable. Simply do this:

Watch the calendar. Just before your time, take a Midol tablet and drink a glass of water, and you may escape the expected pain entirely. If not, a second tablet should check it in seven to ten minutes. That is how rapidly this remedy works!

Midol helps those who have always had a difficult time. And the relief is lasting; two tablets see you through your worst day. Yet they contain no narcotic, nothing injurious. They're as harmless as the aspirin you take for an ordinary headache. But don't be fooled by ordinary pain tablets offered as a specific for such suffering! Midol is a special medicine, for this special purpose. Your druggist has it on the counter—or just ask for Midol.

"THERE are just about three common-sense questions to ask about pipe tobacco:

"First, is it made to smoke in a pipe?

"Is it cut in big enough flakes to smoke cool and mild?

"Does it have a pleasing flavor that leaves you hankering for more?

"I guess I've been smoking pipes for as many years as you've been born, and when it comes to pipe tobacco... here it is in a nutshell. Smoke Granger."

blood will tell—

ONE of the mysteries of life is how much care a man will take of thoroughbred animals—noting when they are "off"...and toning them back to the "pink of condition" to increase their daily usefulness—yet will shamefully neglect his own run-down condition.

Certainly, there is a pardonable pride in an animal's healthy appearance...but human beings are more important than animals. Yet some people just hope when "run-down" that they will "come around."

It is just good "horse-sense" to reflect and reason that your so-called "tired feeling" may come from a lowered red-blood-cell count and the hemo-glo-bin in these cells.

There is a remedy specially designed to bring back strength to weakened blood...and no one can be strong, healthy, happy, and full of vitality when in a run-down condition.

If you suspect an organic disease consult your physician...if you feel weak...lack a keen appetite...if your skin is pale and off-color...try S.S.S. as a part of your regular daily diet. Take it just before meals. Unless your case is exceptional, you should soon notice a pick-up in your appetite...your color and skin should improve with increased strength and energy.

S.S.S. is not just a so-called tonic but a tonic specially designed to stimulate gastric secretions, and also having the mineral elements so very, very necessary in rebuilding the oxygen-carrying hemo-glo-bin of the blood to enable you to "carry on" without exhaustion as you should naturally.

S.S.S. value has been proven by generations of use, as well as by modern scientific appraisal. It is truly a blood and body tonic. You will find it at all drug stores in two convenient sizes...the larger size is more economical.

CLOSED BANKS' REOPENING SPEEDED

Progress is being shown in reorganizing and liquidating closed banks, heads of both the state and national systems declared today.

J. F. T. O'Connor, Comptroller of the Currency, who is in charge of national banks, and Dr. William D. Gordon, Pennsylvania Secretary of Banking, are here to address the annual dinner of the Bond Club of Pittsburgh at the William Penn Hotel tonight.

Reviewing the progress of the past year, Comptroller O'Connor said that out of 1,407 banks unlicensed at the end of the bank holiday a year ago, all except 235 have been reopened. Of these, 195 have had reorganization plans approved and only 40 have had them rejected.

DEPOSITORS' CHANCES

When asked how much depositors might hope to realize from banks being liquidated, he declared that the experience of the past 70 years has shown that two-thirds of deposits usually are paid. In the cases of banks recently closed he expressed the opinion that payments will exceed this average.

He said that every effort has been made to act promptly on bank liquidations and to keep the cost at a small amount. National bank receivers get an average salary of $350 a month and are paid no commissions. Due to the fact that one receiver may handle several banks, the average closed bank pays $1,713 a year for the receiver's salary. The cost of liquidation has averaged only 3.2 per cent of amounts collected.

ACTING PROMPTLY

The Comptroller stated that his department and the Reconstruction Finance Corporation are acting promptly on applications from closed banks for loans.

When asked why state banks which have had RFC loans approved have not received their money to distribute to depositors in many cases, Dr. Gordon declared that the details of getting collateral approved are the principal causes for delay.

He explained that RFC loans are approved subject to the later proof that the collateral is good. This usually involves an immense amount of investigation and clerical work to satisfy the RFC. This work, however, is being pushed as rapidly as possible.

DANDRUFF
A Sure Way to End It

There is one sure way that has never failed to remove dandruff at once, and that is to dissolve it. Then, you destroy it entirely. To do this, just get some plain, ordinary liquid arvon from any drug store (it won't cost you more than thirty-five cents, 25c), apply it at night when retiring, using enough to moisten the scalp and rubbing it in gently with the finger tips.

By morning, most if not all of your dandruff will be gone, and two or three more applications will completely dissolve and entirely destroy every single sign and trace of it, no matter how much dandruff you may have.

You will find, too, all itching and digging of the scalp will stop instantly and your hair will be fluffy, lustrous, glossy, silky and soft, and look and feel a hundred times better.

Now that spring is here—it made its bow officially yesterday—the resorts nearer home, like Pinehurst and Aiken and White Sulphur Springs, rival the attractions of Palm Beach and Miami Beach and St. Petersburg, Fla.

Among those holidaying at Pinehurst are the W. T. McCulloughs. They entertained at a dinner party Tuesday night at the resort. And so did the Lawrence Barrs, of Pittsburgh, who spend the greater part of the year at Pinehurst.

News comes from Palm Beach that Mrs. Cecil Parker Stewart gave a large tea at her Palm Beach villa this week for E. V. Babcock, of Pittsburgh.

Mrs. Rea Among Guests At B. H. Warburtons' Tea

The most faithful Palm Beacher of them all, Mrs. Henry R. Rea, of Sewickley Heights, is still at the fashionable resort. She was among the guests at a tea Maj. and Mrs. Barclay H. Warburton and Miss Mary Warburton gave Tuesday at Villa des Cynes to celebrate Mrs. John C. King's birthday.

Gifts brought by guests were all of the early American period, designed to grace the Kings' new early American home to be built this summer.

Gossipy Chat

By NANCY JANE

A young Sewickley social registerite, Nancy Hamilton, "made" Walter Winchell's column yesterday in the Sun-Telegraph.

Said Walter, "Nancy Hamilton in 'New Faces' was once Kate Hepburn's understudy—and she now does a devastating and caustic echo of her."

Miss Hamilton

Remember a few years ago when Nancy was Tyl Tyl in the production of Maeterlinck's "Blue Bird," which the Pittsburgh Junior League gave in the Nixon Theater?

Nancy is a daughter of the Charles Lee Hamiltons, of Sewickley. Her family was at the New York opening of "New Faces" this past week, of course, to see their daughter.

As I recall Nancy, she was pretty, charming and intelligent—a grand trio of traits. She made her debut (socially) a few years before "The Blue Bird."

You can tell from the picture of the Drake sisters and Lucile (Bunny) Todd at the top of the page what kind of swimming suits will scintillate this summer at the Little Sewickley Creek Swimming Pool and the Longue Vue Country Club and Pittsburgh Field Club pools.

Note the button-decked, smartly flippant shorts, and the gay tops of their bathing costumes. Bathing suit "tops" will flaunt plaid, stripes or embroidery, one gathers. And do you notice that the suits are backless? All the better to tan one's self, of course.

THROUGH THE SPYGLASS

Viewing the New

You little shoppers who want to learn the names of the shops whose items are listed in this column day by day . . . call GRANT 6500 . . . and ASK FOR THE SPYGLASS. Or send in a stamped self-addressed envelope for your reply. THE SPYGLASS is always on the alert, peering out new "finds" . . . and you will be answered promptly!

* * *

On with the spring apparel saga! Let your clothes desires be unconfined . . . because you're going to be able to satisfy them this season as never before. Yesterday we went clubby with you of biggish size . . . today it's words for the wise ones of 14 to 20.

For . . . we have the suits! Suits which at $7.95 are stuff dreams are made of. Swagger and hip length models in spring fabrics — tweeds, basket weaves, novelty woolens. And colors like the aquarelles (misty blue-greens) . . . and mustardy shades . . . and navy, or good old tan or gray. Some with bows, and some with quilted taffeta collars and cuffs . . . with patch pockets . . . with all sorts of fascinating detail on them . . . with wooden buttons or metal bits . . . and even some with blouses! (We saw a striped pique and a lipstick-red taffeta!) The sizes are 14 to 20, as said . . . and if this doesn't rouse your shopping instincts, we give you up as bad jobs!

* * *

Which suits are all very well for daily dashing . . . but as to your cocktail hours, or inspired moments after sundown, THOSE suits are another story!

A rustling, bustling story. A taffeta tale! A swishing and a whispering as you sweep along in one of the new black taffeta suits with long skirt and little jacket. Two models in these . . . one trimmed with black and white striped satin revers and cuffs on the jacket . . . the other with a white lingerie top to the dress. Both demure, both devilish, both darlings (the three D's)! And with all sorts of swank for $22.50.

* * *

"But what of my head?" you cry. "What of my Easter bonnet with which to delight and dumbfound . . . to flatter and to flirt . . . what of THIS?"

And do we let you down? We do not. We just up and announce that we have TWO Easter bonnet anecdotes up our sleeve, abbreviated as it is! The one being that . . .

Should you yearn to go VERY la-de-da and have a creation all your very own, to match your very own costume . . . then make strides in the direction of one shop we know about where the more four-hundred-ish of the models are copied for $7.50. Copied to their very smallest detail . . . copied to suit your little face . . . copied with the most flattering lines. And with a price like this (less than elsewhere!) . . . and hats like it gets you . . . faces should beam brightly on Easter morn!

* * *

Because $2 will buy a bonnet of no mean design. A trig turban . . . or a scooped-out brim to droop, and dally, and do things to your eyes and profile! You can even have a halo for this price (never were halos so easily come by!) And off-the-facers that "rare back" from your milk-white forehead are there in profusion. All colors, sizes for all, and an abundance of new fabrics and straws. Once again we say . . . $2, and money left in your pocket!

* * *

So much for your feminine wailings on what-to-do-about-it-all. So, on to a bit for the masculine end of things.

Did'st know that DARK shirts are the final whoop for men nowadays? And one store has beauties in browns, and blues with white pinstripes, $1.95.

Did'st hear that bowknot cuff links make swellish Easter gifts? Of braid (in all colors) at $1.00 . . . silver plated ones (gold or silver metal) at $2.50.

Did'st realize that some wit bethought himself (or was it herself) of making suspenders and ties to match, of horse sheeting . . . and then calling them "polo" ones? In light and dark shades . . . plaided in racy manner . . . $1.00 each.

With eyes cast Easter-ward we salute you!

DOROTHY RANDALL.

By PRUNELLA WOOD

THE REVIVAL of the tea-time hour in caracaseries has certainly speeded up the designers' wits no end. They know full well that women dote on the dusky hour, and that it is no hardship for them to climb into dressy clothes for even a short while between business and evening toilettes. But there is a brand-new technique in the tea-time clothes of the season. They are in no way related to the "Sunday night" type of gown which was the chosen speakeasy tea-and-dinner costume. No trailing or even instep-length skirts are part of their charm. Instead they hover about eight inches above the floor, and they have no lush flare to them. Also, though their bodices may be distinctly festive, their jackets are fairly subdued and practical.

* * *

DARK SUITS of soft woolen, treated with dressmaker art, and ensembled with lovely blouses of satin, sheer crepe, or delicate lingerie claim a big lead in these cafe clothes. Redingotes which combine silk or fine woolen with printed fabric frocks are no bad seconds.

* * *

THERE IS SOMETHING very new and so good that it's queer it never came along before, speaking of dressy suits. It is the soft frock which has a pair of jackets to wear with it, one tailored and street-minded, the other a tie-around jacket of surplice design, trimmed with mammoth dyed fox cuffs on the wide three-quarter length sleeves.

In its more formal sphere, this combination find is as useful as the classic tweed suit and top coat ensemble. Women who are hopefully lying in wait for the week-ending season to break would do well to investigate such models.

The classic spring tailleur —navy wool with lingerie— is the recipe for the suit, right. The skirt is utterly simple, cut on excellent lines; the coat has a loose backline in harmony with the open box front with its narrow rever. The blouse is crisp organza on which rows and rows of narrow lace have been stitched, and its draw-string neckline is fastened with a tiny red bowknot.

This frock is a deceitful piece for it's no more a redingote than a polo coat. It is a one-piece crinkly crepe frock in navy blue with a rippling rever collar which becomes a long panel appliqued to the skirt front, made of blue and white printed crepe. Touches of the crepe on the cuffs simulate frock sleeves poking through the coat.

The back of this model is perfectly flat and plain.

In this suit we have a typically Vionnet color scheme—navy blue and strawberry rose. The suit is heavy ribbed sheer, with a princess frock with a rose bodice and jabot collar, and a loose jacket trimmed lavishly with navy blue dyed fox.

"Blue Mondays Gone Now"

Says ILLINOIS HOUSEWIFE

"Here's a secret that has gone far to banish 'blue Mondays' from my life," says Mrs. Stephen Roby, of Evanston, Ill. "I used to have trouble in getting rich suds for my family wash.

"Now I use an ordinary laundry soap, my regular washing method, then add 2 tablespoons or so of Lux. The suds simply bubble up! These richer suds work so fast, leave the clothes so fresh and sparkling. And, of course, Lux is easy on my hands."

Why let washday be a burden? Speed up your washing with this work-saving trick. It costs next to nothing.

NOTE: Use only Lux—no other soap—for silks, woolens, rayons. Delicate fabrics should never be exposed to harsh alkali or cake-soap rubbing.

Little Women Get Big Vote For Most Charm

SMALLER WOMEN have the CHARM. At least that is what was decided in debate at a great mid-western university.

Smaller women have the IT. Smaller women have what the Scotchmen call the "come hither."

And so the young men decided, and over against the women of bulk and height of antiquity, over against the women of the lesser eighties as well as the gay nineties. Over against the Mae Wests, the Lillian Russels, the Helen of Troys, the Cleopatras.

The little woman. It is so romantic to sit in the twilight hours when the sun has left its red glow in the West, when the night clouds are gathering, when the fire burns brightly on the hearth and the pipe is lighted.

Pipe dreams of little women. Pipe dreams from which emerge the slim, trim form of the five-footer, the girl with the little curls clustering about her small shapely head, the little piquant nose, the bright eyes, none too small, perhaps, the small Cupid-bow mouth, the pouting ways, the tender heart. Oh, yes, all little women have a little tender heart!

I have known little women of great charm. Several decades ago everyone flocked to the theater to see Marguerite Clark. What a little woman she was. Little hands, little feet, little mouth, little nose, little everything! I knew her well in New York. I sat many times with her on a certain well-decorated roof, basked in the sunshine alongside of her in a roomy porch swing, and she and I watched the skyline of the metropolis and talked. And to know her was to love her. The very halo of her was romance. Perfectly groomed and always tender and kind. And one understood, no matter how well they knew her, why little women often were popular.

BIG WOMEN

But then I have known popular big women. I have seen the tall, swinging forms of women of five feet seven, eight, even 10. Women of mellow hearts, women of beautiful features, women of great deeds, and women whose faces and forms have won applause the world over.

Big women, big in every way as well as in physique.

"Take a big women into a crowd, and she can push her way through," says the practical man. Women of bulk do not awaken such protective instinct. And maybe that is the answer to the little women getting the vote for the most charm. There is nothing sweet and womanly about being able to take care of one's self. That isn't what the great handsome "gent" is looking for. He wants a sweet little armful that he can shelter and protect, and whom he imagines will stay put.

That is the dream of the boat sized men. That is the ideal of the young fellow swinging out to night life in his racoon coat.

Little women of the movies. Little Catherine the Great of Russia. There's a little woman for you! Read her history, if you want to know about the clinging qualities of a little woman. Little woman in everything but statesman's craft. Little woman in everything but diplomacy. Little woman in everything but getting rid of anything undesirable in the pathway to her ambition.

NOTABLE PEOPLE

Dolly Madison was another little woman. But she managed to save the White House silver, and against rugged flames. Abraham Lincoln's wife was a little woman. Yet she caused Honest Abe a good many devastating heart throbs. Anna Howard Shaw was a little woman. Yet nobody thought she needed the strong, protecting arm when she ran the gamut of public opinion for votes for women. It was a diminutive woman who served through the Crimean War, and lifted dying men from cots of torture, and carried the first ray of promise of better beds and better medical aid to the wounded soldiers. Yes, Florence Nightingale was a little woman.

Ask many of the men in finance today, men of millions, the cubic height of their mothers. Little women often. Not depending upon their charm for dish washing and the bringing up of the children. Little women, not fearful of the night, and the burglar at the window; and the ruffian at the cross roads.

Radium comes in small quantities But so does poison. Napoleon married a tall woman. She had indefinable charm, the Widow Beauharnais. What do you think about it, sisters? Big or little, how about us? Does size ruin our makeup? Or has size anything whatsoever to do about it?

The cut of a dress can lessen or increase us, anyhow. A high heeled slipper and a long train can do wonders. And vice versa. And there will always be the man who no matter if we are six feet tall, will call us tenderly "little woman."

The most gifted and celebrated actor or actress may fail in a play. Then the critics find it necessary to state that such a one has been "miscast."

This means that the part this person played was not suited to the player's best talents.

Sometimes the player has wished to portray that role to prove to the public that he or she can succeed as well in such a part as another who excels in just such roles.

It was the immortal Shakespeare who said that all the world is a stage on which we each play our part.

Here, too, alas, we see persons fail by miscasting themselves in imitating other roles in which they cannot excel.

Madge Decides to Wait Up for Moonlight Riders

I suppose it was my utter exhaustion that caused my sobbing exclamation, "if they come back," at the end of the description of my plans for waiting up for the return of Junior and Roderick from the drive to the beach. A minute before, I had been much heartened by seeing Baby Faith, sleeping so soundly and watched over so tenderly and so carefully by my little kinswoman, Katherine Bickett. I had been distinctly heartened also by my father's cheery encouragement, minimizing the danger to my loved ones from whatever plot Lee Chow had concocted in what my father was sure was a partially crazed brain.

But as I finished outlining my plan for resting upon the couch hammock in the screened veranda overlooking the driveway, there came over me an eerie feeling of disaster in the offing. It is a feeling which comes to me rarely, but I have found that at least two-thirds of these queer psychic warnings have been the forerunners of real trouble to me, or to those near to me in kinship or friendship.

My father was equal to the occasion, however. Never in all my life with 'im has he spoken harshly to me, and I could hardly believe my ears, or my outraged flesh, when he took me by the shoulders, shook me as he would a naughty child, and said severely:

"I am ashamed of you, Margaret! This is not like you at all. Pull yourself together, and let me hear nothing more like that from your lips."

REGAINS COMPOSURE

With exquisite tact he ignored me completely, once he had released me. With a casual, detached, "Come along down stairs," he led the way to the lower floor, while I followed him with much the feeling, I imagine, of a switched but hopeful puppy.

"Do you want to come with me while I lock up?" he asked, when we had reached the lower floor, and his voice was as impersonal as that of a bank teller refusing to cash a check bearing a signature unknown to him.

"Yes," I answered, not trusting my voice to say more, and instead of offering me his arm, he started ahead, leaving me to follow as I would.

How wise he was! I told myself, as I followed him through the rooms. How did he guess that the least hint of tenderness, even the touch of the arm which never had failed me, would have sent me off into gusty sobbing. As it was, I gained in composure and self-control every minute of that journey, and when we reached the kitchen I was able to present a calm face to Katie and Jim, who were "cleaning up."

"For de love of Mike, Missus Graham, vot you doing oop?" This was the greeting of my faithful little maid. "I tought you gone to bed long ago."

KATIE SUSPICIOUS

"Mrs. Graham is a bit nervous over the fastenings," my father said smoothly, "with so many valuable wedding presents in the house. Will you be especially careful when you lock up this wing? You needn't bother with anything else. I will attend to all the other doors and windows."

My little maid looked at me out of shrewd, comprehending eyes.

"Oh! Dose vedding presents!" she said, in an odd, indescribable tone. "Ees dot vot vorrying you, Missis Graham? I'll bet sometings more dan dot."

"What do you mean, Katie?" I asked, startled by her manner.

"I no tell you now," she said respectfully, but obstinately. "Ven I tink more, den I tell you, eef you still vorried."

"You talk too much, Katie," Jim said with husbandly reproof. "You'll get Mis' Graham all fussed up."

"Dere, you beeg goof," she said, and in her tone there was a queer mixture of mirth and exasperation. "You let your vittles stop your mouf, und don't spend so mooch time vorrying about mine. Me und my Missis Graham, ve don't need nobody else ven ve talk over tings."

Correct Manners

By Mrs. Cornelius Beeckman

The Bride's Flowers

Dear Mrs. Beeckman:

1—I am to be married next month. My father has been dead for years. I have no male relatives anywhere nearby to attend the wedding. My dearest girl friend's husband has offered to give me in marriage. Is this the correct thing? He is 38 years of age and I am 24.

2—Also, what does a bride wear over her dress when going to the church? A coat seems so heavy.

3—What kind of flowers would you suggest? H.

1—Since you are so far from your relatives and so "near and dear" to these good friends of yours, I think that it would be a splendid idea for you to accept this fine suggestion.

2—You mustn't risk not wearing a coat, or a cape.

3—The kind of flowers and their arrangement depend on your costume. Orange, white roses, star-jasmine, white lilacs, white snapdragon, white orchids, and gardenias . . . all these are appropriate.

An Awkward Situation

Dear Mrs. Beeckman:

The other evening my friend and I went to a dance and one time when I came from the dressing room I found my friend dancing with another girl whom I know very well. I waited for them to finish the dance and this made me feel cheap. Please tell me whether this was correct on his part, and also what I should have done in this case. M.

I don't blame you for feeling that this was an awkward situation to find yourself in, and it distinctly wasn't mannerly for your partner to place you in this situation. He should, of course, have waited for you to rejoin him.

There wasn't anything that you could have done about this . . . there usually isn't much that we can do when the other person is so thoughtless.

How to Keep Well

By DR. ROYAL S. COPELAND

Pinching Shoes Cause of Modern Foot Ills

Many minor maladies afflict the human family. With proper care most of these could be avoided. Many of them receive too little attention. They are treated with home remedies and medicines that relieve the pain but do not cure. The corn is an affliction of this type.

Dr. Copeland

Few persons living under the conditions of modern civilization escape this annoying condition. It is probable that our remote ancestors were not familiar with this contribution of modern life. Tight boots, improperly fitted shoes, pointed toes, and heels designed by Dame Fashion are a few of the things that produce corns.

A corn is a circular thickening of the skin, usually found at a point where the skin is pressed between a bony prominence and the shoe. Though it may form on any part of the body where the skin is irritated, it is most frequently seen on top of the toe. It may also appear between the toes.

No doubt you will be surprised to learn that the corn is surrounded by a sac or "bursa," the central peg being the corn. Complete cure is possible only when the whole thing is removed.

Local applications relieve the pain and soften the corn, but rarely cure the disorder. This accounts for the common reappearance of the ailment.

The proper treatment of a corn consists in the softening of the outer portion, followed by the complete removal of the central core. Of course, this should only be done by one who is familiar with the anatomy of the part and who takes the necessary precautions against infection. Never cut a corn or attempt to remove it without these precautions. Severe blood poisoning may result from inexperienced or careless surgery.

If you wish to prevent corns, wear shoes that do not pinch the feet in any way. They should be broad and have ample room for movement of the toes. The arch should be snug and give the necessary support. The heel should be broad and low.

Do not neglect a corn, bunion, callous or other deformity of feet. Neglect may lead to a permanent, painful and unsightly deformity.

Thousands have Ended their Bowel Worries

by taking this advice!

Can constipation safely be relieved? "Yes!" say medical men. "Yes!" say the many thousands who have followed their advice and know.

You are not likely to cure your constipation with salts, pills, tablets or any of the habit-forming cathartics. But you can safely relieve this condition by gentle regulation with a suitable liquid laxative.

THE LIQUID TEST:

First: select a properly prepared liquid laxative. Second: take the dose you find suited to your system. Third: gradually reduce the dose until bowels are moving of their own accord.

Simple, isn't it? And it works! The right liquid laxative brings thorough bowel action without using force. An approved liquid laxative (one which is most widely used for both adults and children) is Dr. Caldwell's Syrup Pepsin. It is a doctor's prescription, and perfectly safe. Its laxative action is based on senna, a natural laxative; the dose can be measured, and the action thus regulated to suit your individual need.

If there are children in your household, don't give them any fad form of laxative, but use a healthful, helpful preparation like Dr. Caldwell's Syrup Pepsin. Its very taste will tell you it is wholesome, and agreeable to the stomach. Delightful taste, and delightful action; there is no discomfort at the time, or after. Ask your druggist for Dr. Caldwell's Syrup Pepsin, all ready to take.

NRA WE DO OUR PART

A Frank Statement Concerning Dr. Caldwell's Syrup Pepsin

We believe the use of pills and tablets containing mineral drugs is rapidly giving way to gentle regulation of the bowels with a liquid laxative.

Contract Bridge

HOW TO PLAY and HOW TO WIN

By JOSEPHINE CULBERTSON

Counteracting Bad Bidding by Brilliant Play

As I have mentioned in previous articles, overbidding very frequently brings out superlative Dummy play. On today's hand a non-vulnerable East and West team succeeded in pushing up their vulnerable opponents to a most unnatural contract, but through two hold-up plays, a slight slip in the defense and a subsequent squeeze, South was able to fulfill his contract.

North and South vulnerable; part-score 60.

	♠ A K 8 4 ♡ 10 6 ◇ J 6 2 ♣ 8 5 4 3
♠ J 9 3 2 ♡ Q 8 2 ◇ K 10 8 5 ♣ K J	West North East South	♠ 10 6 5 ♡ J 7 5 ◇ Q 7 3 ♣ Q 10 9 7
	♠ Q 7 ♡ A K 9 4 3 ◇ A 9 4 ♣ A 7 6

The hand was so badly overbid by all four players that I deliberately refrain from giving the actual bidding. At any rate, South failed to double the opponents' last bid, which was some amount of clubs by East, and decided to gamble on ending the rubber by bidding four hearts.

West's Opening lead was the club King, and South quite properly did not win with the Ace. The club suit was continued, and after Declarer won the second trick with the Ace, he played the Ace-King and a small heart. West, not knowing the distribution, failed to drop his Queen of hearts at Trick 5. He now made the very brilliant play of the diamond Ten. South, knowing his only hope of making the hand would be on a squeeze and, from the bidding, realizing that the two high diamond honors were probably split, did not cover with the Knave in Dummy, and furthermore played low from his own hand.

This play was made for two reasons: Firstly, that to effectually squeeze the opponents the play had to be delayed one tempo, and, secondly, the Knave was not played from Dummy as South did not wish the East hand to be on lead after the diamond trick was allowed to hold.

At this point West failed to follow up his very fine lead of the diamond Ten by another brilliant play. He led a low diamond, whereas had he played the diamond King, allowing East to retain the Queen, he would have been able to avoid the squeeze which followed.

On the low diamond lead East was forced to play the Queen to keep Declarer's nine from winning, and South won with the Ace. The last two trumps were now played, and West could not hold on to both his high diamonds and four spades to the Knave. As a result, in desperation, he discarded his high diamonds, and the last four tricks were won by Dummy's diamond Knave, and the Ace-King-Queen of spades, South's losing club being discarded on the third spade. Had West held his diamond King, the Declarer would then have taken the last four tricks in the spade suit, discarding both his diamond and his club on Dummy's two long spades.

Really magnificent play by South!

TOMORROW'S HAND

South, Dealer.

North and South not vulnerable.

	♠ J 6 4 ♡ Q 6 5 ◇ K Q 8 2 ♣ 7 5 3
	West North East South
	♠ A K Q 7 ♡ A K 8 ◇ A 3 ♣ A K Q 10

The hand will be discussed in tomorrow's article.

Fashion Flashes

By ALICE ALDEN

Something swanky for smart motorists is a new gadget which consists of the key of your car cut in silver. This is held by chains attached to a little silver cartridge that holds your license.

We are caught in the meshes of lace again. A charming costume is of turquoise blue waxed lace with bang bands of blue fox forming the sleeves. The full skirt has a rippled train.

Household Hints

Black stockings will not lose their color in the wash if they are soaked for several hours in warm soapsuds to which a little turpentine has been added.

A slimy sponge may be made clean and fresh if soaked in salt and water for several hours and then rinsed first in lemon water and then in clean water. Incidentally, you can give sponges an extended life by crocheting in thread or fine crochet cotton a net exactly to cover them when damp, not dry. It prevents them tearing in any possible way.

To keep chromium-plated taps bright, rub two or three times a week with a soft cloth moistened with paraffin. Polish with a dry duster.

Transfers for embroidering will stamp off more clearly and can be used twice if only medium heat is applied instead of a very hot iron. If desired, a transfer design can be renewed by tracing over the lines with a new pen nib dipped in a paste of equal proportions of blue, sugar, and cold water. When perfectly dry the transfer is ready for ironing off again.

JAMES J. LONG'S SPORTS COMMENT

Grand National Prospects. • Grantham Retains Berth.
Another Try By Whitney. Hockey Rewards Losers.

If there is any reward for perseverance in horseracing, John Jay (Jock) Whitney may have a chance to win the Grand National Steeplechase for the United States when that famous event has its annual running tomorrow over the difficult Aintree course near Liverpool, England. Though never victorious, his closest approach having been made in 1929 when Easter Hero finished second after spreading a plate, Whitney has been the most persistent of all American challengers. Each succeeding year finds him over there trying again. He has two horses eligible for tomorrow's race. Lone Eagle II is not considered formidable, but Thomond II is rated as having a fair chance.

Jock Whitney

Three additional American-owned jumpers are on the starting list—J. B. Snow's Delaneige; F. Ambrose Clark's Sorley Boy and M. D. Blair's Prince Cherry—but only Delaneige is reckoned as having winning possibilities. None of the five horses entered by American owners is of American breeding. Last year Mrs. F. Ambrose Clark, owner of Kellsboro Jack, became the first American woman to have her colors borne home first. The only other American owners to win the big race were Stephen Sanford, with Sergeant Murphy in 1923, and A. C. Schwartz, with Jack Horner, in 1926. One American-bred horse—Rubio in 1908—has won, but he was owned by an Englishman.

ANCIENT RACE HARDEST OF ALL TESTS

It takes more than a good horse and a good jockey to win the Grand National. Lady Luck also must be riding with the successful entry. The ancient classic, for 5-year-olds and upward, which first was run in 1839, is the toughest horse race in the world. Twice around a roughly triangular course, the total distance is 4 miles and 856 yards, and the 30 water, ditch and hedge jumps are so difficult and dangerous that many of the starters never reach the finish.

The odds are 5 to 1 against any horse completing the course. In 1928 only two horses finished out of 42 starters. In two successive years—Tipperary Time in 1928 and Gregalach in 1929—the winners were 100-to-1 shots. The shortest-priced winner was Poethyn in 1919 at 11 to 4. The largest field was 66 in 1929, and the smallest was 10 in 1883. The average winning time is slightly under 10 minutes, and the value to the owner ranges between $30,000 and $50,000. Only the Epsom Derby draws a larger crowd. Last year's race was witnessed by 275,000.

GRANTHAM UNAFFECTED BY GIANT SHIFT

The status of George Grantham on the Giant roster is not affected by the fact that Blondy Ryan, since losing his regular job to Travis Jackson, is being schooled for substitute duty at second base as well as for emergencies at his old position in the shortfield. Manager Bill Terry reveals that he never had any second-base plans for Grantham. Bill says he wasn't wild about the former Pirate's keystone play even when George was much younger than his present almost 34 years, and his intention now, as originally, is to use him as a reserve first baseman and as a pinch-hitter against right-hand pitchers.

George Grantham

The infield shift probably means the release of another ex-Buccaneer, however. Fresco Thompson is likely to be sent back to the minors and may go to Donie Bush, who has been seeking him for the Minneapolis club. Joe Martin, extra third sacker, also is to be dropped. Hughey Critz is coaching Ryan for emergency second base work, and when Critz is out, Blondy will play the sack. Ryan, of course, also will spell Jackson at shortstop, when necessary, and if anything happens to Johnny Vergez at third base, Jackson will move over to the hot corner and Ryan will go to the post he handled so brilliantly through 1933.

HOCKEY'S ABSURD PLAY-OFFS START AGAIN

Another staging of hockey's ridiculous annual play-off system for the Stanley Cup has begun. There are only nine clubs in the league and six qualify for the play-offs. A season of five months is devoted to eliminating only three teams, giving a club that could finish no better than third in the regular race a chance to become world champion in a few extra games.

In baseball last season, the elimination of the first-place Newark club by the fourth-place Buffalo team in the International League play-offs showed how absurdly such systems may work out.

Boxers don't get championship matches after losing most of their fights. Football flops don't receive invitations to the Rose Bowl. Players eliminated in the early rounds of golf or tennis don't get a chance to try again in the finals. Permitting a loser to compete in a world championship series is contrary to all the rules of sport. It's giving a proved incompetent a second opportunity to win a big-time crown over clubs that have stood the season's test. Just another way of grabbing extra dollars after the race has been decided.

JONES TRIES COMEBACK AFTER FOUR YEARS

Can Bobby Jones come back to hold his own in top-flight competition after an absence of four years from the game of which he once was king? The test holding the answer to the question that grips the entire golf world starts today down in Georgia in the first 18 holes of the four-day 72-hole Augusta National Open or Masters' Tournament. Between now and Sunday evening, battling against a field of more than 50 crack pros and amateurs, with Sarazen and Kirkwood the only notable absentees, Jones will demonstrate whether he still is the wizard of old or just another golfer.

Bobby Jones

Perhaps Bobby will answer the comeback question by proving that he never went away. True, the contract he faces is a tremendous one. Horton Smith and other front-rank golfers, most of whom believe Paul Runyan should rank as first choice, figure that the odds against a victory for Jones in the tourney are at least 8 to 1, a conservative estimate when you consider the class of the opposition and the fact that the Georgian, 32 last Saturday, has been out of competition since he made his unparalleled grand slam of four major titles in 1930. But Jones is not to be measured by ordinary standards. He never has let down in his golf technique. In friendly games he never has conceded a thing, and has hit everything as though he were competing with Sarazen. Bobby has the advantage of knowing the course thoroughly. Only recently he gave his prospective opponents something to laugh off by doing it in 65. He has shot many other rounds in recent months in 69 to 71. Of course, major competition is different, but at that Jones could have lost considerable in four years and still be a mighty star. It will take a lot of golf to beat him.

COMISH VICTOR IN SKIRMISH WITH A.A.U.

PHILADELPHIA, March 22.—Peace in amateur boxing in Pennsylvania is just around the corner, but the sport will be more carefully conducted in the future, judging from the results of the hearing of the State A. A. U. officers before the State Athletic Commission here yesterday.

The commission emerged from the skirmish a decided victor even to the point of withholding reinstatement of the A. A. U. until certain changes upon which it insists are made.

The local A. A. U. men were absolved from blame in the controversy, the probe narrowing down mainly to the activities of the Allegheny Mountain Association, with headquarters in Pittsburgh.

TO SUBMIT PLANS

It was stipulated that the Middle Atlantic and Allegheny Mountain bodies, of the A. A. U., shall meet and decide upon a standard code for the conduct of their boxing affairs, after which the separate associations will meet again with the commission to receive an o. k. on their plans. The A. A. U. agreed to recognize the authority of the commission to control amateur as well as professional boxing in the state and promised to offer no further resistence to its regulation and also to reinstate any boxers who have been suspended by the A. A. U. during the more than a month's breach between Commissioner Dr. W. D. McClelland and the A. A. U. in the western end of the state. At the same time, the commission agreed to reinstate the amateur boxers suspended by it for siding with the A. A. U. in a recent flareup in Pittsburgh.

Secretary John T. Taylor, of the Allegheny Mountain Association, was quizzed by Assistant Attorney General Charles Kline for the commission on the subject of excessive sanction fees, alleged threats of suspension of clubs and boxers unless sanction fees were forthcoming, matchmaking activities and special arrangements with clubs for awarding of tournaments.

GIZZY SUSPENDED

Pending final settlement of the matter, the commission continued in effect its action in rescinding the sanction rule for amateur shows and voted to appoint a committee to study the problem of five-round amateur bouts, at the same time expressing its opinion that the A. A. U. should confine itself to three-round bouts.

In addition to Taylor, President William S. Haddock, of Pittsburgh, represented the Allegheny Mountain Association, and James Lodge, of the Boys' Club of Pittsburgh, also attended.

Battling Gizzy, of Donora, was indefinitely suspended for his refusal to continue after claiming a foul in his bout with Dominic Mancini, of Pittsburgh, at Motor Square Garden last Monday night. Mancini was not suspended. Both boxers were paid their full purses.

LENORE KIGHT SETS MARKS

BOSTON, March 22.—(AP.)—Racing against time, Lenore Kight, of Homestead, Pa., last night broke the women's world records for the 440 and 500-yard free style swimming events in the University Club's 25-yard pool. She was timed in 5 minutes 30 seconds for the 440 and 6 minutes 15.2 seconds at the 500-yard mark.

These two new marks stretched the Homestead girl's string of world records to five, for her new times for the 300 yards, 500 and 300 meters have been submitted for official adoption. Four times she lowered records sets by Helene Madison, who put 16 new world marks in the record book before she turned professional.

As she swam the 20 laps, she was clocked in 2:38 for 200 yards, three and two-fifth seconds behind Miss Madison's world mark.

Her time for 440 yards, however, was a full second under the Seattle (Wash.) star's time for that distance and her furious closing drive enabled her to break Miss Madison's 500-yard record by a second and a fifth.

LOS ANGELES, March 22.—Honors being even in their series to date, the Cubs and Pirates will cross bats this afternoon in the third game of the set. The Bears came from behind yesterday to defeat the Buccos, 8 to 5, but Gibby's fighters were eager for more action today.

Larry French and Waite Hoyt will face the Chicago guns this afternoon. The two clubs will conclude the present series tomorrow. Saturday and Sunday will see the Pittsburghers in competition with the White Sox at Wrigley Field.

Although the series has developed some loose play, there has been nothing to change the viewpoint expressed in these columns which is that the two clubs involved shape up like the class of the National League.

The Cubs apparently will make a strong effort to cop the flag, and, of course, the Pirates are enjoying similar dreams. The pitchers of both clubs leave something to be desired, but the opening of the race is still three weeks away and in that time the sharpshooters should put on a lot of polish.

KLEIN'S HIT WINS

Chuck Klein gave California fans a sample of his wares yesterday. The leading hitter of the National League came through with a cluster of three hits, the last of which broke up the old ball game in the ninth. Chuck singled with the bases packed and one out to untie a deadlocked game.

But the Buccos had the real hero of the game in Arky Vaughan, whose Fullerton friends were on hand to see him shine. The boy wonder carved himself two homers over the right field wall and when he came up in the ninth he just missed a third round tripper.

WORKMEN SET STAGE FOR ERECTION OF WOODEN SAUCER FOR GRIND BEGINNING SUNDAY MIDNIGHT

The hockey and ice-skating seasons being over, there's no further need for the ice covering in Duquesne Garden at this time, and in view of the fact that it was necessary to get rid of the frozen matter in a hurry, the above means was adopted to dispose of it so workmen could go about erecting the framework for the wooden saucer track over which the six-day bicycle race will be held beginning at midnight Sunday. No time to wait for the ice to melt with the squadron of racers due here tomorrow.

P. T. A. CONFAB SET APRIL 10

By PAUL G. SULLIVAN

President J. Phillips Davis, of the Pittsburgh Tennis Association, has arrived home after attending a special sesions of the Middle States L. T. A., sanction and schedule committee at Philadelphia, and forthwith announced that the annual meeting of the district net body has been set officially for Tuesday, April 10, at the P. A. A.

The conclave will be called upon to ratify dates of such outstanding local court events as the Western Pennsylvania and Allegheny County championships and the West Penn and Pittsburgh Center junior and boys' tourneys already tentatively set, but as yet undisclosed, by the Middle States card-compilers.

Though the matter still has to be fixed definitely, it is probable that the Western Pennsylvania titular affair will adhere to its traditional occupancy of the third week in June. Whether or not the championships will be returned for their sixth consecutive stand at the Stanton Heights Golf Club also is an unsettled question.

Davis reported a warmly favorable attitude on the part of Middle States leaders toward added recognition of aspirations of the Pittsburgh racquet group.

Word from Middle States headquarters proclaims that Davis has been named to the sectional ranking committee as well as to the executive and the sanction and schedule groups. Robert C. Schmertz, of Edgeworth, is listed on the executive and the membership committees, while J. Howard Moore, of the College Avenue Tennis Club, has been appointed to the junior development committee.

Karl G. Wolfe, of Stanton Heights and P. A. A., has been delegated by President Davis to head the new P. T. A. nominating committee of three. His confreres are J. M. Dixon, Rockwood enthusiast, and J. Howard Moore. Report will be in order prior to April 10.

A team headed by Seymour Knox, of Buffalo, and including Elmer Boeseke Jr., Billy Post II and Harold E. Talbot Jr., has been selected by the United States Polo Association to play in the leading tournaments in England this summer.

The Sixth Floor team won the championship of the Downtown Y. M. C. A. Dormitory Basketball League by defeating the Twelfth Floor quint, 18-17, last night.

The University of Southern California today announced it would send a swimming team to Columbus, O., in an effort to win the National Collegiate Athletic Association championship which starts there March 30.

Spring football practice at W. & J. will start April 5, the day the annual spring vacation ends, Coach Leroy P. (Hank) Day announced today. A squad of 40 men is expected. All practices will be behind closed gates.

The teams of Carnegie Tech and Pitt are to compete for the national intercollegiate rifle championship as well as regional titles, Saturday. Pitt will compete in the Allegheny shoot at the University of Cincinnati, and Tech in the Middle Atlantic shoot at Annapolis. Shoots are carded Saturday in three other regions, and the national title will be decided on the basis of scores fired at all the meets.

Lewis R. Titus, of Pittsburgh, an outfielder, has been elected one of baseball's two representatives on the athletic council at Manlius School, Manlius, N. Y.

The United States has clinched its international indoor tennis tournament with France, which will be concluded in New York tonight. Lester Bloeffen and George Lott last night defeated Jean Borotra and Christian Boussus in a doubles match.

Emil Loeffler, Oakmont Country Club professional, will leave Saturday on a 10-day vacation trip to Pinehurst, N. C. He will play in the North-South tournament there.

WATSON KEEPS TITLE

GLASGOW, Scotland, March 22.—(AP.)—Seaman Watson, British featherweight champion who failed last year to lift the world crown from Kid Chocolate, retained his title last night by outpointing Johnny McMillan, of Scotland, in a 15-round bout.

BETWEEN ROUNDS

Tony Falco boxes Irish Jimmy Brady, of New Jersey, in Philadelphia tomorrow night. Young Firpo and Tootsie Bashara box a return bout there tonight. Firpo having knocked out Bashara in a round a little more than a week ago.

Tommy Swift, of Uniontown, who has had seven professional bouts and scored six knockouts, is none other than the kid brother of Joey Spelgal.

Ted Yarosz is going to keep busier by engaging in bouts in many cities, his manager, Ray Foutis, announces. He will take on some of the lesser lights in the smaller towns between his big bouts, instead of passing them up to box merely the larger fry, as he has been doing for the past year.

Eddie Zivic boxes Rito Martinez in a four-round return bout at Hollywood, Cal., tomorrow night. Next Tuesday, he meets Davey Day, of Chicago, in the six-round semi-final to Jim Barney Ross-Bobby Pacho bout at Los Angeles. Fritzie Zivic, who is on the coast with his brother, is temporarily on the shelf due to a nose operation to improve his breathing.

SPORT VIGNETTES

So I got to talking about the matter with Hilary Wertz, the bowler and bowling alley manager, yesterday . . . "Why don't you FIND OUT?" I asked . . . Meaning that I wanted him to find out just who is and who isn't the best duckpin bowler in the Pittsburgh district . . . There has been a lot of arguing on this subject for some weeks past . . . Every time some bowler rolls a high score his friends put him forth as the best until now we have a whole flock of best bowlers, and you know as well as I do that they can't all be the best.

Hilary Wertz

"That's an idea," said Hilly . . . "Tell you what I think I'll do . . . I will find out . . . In fact, no sooner said than done . . . You know I'm running the second annual Tri-State duckpin classic on my Strand alleys out in Oakland, April 7-14 . . . I'll get the best duckpinners from all over this section in it . . . So what? So I'll run a special event as an added attraction . . . I'll invite the stars to compete in a special series of five games for the individual championship of the year . . . You know, every man in the tournament will roll nine games, three each in the singles, doubles and the five-men team competition . . . Besides, I'll reserve a couple of alleys on which they will roll for the best bowler prize . . . There'll be only one prize, and that will be for first place . . . It will be a trophy or a gold medal, or both . . . And I'll charge only a 50-cent entry fee, which will just about pay for the bowling and the prize . . . There will be no profit.

"By golly, I'll find out who is the best of all of these 'best' duckpin bowlers . . . I'll invite the likes of Wilkie Lachendro, Joe Winkler, Charley Dashbach, Lou Golvash, Doc Emery, Ducky Henn, Potsy Vierheller, Augie Bissi, Angelo Mussa, George Stoker, Guy Rotonto, Ed Renkey, Joe Homish, Tony Fabio, Bill Lease, Bill Perhacs, Roller Owens, Wash Brumbaugh, Frank Meon and a few others. . . . Before I get through I ought to have about 100 in the event. . . . That is an idea, and we ought to be able to make it an annual competition."

"How about any of the fellows you may miss in your invitations?" I asked. . . "You know there's always somebody you unintentionally forget when you go about doing a job of this sort." . . . "Well, I'll tell you what I'll do about them," said Hilary. . . . "I'll let them come in up to a certain time. . . . I'll set a deadline for entries. "On second thought, it ought to be an open affair."

"But why have them roll five games?" I wanted to know . . . "Because," said Wertz, "I think that is a fair test . . . Anybody is liable to get hot for three games or fall down in a set of three games, but in five games a good bowler ought to hit somewhere around his true average."

So it's all set, folks . . . We're going to find out who is the best duckpin bowler around here, and, if you think you are and don't try to prove it, it will be your own fault . . . Send in your entries to Hilary Wertz, care Strand alleys, Oakland, Pittsburgh, Pa. . . . You can arrange to roll the same day or night you compete in the Tri-State classic, entries for which close April 2, or, if you are not an entrant in that event, at any open time.—HARRY KECK.

KERN, PARTNER GAIN FINALS

Bill Kern, aide-de-camp of Dr. Jock Sutherland in mentoring Pitt's grid campaigners, will strive Sunday to add the city class B doubles handball crown to the Allegheny Mountain Association, A. A. U., junior glove diadem already adorning his blond pate. Paired with his husky P. A. A. partner, Vin McGuinness, the Panther assistant last evening pounded aside Joe and Harry Berman, classy Bellefield pair, in a semi-final fracas of the dual event in progress on the Y. M. H. A. courts since last Monday, and thereby garnered the right to battle the veteran home outfit of Dave Olbum and Sam Gladstone for the title.

Kern and McGuinness defeated the Berman brothers, 21-13, 14-21, 21-17. Meanwhile, Olbum and Gladstone won a 21-20, 21-16 verdict over Dr. Phil Lapidus and Dr. Sam Alpern, club rivals.

VAUGHAN, KLEIN SLUG BALL

the slugging honors with Arky. This glamorous youth drove the ball out of the park by way of the left field wall and made two other hits. In his present clip he is a cinch to run one of the Bruin ball hawks to the dugout.

Leon Chagnon worked five rounds and limited the Cubs to two runs. Meantime, the Pirates had picked up five tallies at the expense of Altoona Pat Malone. Malone was pounded hard; but his departure brought Guy Bush to the mound and the Buccos could not do much with Guy. Hal Smith, on the other hand, was the victim of a cannonading. He cracked wide open in the ninth as the Cubs scored three runs.

Chillysauce

The Hollywood club is in dire need of a second sacker and its president, Bill Lane, wants to talk business with Gibby and Bill Benswanger concerning Pepper Young or Bill Brubaker. Either would fit in nicely in the Shiek's drive for a Coast League flag.

Tut Stainback, new Cub, is just about the best righthand batter I have seen enter the National League since the advent of a Texas kid named Hornsby. Stainback has terrific power. The kid doesn't give a darn about the reputation of the fellow on the mound, he keeps his eye on the rocket and times his swing perfectly. He is a fawn in the outfield and his arm is remarkable. He and Arky Vaughan are about the same age and they are two of the sweetest hitters in any league.

Several of the Cubs owning princely salaries were forced to take reductions in keeping with the times. Among them was Kiki Cuyler, whose pay check for the past two seasons was exceptionally generous. Cuyler was out with a broken leg for many weeks of the past campaign.

Larry French is said to have landed a two-year contract with his Pirate employers as a result of his recent salary squabble. It is the first long-time Bucco document given out for some time. French is only a youngster, but he is a businessman as well as a hustler on the field.

Woodie English and Bill Jurges, of the Cubs, are afflicted with pink eye. To add to his woes yesterday, Jurges was struck in the face with a batted ball. He was ordered out of uniform for the day. Augie Galan looks like a prize package but the new infielder will have to be a wonder to keep English out of steady employment.

Boss Gibson, of the Pirates, is determined to put Cookie Lavagetto through a severe test. Gibby seems serious in his intention to open the season with the rookie at second base in case the 19-year-old Italian boy continues his present form. Cookie was robbed of two hits yesterday. He takes a mean cut at the ball and drives it far. On the defensive he is impressive, but it is his misfortune to be paired with a chap around the bag who needs the steadying influences of a veteran. The kid setup might blow under the strain of mid-summer competition.

JONES TRAILS WITH 76 IN GOLF TEST

AUGUSTA, Ga., March 22.—(AP.)—Playing highly erratic golf around the greens, Bob Jones signalized his return to competition after nearly four years by shooting a 76 for his first 18 holes of play in the $5,000 masters' invitation tournament over the beautiful Augusta National course today. He was four strokes over par and two shots behind his young professional rival, Paul Runyan, of White Plains, N. Y., who carded a 74.

Jones justified some of the worst fears of his admirers by taking three puts on each of the last two holes and otherwise manifesting an uncertainty in his short game that was a far cry from the form the Georgian has been accustomed to produce in open competition.

From tee to green, otherwise, the former world champion played some magnificent shots. He consistently outhit Runyan from the tees on two long holes, the fourth and eleventh, he was home with great wood seconds and putting for eagles. He missed both times, from four feet on the fourth and eight feet on the eleventh.

Bob got down only one sizeable putt, a 10-footer for a deuce on the short fifteenth. He had three birdies, but he was over par on six other holes, all but one of them on the incoming nine. Jones finished 5-5-6, where par is 4-5-4 on the last three holes, and he forfeited his last few chances to stay close to old man par. He was home again in two on the 500-yard seventeenth, but took three putts from less than 25 feet. He took three more to get down from the edge of the eighteenth after missing a chip shot from in back of the green. Jones said:

"When you know you can't sink even a four-foot putt, it makes chip shots more difficult. I was hitting my woods and iron shots as well as ever, but I must have missed at least a half dozen putts of six feet or less. That tells the story so far as I am concerned."

Runyan, although somewhat steadier than Jones around the greens, likewise failed to capitalize putting opportunities, although he saved his pars on at least three holes, with putts of eight to 15 feet, and sank a six-footer for his only birdie on the ninth.

LABOR PEACE HOPE BRACES STOCK LIST

NEW YORK, March 22.—(AP.)—Stocks steadied today under the influence of renewed hope for a peaceful solution of the labor problem.

While both the automobile manufacturers and union officials appeared to be standing by their guns, it was reported the President had not despaired of a settlement of the threatened motor strike. Many equity traders suspended operations while waiting for the late afternoon conference between the Chief Executive and labor leaders. Early adjustment of the railway wage controversy was generally expected.

The ticker tape moved lazily most of the time. Grains, cotton, silver and rubber were hesitant. Bonds were irregular. Foreign exchanges again firmed in terms of the dollar.

The United States Smelting and Refining Company declared an extra dividend of $1 in addition to its regular 25-cent disbursement. In the previous quarter it paid an extra of $3.50 a share. The company announced net earnings for last year of $6.68 a share compared with 62 cents in 1932.

The feeling in Wall street was that, while the labor impasse was serious and anything might happen, it was highly improbable that the administration would permit a major strike which would impair the vigor of business recovery.

Interest in some of the nonferrous metal and gold stocks was attributed partly to the belief held by various professionals that these issues have led recent rallies and might be at the forefront of another advance. There was no especial news to account for the activity in this group.

There was, of course, some inflationary sentiment discernible. Followers of the so-called inflation issues have not given up the idea that, in order to further raise the commodity levels, the price of gold must be given another upward tilt.

There were many conjectures in banking circles as to the plan which the Treasury will adopt to meet the maturity on April 15, of some $1,000,000,000 of called Liberty Loan 4½s. It was thought by several banks that a long-term bond issue at a lower interest rate would be decided upon. A bond offering of this sort, it was believed, would be over-subscribed on a cash basis, because of the huge excess reserves of the banks, and holders of the maturing loan could be paid off in cash.

Further indications of economic improvement were seen in the report on the country's bank clearings for last week. These showed a gain of $299,586,000 to a total of $5,156,839,000, or a percentage increase of 13.2.

WHEAT CLOSES UNSETTLED

Reports indicating widespread need of soaking rainfalls in Spring wheat territory both north and south of the Canadian boundary were a bullish factor. Much notice was also taken of Washington announcement that the Senate Finance Committee had adopted an agriculture department recommendation to reduce from 5 cents to 1 cent per $100 value the tax on commodity exchange transfers of produce.

Wheat closed unsettled, at the same as yesterday's finish to ¼ cent higher, May 87 1/4-3/8, corn ⅛ off to ¼ up, oats unchanged to ⅛ advance, and provisions unchanged to 10 cents decline.

Bank Call Impends U. S. Treasury Hints

Last year because of the bank holiday the first 1933 call was delayed until June. This year with the banks considered by officials to be in excellent condition, especially with the bolstering of millions of Reconstruction Corporation funds, a much earlier call seems in order.

The last national bank call was for the end of 1933 and the one before that was for October 25. Three are required each year.

Armour Chairman Says Plan Ready

Fear Grips Business Leaders

By B. C. FORBES

Many men of affairs have again become hesitant.

The cause?

Washington, and uncertainty over how Washington may act toward powerful labor leaders.

Mr. Forbes

Notwithstanding that the general economic condition has continued to show improvement, employers are disappointed that Washington has given no clear-cut indication that it grasps the importance of making it possible for business enterprises to earn a living. Also, they feel that high-up NRA officials have encouraged unionized labor to become more dictatorial.

Sentiment at the moment is also unfavorably affected by current labor disputes.

All this is reflected not only by the irregularity in security, commodity, metal and other prices, but by the curtailing of promotional and sales activities by various organizations. There has been a regrettable slackening of the "go-ahead" spirit.

The next move of the pendulum will be determined by Washington.

RARELY DURING the last 30 years have heads of companies been as reluctant to express openly their views as they are today.

I have approached almost 100 executives during recent weeks in the hope of finding them willing to record publicly their reaction to events. Not more than one in 10 has felt free to talk for publication.

The underlying truth is that most men carrying big responsibilities feel, rightly or wrongly, that they are now living under something savoring of an autocracy, or bureaucracy, and that they might invite reprisals were they to criticise anything proposed or done by Washington. They ask:

"You don't want me to be cracked down on, do you?"

The fear today is not of the law but of bureaucrats. Few employers regard themselves as in a position safely to stand up against dictation as Henry Ford has done.

This is hardly a healthy state of affairs in a commonwealth so largely dependent upon industry and business for its prosperity, is it?

THE NATION will not breathe comfortably until the threatened automotive labor crisis has been definitely averted. Much less concern is harbored over railway wages; it is generally taken for granted that either the present scale will be extended for six months or that the roads will restore the 10 per cent cut.

Something far deeper, far more fundamental than any wage-rate is involved in the automotive dispute. It is interpreted by most thoughtful citizens as entailing issues affecting liberty itself.

The outcome of this dispute is expected to make plain whether America is to become a "closed shop," whether organized labor is to become the dominant force in the whole land, a sort of super-government, or whether the majority of employers will continue to preserve friendly, cooperative relations with their workers and the latter's own representatives.

Chickie's Daughter

CHAPTER XXIV.

There was a tropic charm about Vivian. She sat at the table with 30 prettier girls, yet she stood forth limned like a flame. At some angles her face was ugly—almost grotesque; yet it had a warm, wild, seductive appeal.

Copper red hair went in a single deep wave to a coil at her neck. Her eyes, large, intensely black, were of a decided almond shape. Brown, silky brows followed their slant with a long upward curve.

She was Vivian Drake, senior at college and a leader in the sorority to which both Kathleen and Pippin now belonged. On the first day of the fall quarter Vivian said to Pippin: "You and I are roommates." Pippin felt as though the door to rich strange adventure opened. A new world beckoned. And indeed, it did.

"Like Cleopatra," Pippin told her mother. "She's the first really exotic woman I ever met, and has she S. A.! It's tangible like a perfume. You should see the men die for her! She's brilliant, too, mother.

"Even the girls are crazy about Vivian. Makes it nice for me. There's always a little crowd and lots of exciting talk in our room. Why, it's almost as if thirty novels were unfolding before your very eyes!"

These meetings were wine to Pippin. They had the intimate tang of Janina's talk. They made her heart surge. Thirty girls told each other how to get "A" grades in this course, how to buffalo the professor in that. They analyzed life, men, love and each other with the most brazen audacity.

Different Types

They told Colleen Lowell, a homely girl with flat boyish figure and gay impudent manner why she was so popular and had half a dozen dates for every night in the week. They told Sue Gordon, a loveable girl and much prettier than Colleen, why she was a "flat tire" and unnoticed by men.

Sue got bids even for the big dances only through the incessant protection of her sisters. None of the girls could understand why Sue was neglected. They worried about her. They offered advice.

"The trouble with you," said Alice Steele, who had big dreamy ox eyes and a sensuous figure, and who had been engaged for two years to John Lloyd, "the trouble with you, Sue, is this: You don't make a man cozy. You're afraid of him and you treat him as though he's God.

"You call it conceit, Alice, but it's just my righteous self-esteem. I know I'm good. They can like me or leave me. I love myself enough for two."

"Exactly," said Alice, who was a graduate student, majoring in psychology and who thought she knew all the turns and twists in the blind alleys of the human mind.

No Bid for Dance

"Colleen thinks she's good. She thinks she's witty and she flings her brightness in a fellow's face as though her words were melted diamonds. Conceit gives her that glib assurance. Conceit sells Colleen's freckles where Sue can't put over dimples. The world always takes you at your own valuation. Just think you're worth a million dollars and you've taken the first step toward collecting that price."

"It's not conceit that attracts a man," said Paula Mead, who was little with a budding figure and dewy eyes. "It's the way a girl walks. A very fine doctor who's just come back from Vienna says any girl can show all the S. A. she needs if she just learns how to walk."

"How?"

"Why didn't he tell us before he told Mae West?"

They all began to talk. They forgot Sue and that she had no bid for the dance. Sue got up with a whimsical smile:

"I've a history paper to write. Guess I'll leave the conquest of men to those who have the power to accomplish it. Unless that art is born with you, all the teaching in the world won't give it to you, it seems."

Vivian went over to her desk, passing Sue and putting a friendly arm about her waist.

"You're not interested in men, Sue. That's the reason they don't notice you. Not interested in MEN, but waiting for the MAN. You'll blossom under love where you fold up and perish under mere sex excitement. The Sleeping Beaux that the Great Prince alone can awaken."

Vivian gave a tart smile to Alice: "You can have that gem for your master's thesis, Havelock, and no credit demanded."

Vivian opened her books and began to study. The room emptied. She seemed deep in a pit of silence and concentration. Suddenly she shoved aside papers and addressed Pippin.

Humdrum Future

"Isn't it tragic, the barren lives some girls are in for? Can't you just see the humdrum future before Sue? She'll go through college without any big excitements. She'll meet a good man, fall in love and marry.

"She'll probably have three or four children and get dumb-driven because she hasn't face enough to see motherhood as an adventure. The flat commonplace existence nine out of ten women in this world accept! There's no need for it."

"Except," interrupted Pippin, "most people are paupers in spirit. They don't know how to dream and demand. They could have vivid, colorful lives, too, if they'd imagination enough to clamor for them. But they sit stupid, like cows, and take what they get."

Synopsis

Pippin, pretty daughter of Chickie, falls in love with Kevin McPike. Pippin and Kevin's sister, Kathie, are fast friends. Pippin is thrilled by the first real kiss she ever had—from Kevin. When Kevin goes to Europe to pursue his studies, Pippin meets Bill Lodge, a young ensign. He says he loves her, but Kevin is first in her thoughts. At a friend's home, Chickie meets Barry Dunne, the man who caused her so much sorrow. Chickie is afraid she will have to tell Pippin of her past. Pippin goes to a party with Bill, but after returning seems unhappy. She tells her father what she heard about her mother, and that she thought him responsible. David explains to her what really happened and Pippin is again happy. Chickie tells Pippin the real story of her life. Pippin goes on hikes with Gregg McClintock, senior at college. Jon, her brother, talks to Pippin about Gregg's intentions.

Now Go On

"I won't!" said Vivian, eyes flashing.

They climbed into Pippin's little car.

They went flying down the highway toward San Jose. Passing a wide field, Vivian said:

"I want to get out and run through that grass. Let's stop."

She took Pippin's hand. They ran through the deep weeds—back and forth until they were breathless and exhausted. Vivian looked up with a gleeful smile.

"I feel better. Now we can go home."

Another time toward the end of October she drove with Pippin to San Francisco. It was a Friday night and 9 o'clock when they left the campus.

"I'm frightened. Something might happen."

Declines Invitation

"Let's go back," Pippin whispered.

"Will you dance with me?"

She gave an odd smile to Pippin, looked into the man's face and nodded. The strange man flushed and took Vivian in his arms.

Pippin's pulse knocked excitedly in her throat. She saw a stocky fellow with stiff pompadour and little slits of eyes, approaching. He asked for a dance. She shook her head. Other men spoke to her, slouched away awkward and rebuffed.

Then a tall, rather thin fellow—something of a dandy with hair peeled back and a smile in shifting, pale blue eyes, came up and put his arm about Pippin's waist:

"Let's dance."

"Thank you. I'm not dancing."

He gave Pippin a narrow, appraising look, spied the sorority pin and said:

"High hat, aren't you?"

Wants to See Life

"I've seen all I want. Let's go," she whispered.

"Gonna give me your name and your telephone number?"

"I'll be seeing you again man."

He flushed and looked pleased, like a boy.

Pippin's hands were shaking. She fumbled with the gears. She had a wild fear the man would follow.

But Vivian took off a little black hat and let the wind blow through her hair. She said, musing:

"Why did you go in?"

"I've been wanting to visit one of those places. Sherry wouldn't take me. You don't live, Pippin, unless you see all sides of LIFE. I mean to! They've kept women blind so long; made us walk one little narrow path. In the name of virtue crush down joy; quench all our flame; kill off until we're nothing but pale ghosts functioning like automatons.

"Not even half alive . . . nothing but chill habits in whom the spark is out. It's wrong! It's death. But I want Life . . . want it free . . . beautiful . . . undiluted and brave. We can have it."

While Gen. Grant was besieging Petersburg (south of Richmond) the Confederate commander, Gen. Lee, sent his Gen. Early to raid the Shenandoah Valley and attack Washington, D. C. Early drove Union Gen. Hunter from his positions and defeated Gen. Wallace near Baltimore. His thrust against Washington was frustrated. One of his detachments, sweeping northward, burned Chambersburg, Pa., July 30, 1864.

Executing Gen. Grant's orders, Gen. Sheridan moved against Early, defeating him disastrously (Winchester, Sept. 19; Fisher Hill, Sept. 21). Early, in his renewed attack on October 18, was routed by Sheridan. Buchanan Read immortalized this episode in his famous poem, "Sheridan's Ride." (U. S. History—Civil War)

VIENNA PRESENTS KEYS TO NAPOLEON—VICTOR ON LAND

Breaking the second European Coalition with arms and treaties (1800-1802) Napoleon turned to internal reforms. He centralized the government, restored the Church, invited emmigres to return, established the Bank of France, reorganized the educational system and gave a code of law—his main achievement.

His dream for a colonial empire was frustrated. Louisiana, ceded by Spain under pressure to France, was sold by him to United States, 1803. Fitting his imperialistic policies with which he expanded France's territory, and his position as de facto ruler, he became emperor, 1804.

Alarmed, the European powers formed a third Coalition against him. Napoleon struck before they could fully prepare. He forced Vienna to open her gates, defeated the combined Austrian-Russian armies decisively at Ulm-Austerlitz (Dec., 1805). The Austrian emperor, Francis II, lost vast territories to France. (Treaty of Pressburg, 1805).

Napoleon, victorious on land, was defeated on sea. British Admiral Nelson destroyed the united Spanish-French fleet at Trafalgar (Oct. 21, 1805). Nelson being mortally wounded. (World History)

HAIR AND NAILS—DERIVATIVES OF SKIN

Our hair, nails and teeth are modified tissues of a common origin with the skin, similar to the scales, feathers, fur, claws, horns, etc., of the animals. Above: Sections of a nail and a hair. Nail grows in a depression, the bed, from the matrix, part of dermis, observed externally as the white half-moon shaped area called the lunula. Injury to nail may result in loss of it; a new one will grow in about three months as long as the matrix is intact.

The skin, except few areas like palms, soles, is studded with hairs varying from the fine down, lanugo, to the stiff hairs of eyelashes, beards. They grow in pits, the follicles, from the vascular papillae. When papillae are destroyed as result of nervous or circulatory disorders, hair cannot be restored. A common cause of baldness is dandruff due to bacteria (very contagious). Remedy: Keep scalp clean with mild soap, massage.

After a Painting by Edward Savage

LIFE OF GEORGE WASHINGTON—HIS FAMILY CIRCLE

"Life of Washington" is the magnum opus of Washington Irving, who completed it in 1859, shortly before his death. It is a biography of the great patriot and the history of the Revolution shaped by him. Free of sentiment and exaggeration, it is accepted as standard authority. Above painting pictures George Washington with his wife Martha and children by her former marriage, Martha and John Parke Custis. Of all Irving's biographies, his "Life of Oliver Goldsmith" (1849) was the most spontaneous and perhaps the best. (Prof. Beers) (American Literature)

METALS—ARRANGEMENT OF THEIR ATOMS

Metals are chemical elements of chief characteristics: 1, they form basic hydroxides (which neutralize acids); 2, they give simple + ions (in watery solutions of their hydroxides or salts); 3, they reflect light when polished; 4, they conduct electricity and heat well; 5, generally they are malleable (except mercury that is liquid) and ductile (1 gram gold can be drawn into wire of 3,240 meters).

Metals are generally crystalline. Atoms of noble metals and best conductors are arranged in the face-centered cube lattice; the less ductiles in the body-centered cube lattice system (above).

Metals are won from ores, found in nature. Free metals being melted out; oxides reduced by hot coke or carbon monoxide; carbonates, hydroxides and sulphides are converted first into oxides by roasting. Some metals are obtained from their hydroxides and salts by electrolysis. (Chemistry)

DRAINAGE OF BUILDING FOUNDATION AND BASEMENT

Ground water reduces the bearing value of the soil. It may cause sagging of walls, wet basements; hence the necessity of drainage (creating an outflow for the collected ground water).

Above: Various drainage systems of foundation walls, of whole foundations and of basements; the latter being least effective because it does not prevent the water soaking through the outside walls. (Gen. Science) (38-III—A)

Guess Who's Back Again?

Casey has one weakness among many. That's for bright, sparkling collar belts. He likes 'em green, red and purple at the same time.

He also likes his batting record. He will weep for hours over the home runs he lost when the pitcher stopped them on the first bounce.

We will not discuss the time he thumbed his beezer at the Giant rooters. Casey has always regretted that action because he didn't have three more thumbs and Schnozzle Durante's trumpet.

Newport and Palm Beach dropped Casey like a paper bag full of red hot rivets. But since he has bobbed up again in Brooklyn it shows he is fighting his way back.

They can't keep Casey out of the best society. His taxicab service in Toledo is rated very high. He travels with 30 trunks. All of them jammed full of brightly lithographed neckties. He changes them with his moods. When arguing with an umpire he wears one made of barbed wire dotted with snake eyes.

Don't think that Casey wasn't a real baseball player. He was out there a good many years until his legs got so heavy his knees used to sprain his ankles.

No matter where he is he is good company. On the bases, in the field, the bench, hotels or trains. When he gets mad he is no longer a company. He is a regiment. He includes the baseball bat in his code duello and paws the turf like the Bulgarians charging down the mountain side.

Managing the Brooklyns will not change Casey's career in that town. He will still sit on the bench. Same as he used to do when he was playing with them.

Commendable Publicity

The Medical Society Is to Be Congratulated On Its Psittacosis Policy.

In gratifying contrast to the reticence of Public Health Director Ray P. Moyer in respect to the parrot fever outbreak is the policy pursued by the Allegheny County Medical Society.

It was from the society's magazine, the Pittsburgh Medical Bulletin, that the people of this city first learned of the appearance of the disease here, and at its meeting Tuesday night to discuss the situation no disposition was shown to forbid publication of the proceedings, but on the contrary the newspapers were aided and encouraged to publish them.

The society thus expressed its confidence that the people, if given full information about a dangerous condition, can be depended upon to conduct themselves prudently.

It is the "hush-hush" policy such as Director Moyer has been pursuing that makes trouble. First it prevents the adoption of adequate control measures, and then, when the news gets out—as it almost invariably does—such a policy of secrecy makes the people suspect that the situation is worse than it really is and so tends to breed panic.

We congratulate the Allegheny County Medical Society on its frank presentation of the case and on its zeal and diligence to protect the people's health.

How He Can Find Out

Mayor McNair Does Not Have to Run for Governor To Learn People's Opinion of Him.

Mayor W. N. McNair's petition as a candidate for Governor has been filed.

That he should seek another office within a few months after having been elected to serve a four-year term as chief executive of Pittsburgh will seem to many of doubtful propriety.

Mr. McNair says he is running to find out what the people think of him.

It is not necessary for him to go to the polls to find that out.

If he will attend to his business as Mayor he will not have any trouble telling from the expressed sentiments of the citizens what they think of him.

Better Polling Places

The Improvement Directed by County Commissioner McGovern Will Be Appreciated.

Chairman C. C. McGovern, of the Board of County Commissioners, has ordered a much needed improvement in directing the Department of Elections to do away with polling places in alleys, garages and other locations likely to prove repellent to women—or to men of delicate sensibilities.

When the suffrage was granted to women it was recognized that it would no longer do to invite the voters to cast their ballots in places of the character of many of the rooms and buildings that had previously served as polls. But while some improvement has been made, there are still a number of uninviting polling places, and it is against them that Col. McGovern's order is directed. They are to go, and in their place schoolhouses, if available, will be utilized; and if schools are not available vacant land will be rented and new polling places built.

Col. McGovern has ample justification for this policy, and it will be appreciated.

The citizens should be encouraged in every reasonable way to perform the civic duty of voting, and they are not encouraged but discouraged if they are required to visit dingy, dirty localities in alleys to cast their ballots.

He Speaks for America

Lindbergh Voices the Opinion of All Right-Thinking Citizens on the Air Mail Mess

Well done, "Lindy!"

This is the country's verdict on Col. Lindbergh's voluntary appearance before the Senate Post Office Committee and on his lucid, straightforward and manly replies to the questions addressed to him. It was a Lindbergh day.

The largest room in the Senate Office Building was chosen for the hearing, as it was safely assumed that the appearance of America's super-ace, the foremost flyer in the world, would stir great public interest.

His inquisitors were Senate politicians who are trying to pull the administration out of a bad hole. Like politicians, these Senators feel that the best way out of a blunder is never to admit it. Realizing that the civil aviation companies have been condemned without a hearing, the administration Senators are trying to make it appear that the companies were not entitled to a hearing.

They are trying to build the uncorrected injustice of such treatment into disabling conditions affecting the established companies as bidders under the new contracts, proposed in substitution for the old, which were cancelled without inquiry, examination or trial.

An American of the Lindbergh type naturally will not be a party to such a scheme!

"I feel that these charges," said he, "should have been definitely established before these contracts were cancelled. I feel it was the right of my companies, the public and my own right to have them definitely established.

"I say this only in the interest of what I most deeply believe to be right."

These words express the opinion of every right-thinking American. What else COULD BE the opinion of a right-thinking man?

Referring to the provision of the proposed new legislation prohibiting operators whose contracts were thus unfairly annulled from bidding on new contracts unless they waived any claims against the government, Col. Lindbergh called it the most "unjust act ever placed into American legislation."

It is refreshing and invigorating when a man of such captivating a type as Col. Lindbergh, of so distinguished a record of valor and achievement, thus gives voice in ringing and forthright speech to the feelings of his countrymen.

But there is more to it than the feeling of approval it inspires.

HERE IS THE NOTE OF TRUE LEADERSHIP!

The gallant flying record, the simplicity and modesty that won our hearts, the thrilling exploits which have drawn the homage of the world, are apparently only a part of "Lindy."

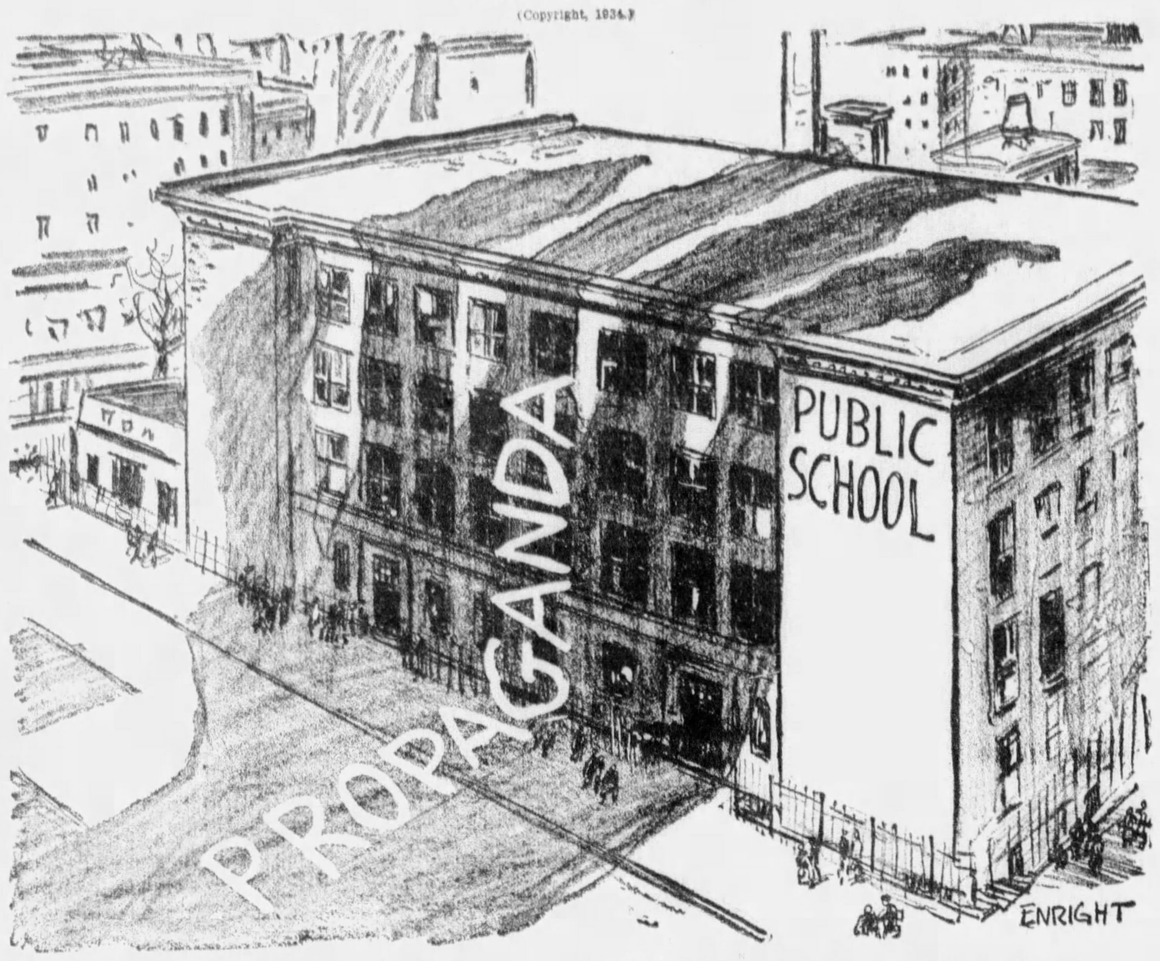
There is a maturing man in his young head and breast.

The physical and moral courage of the youthful aviator is passing into a finer and perhaps a rarer courage—the courage of the fearless and high-minded citizen.

Such a man has great tasks ahead of him—rich possibilities of service to his country!

The Shadow

(Copyright, 1934.)



"As the twig is bent, the tree inclines!"

Acting upon the old folk saying, propaganda has established a habit of invading the American public school and college system.

A few years ago it was the "Power Trust," an American growth, that succeeded in editing text books and influencing educators, in some instances, to promulgate its doctrine.

Next, the internationalists and advocates of unpreparedness devised ways and means of putting their "literature" into school libraries, of "persuading" teachers and lecturers, and of organizing student groups to foment disloyalty.

Such declarations as, "We will not serve the flag, even in a just war or a war of self defense," were produced by this un-American activity.

And now, Communism—a foreign thing, entirely—hopes to undermine American institutions by teaching the young generation to "see red."

The American people, who support the public schools and colleges, must put an end to these practices.

Education, and not anti-American propaganda, is the function of the public school system.

NEW YORK DAY BY DAY

By O. O. McIntyre

NEW YORK, March 22.—Wall street continues to simmer, but will not boil. Yet it remains one of the most optimistic strips in the metropolitan area. Many efficient traders have deserted board rooms until the sun shines, but the hangers-on are still there. Hoping!

The most striking change is noticeable at the noon hour, when clerks and stenographers used to overflow the sidewalks. Now the mid-day escape is a mere riffle. Lunchrooms that once had lines of the waiting are only comfortably filled. There are no noonday spreads on Trinity's graves.

The string of costly limousines that used to begin the parade downtown at 10 a. m. has shrunk to a straggly few, and the morning flotilla of yachts that steamed from Long Island estates has diminuendoed to zero. Wall street is using the subway and elevated.

It is estimated clerical forces have been shucked down more than two-thirds, and that breezy optimist known as the customer's man is almost extinct. Houses that had as many as 20 telephone girls have been getting along nicely with one or two, thanks.

Every man has stored in a spare locker of his brain a restaurant he visits but seldom but looks upon sentimentally. Mine is Fraunce's Tavern on the lower tip of the island, where Washington bid farewell to his troops. When existence becomes gray and oblique, I like to drop in there. One almost expects to find a Doctor Johnson lifting a tankard on one of the well polished benches. The waiters, in colonial costume, are plump and of high cheer and it's a sane place to sit meditate and paint your picture of the future, if any.

To enjoy the mirths and moods of the gay Broadway crowds, I find no place equal to Lindy's. It offers the fairest cross section I know of the amusement world—clear, merry, audacious. A sort of informal anthem of song-and-dance men, radio artists and headline figures of stage and cabaret. It is dedicated to the Gay White way resolve to show-off and accomplishes it with a bang.

* * *

Sutton Place, which mushroomed out of slum muck around East Fifty-seventh street into one of the plushiest mid-town strips, is threatened with disintegration on account of its acute traffic problems. So congested is the peacock area and so scant are transportation facilities, people who live miles away are able to reach the theater and restaurant zones more quickly. As a result, many are trying to get rid of their leases and unless some arrangements are made in a jiffy realtors fear a wholesale exodus. Like an abandoned mining camp.

In the meantime placid Greenwich Village is on the upswing and threatens to become a residential Valhalla again. Nearly all its Bohemian fakery has vanished and artistic crowds, sans smocks, sandals and berets, are moving in. Nutty cabarets and other circusey slap-trap are dying off and the waffle and coffee parlors filling with people of real talent once more.

* * *

Pierre's, which got off to such a bad start it required a bankruptcy bath the first year, is also swinging into line. For a time, being so far uptown, it seemed a colossal pounding blunder. While it's not yet out of the red apartments are filling and the restaurants under the direction of the celebrated Theodor are receiving good play, especially among the debutantes. The Waldorf, next to the Ritz, has made the most gallant comeback out of the long travail. Since the first of the year its rooms, save for drops here and there, have been at 90 per cent capacity.

Best of the Lambs Gambol skits concerned a prisoner in his cell, beating his breast and tearing his hair. A guard advances with a package. "Have you got it?" inquires the prisoner, in fevered husk. The guard tells him to produce the money and the exchange is made. Deliriously he unwraps the package, a megaphone, and in a sudden purr of contentment begins softly to croon: "I'm just a vagabond lover!" Black out!

LISTEN, WORLD!

They Took Off Their Sheitels for Her

When Lillian Wald went to Henry street, Leah Rosenheim was wearing a sheitel. Leah was young and lovely, with a silky tumble of bronze-tipped curls around her slender face. But over those curls, whenever she walked the street, Leah wore a wig of coarse, dyed hair.

For Leah was a bride, and it was against the Orthodox Jewish law for a wife to appear in public without such covering. Indeed men might—men had—divorced wives who did so.

So Leah, like every other modest Hebrew wife on Henry street, wore a sheitel. And the shadow of the ugly thing fell over her wistful eyes, her sensitive mouth—even, in some strange way, over her spirit. Not that Leah minded, or even questioned, the sheitel in itself. Her mother and grandmother had worn sheitels, too. All decent, old-country wives had worn them, putting aside their youth with their wedding day, and been content.

But Leah was not content. What was the reason? She only knew that, here in America, something was different. In spite of that great, splendid New York . . . in spite of the exciting crowding and clamor of Henry street . . . she was lonely; she felt shut out. Why? Leah didn't know.

But Lillian Wald—out of the wisdom of her friendly, tolerant heart—knew. Though she understood and respected the desire for purity and family dignity which lay behind the orthodox law, she also saw that the wearing of sheitels, like many another old-world custom, branded the wearer as "queer" in this new country . . . built walls about her behind which a sensitive heart agonized in loneliness.

And so, while she sought to preserve the spirit of all the religious laws and racial traditions which governmented this "melting pot," she set herself, gently, to removing those cruel walls which ignorance and intolerance had built between human beings. And she did this because she found it it her own finest adventure.

Thirty years ago Lillian Wald started her settlement house in that spirit. She did not go down to Henry street with her nose in the air seeking a career, or a harp and halo. She did not feel that she was doing Henry street a favor for which Henry street should be grovelingly grateful.

SHE WENT TO FIND LIFE FOR HERSELF—TO GIVE LIFE TO OTHERS—BELIEVING THAT ALL HONEST LIFE IS GREAT LIFE. AND RESPECTING THE OTHER FELLOW'S LIFE AS MUCH AS SHE DID HER OWN.

So Lillian Wald met lonely young Leah, and all the other bewildered ones who had come so far seeking a splendid, free new home, only to find themselves shut out. And she TAUGHT THEM HOW TO COME IN.

So presently Leah had taken off her sheitel, and was learning how to bathe and dress her baby in modern ways. And there was a pleasant house . . . with Russian boys and girls dancing in one room . . . And Swedish mothers studying diets in another.

AND, OUT OF IT ALL, A NEW VISION OF DEMOCRACY WAS GROWING IN HEARTS THAT HAD BEEN HOMELESS . . . A NEW HUNGER FOR BEAUTY STARTING IN BRAINS THAT HAD BEEN BEFUDDLED OR BRUTALIZED BY POVERTY.

For thirty years Lillian Wald had been doing this for America . . . and herself. And because she has done it with warm, personal joy and eagerness, her work is one of the noblest things in America today. Nor can you really know your country unless you know about that house on Henry street. So, if you're in New York, go down and see it. And if you can't, do the next best thing—read her book, "WINDOWS ON HENRY STREET."

It isn't a literary document. It's a friendly, rambling sort of talk about life in crowded city blocks—about worried, fussy, foolish, frightened, lazy, lovable people who are of-a-piece with all the rest of us—THAT STRANGE, RICH, CONGLOMERATION FROM WHICH AMERICA IS MADE.

A simple story, seemingly. But when you've finished it, you've heard about the biggest problems which confront us today—the problem of youngsters who are our potential gangsters—of the neglected mothers and babies who are blackest national shame—child laborers—pitiful, feeble old men and women who, all too frequently, die in back alleys like lost curs—tenement congestion—bread lines.

Lindbergh Testimony Hits Politicians, Intriguers

By James T. Williams, Jr.

Truth is a torch, but a terrific one; therefore, we all try to reach it with closed eyes, lest we should be scorched.—Goethe.

IN the largest committee room of the Senate Office Building in the Federal city, a modest young American gave testimony the other day that scorched the slanderers of our defenders who fly the colors—the living and the unnecessary dead—as only truth's terrific torch can burn.

Col. Lindbergh began his testimony by vindicating the valor and the skill of those heroic victims of what has been denounced in both houses of Congress as "legalized murder"—the officers of the Army Air Corps who were needlessly sacrificed in a futile attempt to conceal a colossal blunder, and since he testified, the eleventh victim of that tragic mistake has paid the price—Lieut. R. G. Richardson, Army Air Corps Reserve pilot. He was killed March 17, at Cheyenne, Wyo.

Serious Blow To Aviation Industry

REPLYING to a request for his opinion as to what was the most serious phase of the recent cancellation of all domestic air contracts, Col. Lindbergh said:

"Of course, in my mind, the most serious thing is this action even without a hearing.

"But from an aviation standpoint we have built in this country, without a doubt, the best commercial aviation in the world. There is no other country, nor any other group of countries, that compares with American commercial aviation.

"Now, to break down the system, which is really the backbone of our commercial aviation, has seemed to me an extremely serious blow to the industry, and, I believe, it will take a long time to get back to the position where we were in the beginning of the year."

Then followed this exchange of questions and answers between Col. Lindbergh and Senator Barbour of New Jersey, a member of the committee which invited the Colonel to the witness stand:

"Senator Barbour—Colonel, in the light of what you said about aviation in other fields, have you observed any commercial aviation abroad particularly?

"Senator Barbour—And how does our heretofore service in that respect compare, in your opinion, with the same service in other countries?

"Col. Lindbergh—It is very definitely ahead in service. The performance of our planes is in advance of the performance of the European planes, beginning with the American air-cooled engine and the other equipment, and the gyroscopes are the best, and it can be conservatively said that the American commercial aviation is by far the leading commercial aviation in the word, or was.

"Senator Barbour—For instance, Colonel, is there much night flying abroad?

"Col. Lindbergh—Comparatively little. Most of the night flying is done in America.

"Senator Barbour—Is it a fair statement that we lead the world in airplane operation from the point of safety, speed and comfort in which we transport passengers, mail and express?

"Col. Lindbergh—Yes—I think that is a fair statement."

Truth Scorches Alien Intriguers

THE terrific torch of truth, borne by Col. Lindbergh's testimony, scorches all those alien intriguers and their dupes, who are doing their best to destroy the foreign market for American aircrafts, and to cripple American air transport as a vital auxiliary of the national defense by broadcasting the falsehoods Col. Lindbergh refuted.

The flames from the same terrific torch will perform another cleansing service if they scorch from public into private life and from the front page to a deserved obscurity those greedy publicity seekers and those fatuous politicians in Congress who have long been guilty of soiling the Congressional Record and the printed hearings of congressional committees with the bought-and-paid-for propaganda against our Army and Navy of alien intriguers and their domestic dupes.

A Navy for Defense

By HIRAM W. JOHNSON

United States Senator from California.

(Reprinted from the Congressional Record of March 6, 1934.)

IN A moment of exasperation Edmund Burke once exclaimed: "What shadows we are, and what shadows we pursue!"

As I have listened to what has been said upon the question pending before the Senate, as I have heard it repeatedly asserted that our Navy is equal to that of any other navy in the world, as I hear the repetition constantly that for us to do anything in behalf of our national defense carries offense and hostility to the rest of the world, I have thought, "what shadows we pursue" in a discussion of this sort.

I recall that at the time of the London conference in 1930, with all of the vigor of which I am capable, but with little support from others, I contested what was done in that conference.

I believed then I was right, and I think subsequent events have demonstrated conclusively that I was right.

I saw after that conference other nations building in accordance with what was agreed by that conference. I saw our nation lag in its construction until we were far inferior to the nations that had been the leading consultants and conferees in the London gathering.

I have seen the after effects day by day leave us in a worse position; and now a new administration, thank God, with a realization of what it means to us to have an inferior Navy, asks us not to engage in a naval race, not to endeavor to have any nation in hostility to us in building with them, but simply to grant such power that we may, under the London conference, if the administration sees fit, construct a Navy in accordance with the agreement that was signed at that time.

WHAT is it that there is such a delicate sensibility on the part of other nations that when we do exactly what they do we cause offense to them, and we offer them in reality some undisclosed and mysterious insult by pursuing what we have agreed to pursue and what they have already consummated?

Was anyone here or anyone in our nation offended when Britain went on with the program of the London conference? Has anyone here or anyone in our nation taken an attitude of hostility to Japan because Japan has pursued and carried out the terms of the London conference?

Then why, in the name of common sense, in the name of logic of any kind or any character, should it be asserted when we merely authorize our duly constituted agents to pursue the agreement which we signed at London that we offend and perform an act of hostility to Britain or Japan?

THERE are positions which I can understand and of which I am not critical.

I can understand the man who says that he does not believe in any navy at all and would not build a single ship. I can understand his attitude, because it is caused by a mental strabismus for which he is not responsible and which he thinks means something to the peace of the world. I deny his thesis and I deny his premise in that regard, but I can understand his position and I am not critical of him.

But if we carry to its logical conclusion the attitude that thus is enunciated, then we would not have a ship of the United States of America and no navy at all.

The man who comes from the section of the Union from which I come and will not in accordance with the agreement of his country build a navy such as that agreement will permit, is not alive indeed to passing events and little understands what may occur in the great Pacific and in the Orient within a brief period in the future.

We seek, our country seeks, war with none; we seek to offend none; but within our jurisdiction, under international agreement, we have the right to build exactly as we see fit, and no nation on the face of the earth has the right to take offense in any way or in any shape or in any manner at all.

I DO not like, Mr. President, assaults upon the Navy. I do not like to listen to remarks such as sometimes I hear in the Senate concerning the Navy.

I recognize that there are some few people in the Navy underbred and overfed with whom I would rather have nothing to do; and I recognize as well, sir, that the vast majority of those who serve this nation in the United States Navy deserve of us and of all America nothing but the highest praise.

I cannot forget the glorious past of the American Navy. I cannot forget the deeds of valor and of heroism that have been performed in the days gone by upon the ships that have floated our flag.

I glory in the personnel of the Navy of the United States today. I glory in what has been done by the personnel of the Navy of the United States in the past.

I want a navy, I want a real navy. I want a navy that, either upon the Atlantic or the Pacific, will be able to do all that may be done in behalf of the commerce of this nation, in its protection, and that may, if the worst comes to the worst, finally do what the Navy has ever done for the United States of America.

IT will be, in time to come, our first line of defense. It will be, in days to come, our first line of offense. The gentlemen who decry the United States Navy remind me of those who decried Tommy Atkins, and whom Kipling answered when he said:

"For it's Tommy this an' Tommy that, an' Chuck 'im out, the brute!

And this Navy of ours, with its glorious past, with its personnel today that is doing its full duty, deserves at the hands of the Congress of the United States its full meed of praise.

And this administration that has asked us to pass the naval construction bill, after we have been dillydallying for so many years in the past, refusing to do our plain duty to our people and for their defense—this administration deserves for this one act the very highest praise that can be accorded it.
